

KLAMATH REPUBLICAN

E. J. MURRAY, Editor.

LEADING NEWSPAPER OF INTERIOR OREGON.
TWO DOLLARS THE YEAR IN ADVANCE.

Klamath Falls, Or., Thursday, August 23, 1906.

ERROR CORRECTED.

In our interview with A. H. Naftzger last week we quoted "the mayor of the city served upon a copy of an instrument which he said the city council would pass the following evening." This should have read "there will be presented for adoption at a meeting of the city council, to be held at the city hall, Tuesday, etc., an ordinance, a copy of which is herewith delivered and served upon you."

KEEP AT IT.

Is there a man in the United States of matured years who, after changing his location time and time again, cannot look back and say of almost any of the places he has lived, "I had only staid." The opportunities are not all in one place. They are scattered broadcast over the land and it is the fellow who goes to work and keeps at it, not the one who goes moving about, that wins. Sometimes a change is desirable, but ten men lose by moving where one gains. In every place are a few men who have driven their stakes and are making money, while lots of others are making their board and clothes.

What is the cause of this run-about spirit? In most cases it is dislike for anything like steady employment. It is easy to start fresh and bright in the morning. Everything looks fair and promising, but when it comes to bearing the heat of the day, continuing from morning till night, we, in a majority of cases, are not there.—Salem Journal

KENO KINKS.

The excursionists from Portland, to the number of forty-nine, came from the railroad by stage to Keno, and were met by a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce of Klamath Falls. They were all jolly good fellows. Some of the party were in such a hurry to get to Keno that they left the stage and came ahead on foot.

Clyde Nickerson, in company with another engineer, is sounding the Klamath river above Keno to see how great is the depth.

Our school m'am returned to Keno a few days ago preparatory to commencing school on time. It is to be hoped that the school will be well attended, for in this age the young should be equipped with a good education.

Mrs. Snowgoose was taken ill a few days ago and Dr. Maston was called and soon gave relief, but she is still quite feeble. It is to be hoped that she will soon be fully recovered.

Charles Snowgoose went to the Falls and invested in a washing machine. The man who realizes that his wife needs all the modern labor saving appliances is to be commended.

J. B. Richardson was in Keno from Picard Tuesday.

Will Davis was in Saturday.

George Otey sent his beef wagon to Keno Monday and says it will be back again Thursday.

To see the logging wagons standing on the street awaiting repairs would make one believe that they were doing business. The blacksmith is kept constantly on the move.

George Trefern and daughter Ruth were here from Ashland on business.

F. L. Padgett was in from Picard visiting friends and relatives the other day.

J. A. Walker's boys from Ashland came in a short time ago. One is working for K. A. Emmett and the other for Frank Nelson in the hay field.

(On account of the lack of space in our issue of last week we were obliged to leave the above items out.)

The Delineator

For September

The Delineator for September is packed with good reading matter for everyone. The woman of fashion will find much of interest in the many pages devoted to dress, millinery and neckwear; and those who are otherwise inclined may derive a great deal of pleasure and entertainment from the literary features provided in this number. Barry Pain, the well known humorist, contributes the first chapter of "The Diary of a Baby," a story that promises to be one of the brightest and cleverest this author has ever written. Everyone must enjoy the observations of this precocious baby, and follow with amusement its budding career.

The Williamsons' delightful story of a motor boat and its jolly crew in Holland is continued, and those who admire the two famous authors of motor stories will learn much of them from their personal side in an article contributed by John Harvey. There are short stories by Ellis Parker Butler, Tudor Jenks, and an article of practical value on "How Not to Spoil the Hair," by Juliet Marion Lee, a specialist in this line. Housewives will welcome the advent of M. Jean Marie Devaux, a celebrated authority on cooking, as culinary editor of the magazine. A feature of special interest in this department is "The Culinary Dictionary," giving the meaning of the terms used in cooking and menu-making, which is to be continued from month to month, until completed, and along with a series of

A NEW CRATER LAKE DISCOVERED.

Judge C. B. Watson of Ashland, W. M. Wynne of Portland and J. S. Taylor of Klamath Falls have returned from a trip of four days at Crater Lake and the trip was replete with valuable discoveries from the standpoint of a geologist. Judge Watson has made a study of the subject since having visited Crater Lake in 1872 and the awe inspiring sight brought forth a desire to master the subject as thoroughly as possible and his discovery of a second crater lake within itself and located on the island joined by the former eruption, is one that will be hailed by scientists throughout the world. The newly discovered crater is below the cone on the island and is perhaps one hundred and twenty-five feet in width with the appearance of great depth on account of being full of water, and with a lava formation showing that the cone of the volcano had worn the crust or shell in such a manner that at a later period it had been able to force its way through at the point named. This in addition to the discovery of a new glacier of considerable size on the mainland, just southwest of the island, will make an interesting study for geologists.

QUAKE DESTROYS CITY

Telegraphic news informs us that the city of Valparaiso, Chile, South America, was almost totally destroyed by an earthquake followed by a fire that destroyed the ruins in much the same manner as San Francisco was destroyed. The shocks were felt Thursday night and extended throughout the Andes mountain region and the loss of life will be very large. Great fears are felt in marine circles for the port is an open one and many vessels may have perished.

Valparaiso is situated on Valparaiso Bay and has a population of about 100,000 people, composed of a mixture of Spaniards and natives with a considerable number of Spanish blood and a few Europeans and Americans. The city has suffered often from earthquakes and the houses are built very strongly and mostly of adobe and one story in height.

Authentic reports as we go to press inform us that every city in Chile has been destroyed. Loss of life 5,000 and may exceed that.

The people of Oregon, as well as those everywhere are specially interested in the fact that there are good fire insurance companies and had fire insurance companies and it is to be hoped that for his own protection every man who carries fire insurance or every man who should carry fire insurance and don't do so, will look over the list of reliable companies and be guided accordingly.

The Campbell Power Printing Press Just Installed by The Republican.

The circulation of the Republican has grown so fast, that the old-fashioned method of printing the paper was inadequate, the result being that The Republican has been late in making its appearance for several weeks past. This growth necessitated better facilities, and a Campbell Power Printing Press was purchased, and was installed this week. It is the first power press to make its appearance in Klamath county. The placing of this immense machine required so much time that we are necessarily late this week; but, barring accidents, it will be the last time. This is only another step in the direction of our efforts to make The Republican the best paper in the state.

ABANDONING USE OF MEAT

Consumption of Fruits and Vegetables Is on the Increase in This Country.

Striking though the decline in meat consumption as shown by the census report is, none of us will take it as evidence that we eat less generously than our ancestors. Indeed, says Pearson's Magazine, Americans as a people never fared better in food than they do to-day. To make up for the decreased meat diet there is but one way to turn. Have we increased our vegetable food—our wheat, corn, oats, potatoes, garden vegetables, fruits, sugar?

The census gives interesting results. In 1850 Americans consumed 430 bushels of wheat for each 100 persons; in 1900, 623 bushels—a very marked rise. Corn and potatoes give very similar percentages of increase. But the most surprising change is in the consumption of oats, presumably on account of the improved methods of the manufacture of oatmeal; 90 bushels in 1850 to 386 bushels in 1900—over fourfold in 40 years. During the last decade, however, the consumption of oatmeal has lost ground relatively, dropping to 361 bushels for each 100 persons. This decrease is probably due to the substitution of other "cereals" and "breakfast" foods, which have in some families wholly taken the place of oatmeal.

Now, take the market garden product, fruits and sugars. Anyone who will stop to think of the present day grocery store with its rows upon rows of inviting canned goods—tomatoes, corn, peas, beans and all manner of fruits—and of the excellent displays of green vegetables and fresh fruits, from huckleberries to watermelons, will find himself convinced of the important part these foods play in our common diet. And then our candy item, our preserves item; no one whose memory can supply a comparison of the candy stores of 30 years ago with those of to-day can fail to be impressed with the increase of sugar consumption. Here, indeed, the figures tell a striking story. In 1850 each man, woman and child in America ate 23 pounds of sugar; in 1900, 65 pounds of sugar. And in the 20 years since 1880 the consumption of market garden products and fruits has increased more than threefold.

And here is another interesting point. Ten years ago potatoes outranked market garden products more than two to one. The last census puts them in the opposite relation, potatoes falling behind by nearly $10,000,000. One of the most striking features of this increased eating of market garden products is indicated by the remarkable increase of land covered by glass to supply our modern bills of fare with early and late "green stuff." It is scarcely a dozen years since this increase began its expansion and yet the census of 1900 reports over 300 acres of land covered with glass in New York state alone and nearly as much in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, with over 200 acres each in Illinois and Massachusetts.

BUFFALO FOR THE MARKET

Pawnee Bill Buys Up Loose Bison and Makes Good Profits in Unique Enterprise.

Some three or four years ago Pawnee Bill bought up all the loose buffalo obtainable and declared that he would raise buffalo meat for the market. The buffalo butcher has been a success, as there is now a large bunch of as fine young buffalo as was ever seen, being corn fed, and they will be slaughtered and shipped east for the holiday trade.

An experiment of crossing the buffalo with Galloway cattle will be made, which should bring an animal far surpassing the genuine buffalo, as the Galloway animal is of itself very handsome, with a long, silky coat and a kindly disposition, which should temper the fiery disposition of the genuine buffalo, as well as improve the color of the robe. The average price per pound of buffalo meat is about $1.25—the loin and short ribs bringing $1.50 per pound—while the plate and stew bring about one dollar. The robe brings $75; the heads, when mounted, readily bring $75 to $150 each, according to size and quality. Both the heads and robes are very handsome when taken at this season of the year, as they then have their heavy winter coat.

Oklahoma in years past was the paradise of the buffalo. Here is where the heaviest growths of buffalo grass are found, which to the buffalo is equal to the richest timothy to our domestic animals. Pawnee Bill's ranch lies in the heart of this excellent range and he has proven beyond a doubt that the buffalo can be raised for slaughter at a profit.

"MRS." NOT ON TOMBSTONE

On the Shaft It Is Generally "Wife of" in Referring to the Deceased.

How often one hears the expression, "She just got married because she wanted to have Mrs. put on her tombstone." Now, this seems a very peculiar statement to the average listener, says the Philadelphia Record, but, as a matter of fact, there are few tombstones that have "Mrs." on them, as very recent interviews with grave diggers and church sextons have demonstrated, so the woman who intends plunging into matrimony with the idea that she is going to be known as Mrs. Jackson or Mrs. Blackson after death had better hesitate before she takes any desperate step.

Even after death a married woman is only considered a part of her husband's property, for out of several hundred tombstones investigated none had the appellation Mrs., while every one had "Sarah, wife of," or "Jane, wife of." When the investigator asked an old sexton well versed on tombstone lore if there were any tombstones with "Mrs." on them he replied: "Well, I've been seeing to the burials of married women for the last 50 years, but I ain't never seen a tombstone yet that had a 'Mrs.' on it."
