John Estog, who was this week hit by a street car in San Francisco, was formerly a bartender for F. A. Clubine of Merrill. He left that city a short time ago for Sacramento. Just prior to leaving he was the victim of a semi-confidence trick that caused him to leave. A man who had been in the habit of having checks paid at the saloon, presented one for $10.00. Estog did not look at it, but asked the man how much it called for and the latter replied $50. This amount was paid over to the fellow. When Clubine returned the mistake was discovered and after considerable trouble the amount over-paid was recovered.
