

GREATEST OF EXPOSITIONS

Of all exhibitions held in the United States since the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876, the Jamestown Ter-Centennial to be held on the shores and waters of Hampton Roads, near the cities of Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News, Va., April 26 to November 30, 1907, is to be the most unique, and in originality and novelty will completely eclipse all previous Expositions.

The celebration commemorates the most important event in history—the founding of the first English-speaking settlement in America, at Jamestown, Va., in 1607, where Captain John Smith and a small party of colonists established a village from which has grown America, with nearly one hundred million population. The celebration will show the remarkable position attained by the United States in history and education, together with the marvelous industrial development and commercial expansion during three hundred years.

Contemporaneous with the Exposition will be held on the waters of Hampton Roads the greatest naval pageant ever witnessed in the world, in which every type of war vessel from the navies of all foreign nations will participate. Another attractive feature will be the international military encampment in which detachments of troops of European countries will unite with the soldiers of the United States in a series of drills, maneuvers, parades, etc.

More than twenty-five exhibit palaces are now nearing completion, comprising Auditorium, Manufacture and Liberal Arts, Mines and Metallurgy, Marine Appliances, Machinery, Food Products, Arts and Crafts, Transportation, Social Economy, etc., in addition to the government and states buildings and pavilions. They will be of semi-permanent construction and in appointments will excel any similar group of buildings ever erected. In architecture they will all be of the colonial period, forming an appropriate setting to the natural beauties of the environment.

In assembling the exhibits, especially those representing the varied industries and the liberal arts the managers of the Exposition have been careful to select only such as show the latest and best attainments in every line of industry. Hence, it will be the first "selective" Exposition ever held in the United States, in which every phase of commercial and industrial development will be displayed so arranged and classified that visitors may obtain an intelligent understanding of the history and growth of any specific branch of the trades and industries' without the necessity of visiting other buildings to inspect another part of the same exhibit.

It is within a few hours' travel of more than 21,000,000 persons, and twenty-four hours of two-thirds of the entire population of the United States, easily reached by seven trunk lines of railways and twenty-six lines of steamships, which center at the Tidewater cities of Norfolk, Portsmouth, and Newport News.

World's Fairs have been the time-keepers of progress, but the Jamestown Exposition is the advance agent of higher civilization, which will create an era of increased prosperity and material advancement, and at the same time will more than realize the prediction to be the greatest, most gorgeous and novel celebration ever undertaken in the United States or any foreign country.

Everybody's Magazine for December, 1906

The Christmas Everybody's is full of overflowing with the holiday spirit, as indicated by the character of fiction, essay, and verse, but at the same time the serious undertakings of a purposeful magazine are not neglected.

There are ten well known writers of fiction represented in the number, and five important special articles.

Anotable contribution is the first installment of Thomas W. Lawson's story, "Friday, the 13th," a dramatically interesting romance of Wall Street and its ramifications. It has been the general expectation that Mr. Lawson could tell an intensely interesting story, but few have guessed his command of a vivid and finished narrative style as applied to the purpose of fiction.

"The Terrible Story of the Congo," by Robert E. Park, is a bitter arraignment of King Leopold and a full exposure of the most unjustifiable conditions existing in the civilized world today.

Charles Edward Russell, in his "Soldiers of the Common Good," continues his account of the marvellous success of New Zealand's "Lion" government along the lines of experimental legislation.

But, after all, this is a Christmas magazine, as Eugene Wood's "A Christmas Thought" and Vance Thompson's "Where the Toys Come From" will indicate. The former, full of the kindly humor of the gentle philosopher, tells some interesting facts regarding the origin of toys, and preaches at the same time a valuable Christmas sermon.

Among the short stories, "In the Deep of the Snow," by Charles G. D. Roberts, is a thrilling story of a little child lost in the Canadian winter woods—surely as fine a piece of fiction-work as its author has ever done. Mary Heaton Vorse contributes a dainty tale that marvelously interprets the heart of a child.

A remarkable feature of the Christmas Everybody's is the reproduction in color of Alphonse Mucha's paintings illustrative of the Beatitudes. Nothing more remarkable has yet achieved by this great French painter, the fame of whose religious and allegorical pictures is already rivaling that of Dore.

The Christmas Delineator.

The December Delineator is a typical Christmas number. It is sufficiently premature to assist Christmas-makers with its hints for Christmas gifts and holiday entertainment, besides containing an abundance of reasonable literature calculated to fit in from now until New Year's Day. Maud Ballington Booth contributes a most touching description of the work of the Volunteer, "Christmas Sunshine in the shadows," Christmas stories for adults are "The Evergreen Tree," by Marion Anne Taggart and "The shoplifter at Satterthwaite's" by William Hamilton Osborne, and those for children "The Blue Kimono," by Virginia Woodward Cloud, and "Betty Evolves a Christmas Idea," by Elizabeth Preston Badger. Agnes and Egerton Castle's romance, "A Young Conspiracy," and Anthony's Hope's short story, "The Duke's Alibi" seem especially suitable for reading on winter evening. But the crown of the Christmas literature is Edwin Markham's splendid poem, entitled "The Great Feast Comes." It is illustrated in colors by J. C. Leven decker. The serial stories, "Frau Schmidt and Mr. Anstruther" by the Countess von Arshin, and "The Chantrelle and the Chaperon" by the Williamson, are continued, while Barry Pain's "The Diary of a Baby" is concluded. Essays for every-day are, "The Savagery of Superstition," by Lillian Bell, "Eliminating Non-essentials," by Lida

Churchill, and "Pulling Together Through a Crisis," by William George Jordan. David Belasco contributes a most interesting description of "Making the Play Again Best." The usual amount of space is devoted to up-to-date fashions in garments and millinery, and practical papers and departments for housekeepers.

To the People of Klamath Falls:

When I came to Klamath Falls I was fortunate enough to find a "ground floor" proposition in the Mitchell ranch, known by all old timers for its splendid soil, fine orchard and ideal location as "the best ranch in Klamath County."

Through the co-operation of men of wide experience in land matters this tract was acquired and has been cut into small tracts and offered at prices and on terms that will enable the purchasers to realize handsome profits. A portion of this has been platted into blocks and lots and is now the Mills Addition to Klamath Falls. It was the original intention to dispose of this addition in blocks only, but so great has been the demand for single lots that I have decided, for a short time, to give the people of this city and county an opportunity to buy in smaller area than originally planned.

The Mills Addition is located within about a thousand feet of the yard location of the California Northeastern Railway and within about three blocks of the depot site, as indicated on the new City Map. It is admirably located for homes, with the natural slope for drainage, requiring very little grading to make the streets, every lot being practically level and now in alfalfa, timothy and meadow grasses. Its location insures rapid increase in value, for the greatest growth of the city will inevitably be towards this property. I have the fullest confidence that this property will double in value in the next year.

It is the purpose to sell this property at a price that will allow the lot buyer to make something on the investment just as you are willing that the present owners should do likewise. These lots are to be offered one block at a time, beginning with one of the unsold blocks nearest the depot location (Block No 102) and the prices will be $200 for the corner lots and $125 for inside lots.

The lots are 50x120 feet, and this price makes them by far the best lot bargain offered in Klamath Falls.
