LEADING NEWSPAPER OF INTERIOR OREGON.
TWO DOLLARS PER YEAR IN ADVANCE

THE DANIELS SCRIP

In allowing what is commonly known as the Daniels scrip, after its disallowance throughout all the departments of the land office, thus depriving a number of settlers and claimants of land in this county, the Secretary of Interior has evidently made a grave error. It is more than probable that the homesteaders and timber claimants side of the case were not very ably presented to the department. The main question has evidently been between the Government and the scrip men and there has been nobody to say a word for the individual claimant. If his intervening rights had been properly looked after there might be a different story to tell. It was evidently a very close case and the claims of the settlers and the timber and stone claimants might have easily been changed the scale, had their voice been heard.

It has evidently been one of those cases where it was properly the business of too many people to look after a certain thing. Had it been one man instead of forty, there would have been no such division of responsibility and the one man could have taken care of himself. Most of the claimants were entirely ignorant of the question or indifferent to it, with the result that they have gotten into a fair way to lose their rights unless they take proper steps to secure a reversal of the present decision.

FOR THE COOK.

Crystallized Oranges

Make a syrup of one pint of water to one pound of sugar. Boil till a candy forms around the edge. Then dip into the syrup, oranges that have been peeled and quartered. Let drain in a warm place, till the syrup crystallizes.

Potato Cakes

Two cups cold mashed potatoes, yolk of one egg, two tablespoons thick cream, a half cup cracker crumbs. Form into cakes and fry in hot fat. Serve very hot. Next time you will wish for more cold potatoes; then increase other ingredients in proportion.

Boston Brown Bread

Mix together one cup of Yankee rye, one of cornmeal, and one of whole wheat flour. Add a level teaspoonful of baking soda to a pint of thick sour milk; when foaming add a half cup of molasses. Turn this into the dry ingredients, add a teaspoonful of salt; turn the mixture into a greased brown bread mold, and steam continuously for five hours.

Egg Sandwiches

Mash the yolks of hard-boiled eggs to a powder, moisten with olive oil and a few drops of vinegar. Work to a paste, add salt, pepper and French mustard to taste, with a drop or two of Tabasco sauce. Now chop the whites of the eggs as fine as possible (or until they are like a coarse powder), and mix them with the yolk paste. If more seasoning is necessary, add it before spreading the mixture upon sliced graham bread.

Waffles

Pass through a sieve, together, two cups of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat the yolks of two eggs, add one cup of sweet milk, and stir into dry ingredients with four tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Lastly add the whites of two eggs, beaten dry. Have the waffle iron hot and well oiled, put a tablespoon of batter on each section, set the cover in place, and when baked to a golden brown on one side turn and brown on the other.

Orange Pudding

Pare and cut into small pieces six oranges. Sprinkle over them one cup of sugar. Put a pint of milk on the stove let it come to a boil. Mix well together the yolks of three eggs, two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch and half a teaspoonful of sugar, and stir this into the heated milk until the whole is smooth and well cooked. When this is cool, pour it over the oranges and upon this put the whites of the egg beaten with sugar into a thick frosting. Keep this dling on the ice or in a cool place until it is served.

Pressed Chicken

Stew chicken until tender, remove bones and gristle; season enough of the broth to cover the meat; cover with a plate weighted down. Slice when cold. Another way. After removing the bones from tender chicken, chop fine and add half as much bread or cracker crumbs as there is meat; season with salt, pepper, butter—and sage if wished cover with the liquor, place in a mold and serve cold in slices.

DAIRY

Dairy is pleasantly situated on the west side of Yonna Valley, near the center of Klamath County. It has two good general stores with enterprising, up-to-date dealers who enjoy a large trade from surrounding valleys; a hotel and feed barn, and a school house. It is surrounded by a rich farming community with which it is connected by a farmers' telephone line and also a long distance line. Is on the stage line, twenty miles east of Klamath Falls.

Mrs. Theo. Flackus has been quite ill for some days, but is not thought to be in any danger.

I. F. Davies, the merchant-postmaster of Dairy, has recently made some considerable additions to his store-room, having removed the postoffice to a more convenient place at the front of his store, and has removed his granary along side the store.

Eddie Sedge quit work on the ditch at Olene last week, along with several other men, because the foreman required them to work in the water. He returned home.

T. P. Michael, A. L. Michael and David Shook went to the Falls Monday, to attend court as jurymen.

The rainy weather of the past week has been entirely unprecedented in extent, at this time of the year, so old settlers say, in this valley. The ground has taken a most thorough wetting, and the crops and all kinds of vegetation are growing very luxuriantly.

Prof. Charles Cooper, late of the Bonanza school, is teaching for the present month in the Hildebrand district, and is giving excellent satisfaction.

Mrs. Chas. F. Drew is visiting friends at Picard and Beswick, Calif., while Mr. Drew is at home attending to his farm work, but anxiously watching the mail, for letters. Of course his great anxiety is alone (?) for the children.

Frank Morine started with a team for Ashland Tuesday of last week. It is expected that Mrs. John Shook, who is on a visit at Portland, will return with him when he comes back.

Charles Carlson, the mail carrier between Dairy and the new postoffice at Yonna, makes his semi-weekly trips with great regularity. He carries the mail in a pouch a trifle larger than a pocket-book.

The newspapers printed in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys boast of having had a heavy snow-fall on the 27th of May, with a fruit-killing frost following it. We can go them one better than that. We had a snowstorm (of small proportions, it is true, but with no hard frost) on the evening of June 12.

Rev. W. S. Smith, missionary preacher and Sunday School organizer for the Presbyterian synod of Oregon, has been preaching at Dairy and vicinity for the past two weeks. He has organized several Sunday Schools. The Sunday School at Dairy is quite well attended.

Mrs. Della Colahan, widow of the late John Colahan, departed last week for Eureka, California, where she will reside in the future. Misses Maggie and Millie Colahan, her sisters-in-law, accompanied her for a visit.

Riley Woods is making periodic trips through the valley with a stable horse belonging to Cale Oliver.

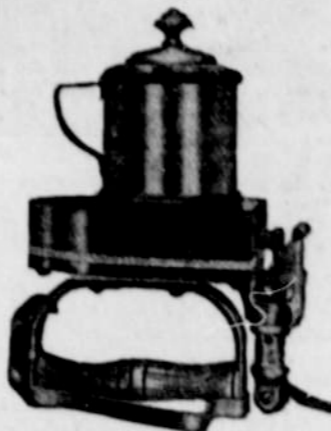

Many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Petersteiner paid them a social call last Sunday and were highly entertained.

Parties from California have been negotiating for the purchase of the Beck Brothers ranch, in the north part of the valley, lately. The two brothers Fred and Godfrid have held the place in common for many years past and have made it pay better year by year. They are sturdy, honest citizens, who would be sadly missed were they to leave the community.

The recent heavy rains have had the effect of stopping the work of building the irrigation dam northeast of the valley for a time. Messrs. Colahan and Adams are doing the work.

Mrs. J. P. Colahan and Mrs. Carl Adams were Dairy visitors last Friday.

Once upon a time a certain extensive ranchman of Yonna valley, of whom I wot, concluded to dispense with the services of a cook and housekeeper during the absence of his good wife who had gone on a visit, and to keep house himself. There was not much to do, he thought his wife had plenty of leisure. He would have a picnic while she was away. And this is about his daily program: He arises from his couch at 4 o'clock, builds the fire in the cookstove, puts on the teakettle to heat water for making mush, washes some potatoes and puts them on to boil; when the water comes to a boil in the teakettle, he stirs his rolled oats in its receptacle, then rushes out to the cowyard, lets in the calves and proceeds to milk his dozen or more cows, with the aid of a box, carries the milk to the pantry, strains it into pans and puts them on the shelves; then rushes into the kitchen to complete getting breakfast. The meal eaten, he leaves the boy to wash the dishes, while he mixes cheese, stale potatoes and stale bread for nearly 100 little chickens, turkeys and ducklings, goes out and releases the mother hens from their coops, feeds the little ones, opens the hen houses to let out the big fowls, feeds them grain, then carries swill to the pig pens, feeds 50 or more large hogs and sows with broods of pigs, counting them to see that none are gone, goes to the barn, waters and feeds his work horses, turns the cows out to pasture and the calves into their lot for the day, takes a look after his fine herd of Holsteins and the horses in the pasture; then he goes back to the house where he finds that the fire has gone out in the cookstove, which he rebuilds, goes into the pantry and skins the cream from five to a dozen pans of clabbered milk into the churn, pouring enough of the stale milk into the vessels which are put on the stove to boil to make cheese for the the chicken feed, and the rest into the swill buckets for the pigs, beats water and washes, scalds and dries the milk pans and puts them out to sun. Then he sweeps several rooms in the house, scrubs the kitchen floor, cleans up the pantry, puts the cover on the churn and sits down to churn the butter. When, after an hour or so, the butter comes, he takes down the big wooden bowl and the wooden ladel, scalds them and cools them off with cold water, and proceeds to "work" out the butter, which is then put away to get hard enough to mould into rolls. By this time he sees that it is half past 2 o'clock, and thinks he can sit down to rest for an hour; but just then he discovers that something has gone wrong with the chickens, the pigs or the calves, and, although a trifle tired, he goes out to make things right, and by the time he gets back it is time to prepare the evening feed for the chicks, to feed the pigs, to gather the eggs from the nests and then to get dinner. After his 6 o'clock dinner comes the evening milking and other chores, the dishes to wash and put away, and when he gets through it is after 8 o'clock, and soon after sitting down to read his paper he falls asleep in his chair, the paper falls to the floor, and waking up with a start, he concludes that his wife does have something to do after all, and retires for the night. Yes, it is a picnic for a man to keep house on a big ranch!

"Gentling" a wild, unbroken horse has kept Henry Stoehner pretty busy for the past week. It is not a very easy thing to accomplish.

Nature has been doing her level best for the crops of this valley lately, and everything in the way of vegetation is further advanced by far than usual at this season of the year. The crops of rye, wheat, oats and barley are booming.

Chas. H. Bergdorf is building a house for his mother on the home place, in Pine Flat.

The spring term of school in the Dairy district closes this week. Mrs. C. H. Bergdorf is the teacher, and the term has been quite successful.

Mr. and Mrs. Antone Eigner of Tule lake region were visiting at Mr. Petersteiner's Monday.

Mrs. Emma Gibson (nee Miss Clark) of Boise, Idaho, is visiting with her mother, Mrs. H. J. O'Brien, this week.

Miss Anna Smyth is staying with her sister, Mrs. Tom Michael, while Tom is away on jury duty.

The annual school meeting at Dairy resulted in the re-election of Orrin Mc-

Cumber as director and Wm. Wight as clerk. The clerk reported the sum of $352 in his hands. The directors were appointed a committee to ascertain at what price two acres of ground could be had for, on which to place the new school house in a better location than the present site.

In the Hildebrand district Jacob Rneek was re-elected director and F. M. Bennett clerk without opposition.

Joe Welch was home from his work on the ditch over Sunday.
