LEADING NEWSPAPER OF INTERIOR OREGON.
TWO DOLLARS PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

Garfield Not Coming

The statement that Secretary of the Interior Garfield would come to this city and officiate at the turning in of the water into the great government canal, is erroneous. While Mr. Garfield will make a trip to the West, it is out of the question that he will be able to come here at that time.

Weyerhaeuser Buys

The long standing negotiations for the purchase by the Weyerhaeuser Timber of the Moore Brothers holdings were finally closed during the past week, when most of the timber land owned by these gentlemen was acquired by the big company. The deal did not include the saw mill and Messrs Moore are making preparations to resume immediate operations. The purchase of the mill was one of the chief stumbling blocks in the way of closing the deal and when McCormick was here last fall he stated that his company was adverse to buying saw mills. The decision of the Moores to retain the mill and keep enough timber land to admit of its successful operation removed the last obstacle in the way of the sale.

An Earthquake?

Something happened to old mother earth along the river front Tuesday and Wednesday mornings and as a result distinct "shivers" were felt by many of the residents living in that vicinity. The shock Tuesday morning was severe enough to cause a slight break in the flume of the Light and Water Company where it enters the power plant. The disturbance is undoubtedly local and is probably due to the continued blasting for the excavation of the tunnel and the quarrying of stone for the rock crusher.

J. W. SIEMENS, City Treasurer.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. John W. Brandenburg and family desire to express their gratitude to their many friends for the great kindness shown them during their recent bereavement, and take this method of giving expression to their feelings.

It has been decreed by Dame Fashion that visiting cards should not be written. Accordingly, those who wish to lend knee to this inexorable old lady should call at the Republican office and leave their order for cards. This office has just purchased the latest styles both of type and cards and is prepared to do work for you that is unsurpassed for style and quality.

Notice For Bids

The committee on building of the board of trustees, of Grace M. E. church of Klamath Falls, Oregon, will receive bids for the erection of a church building on their lots north of the public school, until 12 o'clock noon, May 25, 1907. All bids to be accompanied with a certified check for $200. Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the secretary. We reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

J. F. CROFT,

Secretary Building Trustees.

Dated at Klamath Falls, Oregon, this 7th day of May, 1907.

Munkacsy's Customer.

It is not generally known that the first patron of Michael Munkacsy, known to the world as the painter of "Christ Before Pilate" was an American, a gentleman from Philadelphia, who passed through Dusseldorf when Munkacsy was a young and struggling artist. The American became convinced that the young Hungarian's pictures had merit. He bought one, took it to Paris and sent it to the salon, where it was promptly placed and attracted a great deal of attention.

Car Piercing.

Miss Skremer—Papa says if I give up my singing lessons he'll give me a pair of diamond earrings. Miss Sharpe—You've never worn earrings, have you? Miss Skremer—No; I'll have to have my ears pierced. Miss Sharpe—Oh, I see his idea! He wants to pay you back in your own coin.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Incomplete Letterist.

Hubby—Wife, dear, why are you frowning so over that letter you're writing? Wifey—Oh, I carelessly said everything I had to say before I signed it, and now I can't think of a thing for the postscript.—Boston Transcript.

The Proper Side.

Farmer—So you've had some experience, have you? Youth—Yes, sir. Farmer—Well, what side of a cow do you sit on to milk? Youth—The outside.—London Tit-Bits.

Recollection is the only paradise from which we cannot be turned out.—Richter.

How a Clever Engineer Conquered a Mechanical Difficulty.

Almost every boy has built dozens of dams in various ways, constructing them across the bed of the channel, wide or narrow, to be dammed. But did any boy ever think of building a dam on end and then tipping it over? An inventive American engineer, Isham Randolph, who became famous by his work on the Chicago drainage canal, has tried this idea on the Niagara river 200 yards above the Horseshoe fall and made a remarkable success of it.

Of course an ordinary dam could not easily be built in the fiercely racing currents of Niagara hurrying to plunge over the fall. So Mr. Randolph decided to build his dam on end on the very edge of the river. It was not meant to do more than raise the water level a few inches, so as to prevent water scarcity in winter for the Canadian town of Niagara Falls when the ice jam comes on. A dam seven feet or so high was enough and fifty feet long. Turned on end, this meant a column fifty feet high and seven feet four inches square. The clever engineer used concrete as the cheapest, easiest and least corrosive material. But any column of any material was certain to break in the shock of falling. How was that to be provided for?

Easily enough, the inventive builder argued. Up the middle of the concrete column, like a huge backbone, he ran a strong iron chain weighing about 800 pounds. The whole column weighed some 200 tons. At intervals eight feet apart all the way up it along the landward face wooden wedges were inserted, so that in breaking it would follow these lines and break into regular blocks, held together by the chain. The plan was audacious, but entirely practical—a true "Yankee notion." On Nov. 9, 1905, the finished dam was sent flying over by three hydraulic jacks. Amid the breathless interest of a large crowd of spectators the concrete column fell, splashed and settled. When splash and spray subsided there it stretched, broken at the destined points, tilted a trifle irregularly in the middle, where the river bed was higher, but quite effectual. The depth of water increased ten inches at once. The "obelisk dam" was a success.—William Rittenhouse in Forward.

WEDDING SUPERSTITIONS.

A bride who finds a spider on her wedding dress may consider herself blessed.

The bride who dreams of fairies the night before her marriage will be thrice blessed.

If the bridegroom carries a miniature horseshoe in his pocket he will always have good luck.

No bride or bridegroom should be given a telegram on the way to church. It is positively a sign of evil.

If the wedding ring is dropped during the ceremony the bride may as well wish herself unborn, for she will always have ill luck.

Kiss a bride right after the ceremony and before the newly made husband has a chance to do so, and you will have excellent luck throughout the year.

Should a bride perchance see a coffin while being driven to the railway station prior to departure upon her wedding tour she should order the driver to turn back and start over again, or else she will surely meet with bad luck.

New York's First State Prison.

The first state prison in New York state was built at the foot of West Tenth street, in New York city, in 1797. Within seven years there were three mutinies of prisoners, in which keepers were killed and the prison set on fire. Nevertheless the institution seems to have been considered an attraction, as appears from the following advertisement of the Greenwich hotel, printed in the Columbian of Sept. 18, 1811:

A few gentlemen may be accommodated with board and lodging at this pleasant and healthy situation, a few doors from the state prison. The Greenwich stage passes from this to the federal hall and returns five times a day.

The prisoners were transferred to Sing Sing in 1823, and the property was sold the next year.—New York Press.

The Law's Delays.

A lawyer on being asked why his profession is always in court asking for delays and adjournments responded: "I have observed in my long years of experience that when a lawyer has a very good case he is anxious to try it. If he has a poor one the longer he can delay it the better it suits him. There is no telling what the accidents and incidents of time may supply in his favor. Another reason perhaps," the lawyer continued, "is the fact that a lawyer never feels like prying himself entirely away from a case until he has to. I concede that this is one of the mysteries of the legal mind."—Kansas City Star.

A Judge of Eggs.

Judge Addison, a well known jurist of London, was in the habit of indulging in the oddest observations while trying cases. On one occasion opposing lawyers were wrangling over the question, "When does an egg become stale?" The judge, who had vivid recollections of a close election contest in which he figured, declared that the real test of an egg's staleness was the moment it became fit for use at a contested election.

Timber and Timbre.

Blobs—Beautiful! Exquisite! Her voice has matchless timbre! Siobbs—Timber? It sounds to me like a whole sawmill in operation.—Philadelphia Record.

New Addition

Owing to the rapid sales of South Midland townsite property, the management has found it necessary to plat another addition. The new addition has just been filed with the County Court and lots are now on sale at the offices of Croft & Nowlin and Mark L. Burns.

This new section is the most desirable and best located of the entire townsite. It is within three minutes walk of the Midland Depot and consists of a 40 acre tract of rich alluvial land sloping gently from the East to the very edge of Lower Klamath Lake at the point where the railroad reaches the Eastern shore. There is no more slightly location for a town in the state of Oregon, and the great scope of rich country surrounding it gives assurance of its future prosperity.

Nine out of every ten persons who have visited the townsite of South Midland have purchased lots. There is no safer or surer investment in Southern Oregon. Only the advent of the railroad is necessary to start the rapid building and development of the town, which is destined to be the future rival of Klamath Falls.

For further information inquire or address CROFT & NOWLIN or MARK L. BURNS, Klamath Falls, Oregon.

A Clear Title

In our vault at our offices we have a complete transcript of the records of every deed and mortgage ever recorded in Klamath County. We have completed a perfect system of indexing and transcribing these records at a cost of several thousand dollars, and if there is a flaw in the title to a piece of land an abstract prepared in our offices will show it. If an abstract prepared in our offices shows a land title to be good the title is good and you can bank your money on it. We are prepared to guarantee our work.
