KLAMATH TROUT

What Lippincott Has to Say About Them.

The following is taken from the October Sunset:

J. B. Lippincott, the government engineer who is helping the city of Los Angeles to develop its Sierra water supply, went fishing lately in upper Klamath lake. He caught a lot of fish but one especially nearly three feet long. He wrote about it thus:

"This trout was thirty-four and three quarters inches long, twenty-two inches in girth, and weighed twenty-one pounds. It was caught on the morning of June 20th, from a boat on the clear water of Pelican bay. I used a ten-ounce rod, with an eight-foot leader, and an Abalone shell spoon, about four inches long. It may be seen in the photograph hanging beside the fish's head. I had a single gut, eight-foot leader, and a light line. It required thirty minutes to bring the fish to gaff. Mr. Kendall, who owns the lodge, pronounced it a Silver Lake trout. It was a true trout, however, having eleven spines in its dorsal fin. Mr. Flynn, of Sacramento, who holds the gold medal issued by San Francisco's Midwinter Fair for long distance fly casting, was with me in the boat when the fish was caught, and it would have been impossible for me to have landed him if it had not been for his skillful handling of the boat and gaff.

"The fish jumped free from the water at least half a dozen times, and took us twice across the arm of Pelican bay where we were fishing, during the time we were fighting him. We found the flesh most excellent, and finely flavored, and it was sufficient for eighteen people at a dinner given in honor of the trout. An interesting thing about this fish was, that when he was cleaned, a mullet, nearly ten inches long, was found in his stomach.

"On the previous morning, the two of us—Mr. Clapp, of Pasadena, and myself—caught twenty-eight pounds of trout weighing six pounds and less. I consider the fishing around upper Klamath lake the finest that I have ever found in the United States."

You will miss it if you don't buy a lot in the Hot Springs Addition.
