J. H. and Joe Hossig of the Klamath Telephone and Telegraph Company, were in the city Friday.
The Express is now located in the Murdoch block, immediately in the rear of the new postoffice.
Several lots have been sold recently in the Hot Springs Addition. The early buyers have first choice.
Pinkerton & Fiebler lost one of their barges on the Upper lake last Friday. It was loaded with cord wood, and was swamped by the high waves.
Mrs. Elias Oberchain slipped and fell at her home Monday morning and sustained a fracture of the arm near the wrist, both bones being broken.
Sauer Kraut and Cabbage: Jim Straw uses only 1st cabbage in his Kraut. He has a few 19, 30 and 50 gallon barrels left, also some fine Cabbage. Residence west side of bridge.
11 9 4
Capt. O. C. Applegate returned from the Agency last Thursday, where he was engaged in assisting Indian Agent Wilson in the work of apportioning the $25,000 allotment to the Indians.
Miss Lyle Watson, who was for some time employed as stenographer in the office of County Clerk Chastain, has accepted a position in a like capacity with the Southern Pacific railroad in Ashland, her home.
Thad McHatton will shortly open a jewelry store in the Klamath Commercial Agency's building. He is now in San Francisco purchasing stock and fixtures. Mr. McHatton has a host of friends in this city who are glad to learn of his decision and who wish him success.
The family of J. M. Pinkerton arrived here this week from Wisconsin, and will make Klamath Falls their permanent home. Mr. Pinkerton is a member of the Fielder-Pinkerton Fuel company, and since his arrival here has demonstrated he will be a valued addition to the citizenship of this city.
T. W. Stephens, just plain Tom, for short, has been elected one of the directors of the Bidwell Gold Mining company, the capital of which is $1,000,000. The property owned by this company is considered very valuable, and it present indications continue for any distance, will return handsome dividends.
Charles Woodard last week completed repairs on the rock crusher, and work is now being carried on on the road to Altamont. This will be passing news to the country in general, for the road had become almost intolerable. The delay in completing this work was due to the breaking of the crusher arm, and required a great deal of skill to make the repairs.
The C. I. and S. I. club was entertained Halloween evening at the home of Miss Flo Shive. Games were indulged in and spooky pranks played. Refreshments were served and the young folks had a most enjoyable evening. The guests were Misses Edna Houston, Bertha Hammett, Len Leonard, Fannie Virgil, Maud Nail, Florence Boorey, Hazel Koile, Ruth Smith, Lucille Cox, Faye Hogue and Agnes Marple.
Dr. G. W. Maston left Saturday for the east, to be absent about six weeks. He will take a post graduate course while there and will also undergo an operation for the removal of a portion of the bone in his injured leg. Ever since the injury which resulted in one of the most remarkable and courageous surgical operations in the medical annals of the coast, the doctor has suffered considerably, and he hopes to secure permanent relief through the present operation.
Honest values and low prices is our motto. The great amount of money we have spent in the last few months is only a drop in the bucket compared to what will be spent on improvements within the coming year. The question has often been asked, why do the Hot Springs Improvement Co., spend so much money on their property? The answer is that we have confidence. Not only in the upbuilding of a great city here, but confidence in the wide awake energetic people of Klamath Falls and vicinity, and it gives us great pleasure to announce that out of over $75,000.00 worth of property sold in the last few months, over $45,000.00 has been sold to Klamath Falls people. Quite a number of lots have been resold at an advance of from fifty to seventy-five percent on the actual money invested, and in order that those seeking investments in our beautiful addition may familiarize themselves with the fine wide streets and boulevards, we will furnish them a map if they will call at the office.
HOT SPRINGS IMPROVEMENT CO.,
Campbell & Burns, Agts.

This concern is rapidly forging to the front on the Pacific Coast as reliable collectors and it has built-up for itself an enviable reputation for honesty and square dealings with its clients.
The merchants of the State have long felt the need of a company to which they could give their overdue notes and accounts for collection with the assurance that all monies collected thereon would be promptly remitted.
The Company numbers among its customers the leading business firms of Portland, and its policy of making no charge whatsoever unless collection is made, seems absolutely fair.
This paper is satisfied that the Company is reliable and we therefore have no hesitancy in recommending it to our patrons. See their ad on page 8.

GOING TO KENO?

A Bridge Kept in Repair by Mussels.

The byssus, or silky beard, by which the mussel moors itself to the stone, is a familiar object of our sea rocks. It is in its nature like the silk of the silkworm and exudes in a glutinous thread from an organ at the base of the foot. The following is an instance in which the mousing of the mussel was useful to effect a purpose which human skill could not accomplish: A large bridge, with twenty arches, in the town of Hildesford, in Devonshire, crosses the Torridge river near the spot of its junction with the Taw. The tide flows so very rapidly here that it was found impossible to keep the bridge in repair by means of mortar. The corporation therefore keeps boats employed in bringing mussels to it, and the interstices of the bridges are filled by hand with these mussels. It is supported from being driven away by the tide entirely by the strong threads which these mussels fix to the stonework, and by an act or grant it is a crime liable to transportation for any person to remove the mussels unless in the presence and by the consent of the corporate trustees.—Scottish Nights.

The Rolling Passion.

No self respecting actor will admit that his show is not drawing full houses every night. One of the profession who plays juvenile parts recently met a leading man on the Rialto. The leading man was dressed in deep black. There was a wide band of crape on his hat, and he had discarded the patent leather shoes an actor loves for others of a subdued polish that spoke of grief.
"What's the matter?" asked the juvenile.
"My father is dead," answered the leading man in a heartbroken voice.
The juvenile expressed his sympathy.
"When did he die?" he asked.
"Last week. We buried him today—a nice funeral," answered the heartbroken one.

"Large attendance?" asked the juvenile.

A smile of enthusiastic delight flashed over the mourner's face. "Large attendance!" he cried. "My boy, we turned 'em away."—New York News.

"Hail Columbia's" First Reading.

"Hail Columbia" was written in 1798 by Joseph Hopkinson when congress, in session at Philadelphia, was debating what attitude to assume in the struggle between France and England. Party feeling ran high, and the air was surcharged with patriotic enthusiasm. A young actor in the city who was about to have a benefit came to Hopkinson in despair and said that twenty boxes remained unsold, and it looked as if the proposed benefit would prove a failure. If Hopkinson would write him a patriotic song adapted to the tune of "The President's March," then popular, it would save the day. The following afternoon the song was ready. It was duly advertised, the house was packed, and in wild enthusiasm the song was encored and re-encored.

One Side of the Mouth.

Did you ever meet a stranger who talked from one side of his mouth, usually in an undertone and with his eyes wandering while talking? The man's manner is not an indication that he is weighing his words or has something important to tell. It is almost a sure sign that he has spent years in jail. This manner of talking is acquired in prison, where conversation among prisoners is prohibited and where the men have to talk out of one side of their mouths in order to prevent the keeper from noticing that conversation is going on. The habit sticks to the convicts for years after they get out.—New York Press.

One at a Time.

Women do not mass as well as men do. They lose by aggregation. A street car full of women makes walking seem attractive. A regiment of men is pleasing. A regiment of women would be disturbing. So there are some flowers that, although individually charming, do not bunch well. Taken in large groups, women are objectionable. It is as individuals or in small squads that they are so incomparably interesting.—Life.

Two Points of View.

On one occasion, at a party given by Sir John Millsie, Lady Haille rose to play the violin, when to her intense amusement she heard Landseer exclaim: "Good gracious! A woman playing the fiddle!" On the other hand an old-fashioned nobleman when he saw a gentleman sit down to the piano contemptuously remarked, "I wonder if the creature can sew."

Going to a Lecture.
