NOTICE OF FINAL ACCOUNT

In the County Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Klamath.

In the matter of the estate of Octavia O. Cranston, deceased.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, administrator of said estate, has filed in the office of the County Clerk of Klamath County, Oregon, his Final Account of the administration of said estate, and the Court has fixed Saturday the 7th day of September, 1907, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, as the time for the hearing of objections to said account and the settlement thereof.

Dated at Klamath Falls, Oregon, this 6th day of August, 1907.

H. A. SHARP,
Administrator of the estate of Octavia O. Cranston, deceased.

DAIRY

Dairy is pleasantly situated on the west side of Yonka Valley, near the center of Klamath County. It has two good general stores with enterprising, up-to-date dealers who enjoy a large trade from surrounding valleys; a hotel and feed barn, and a school house. It is surrounded by a rich farming community with which it is connected by a farmers' telephone line and also a long distance line. Is on the stage line, twenty miles east of Klamath Falls.

Walter Simpson was visiting friends in the valley Saturday.

Walter Welsh is back again and is working for Dave Shook.

Albert Bergdorf had a good sized stack of hay destroyed this week by a herd of cattle that was running loose.

Plans and specifications are being prepared for the new school house at this place. At a meeting of the School Board held last Saturday, they were gone over and several changes suggested. The bond for the clerk of the board was placed at $1000. The funds realized from the sale of the school bonds will be deposited to the credit of the district, for the purpose of securing such interest as may accrue before it is used. An additional acre of land was purchased from Mrs. Hans Stocker, in order to enlarge the school grounds. The people here feel very proud over the fact that the school bonds brought a higher price than any other ever offered in this county.

Brown Michael has nearly completed his contract for the harvesting of the 400-ton hay crop for Dave Shook.

B. F. Clanton received a stroke of paralysis a few days ago, and while he is somewhat improved, small hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Mrs. Henry Schmoor and son went to the huckleberry patch this week.

KENO

Keno is situated in the Southern part of Klamath County, on the Klamath river, at the terminus of navigation. Two steamers land here; mail, express and passengers are transferred from the stage to the boat at this point. Adjoining Keno on the west is a large belt of timber, and on the east is a large body of marsh lands. Near Keno, on the river, is immense water power. Telephone connections with all parts of the country. Has a good school, two stores and two saw mills.

Last week while Mr. Hendricks was hauling saw logs for Ben Kerns he got on top of his load to bind it on. In bending the boom pole it broke and Mr. Hendricks fell to the ground, striking on his head, sprained his back and broke one arm. Dr. Maston was called and he set the bone. He is recovering as well as could be expected.

R. A. Emmitt has returned home. He has been at the bedside of his mother, who died last Wednesday, the 7th.

Will Stone and N. P. Edwards' folks have gone to the mountains to gather huckleberries and will be gone several days.

A very heavy rain fell on the 8th, amounting to 1.34 inches. This is the heaviest rainfall in August in many years.

Automobiles

William Hodson, of the Hodson Automobile company, of Medford, C. P. True a chauffeur, and Miss Mae Ingraham, arrived here from Medford Tuesday morning. Mr. Hodson states that the purpose of his trip is to look over this field as to its availability for the establishing of a garage here. They expect to go from here to Lakeview, thence to Crater Lake and back to Medford.

SCIENCE OF SPEECH

By M. L. Hatfield, Principal Pacific
School for Stammerers
Chehalis, Wash.

I am more deeply impressed every day of the great need of the stammerer being treated while young. There are many reasons for this: First, a life filled with untold misery and agony can be avoided: Second, it gives the afflicted one an opportunity of developing the expressive side of his life—enables him to give to the world its best in return; Third, when young the stammerer is more easily cured. Stammering, however, can be cured at any age. Better late in life than never. This is surely one of the first ills to which humanity is heir.

In stammering we have a lack of harmony existing between the will-power and the muscles controlling the organs of speech. A method that is worth anything for the correction of this impediment must needs concern itself with bringing about this harmony. This is done by disciplining and scientific talking.

The sounds of the language present all sorts of difficulties to different people, but we cannot say that there are any certain ones that are hard for all. Where one would falter another would utter the sound with ease. As a rule the consonants produce the greatest difficulties, as in their utterance the lips and tongue are brought strongly into play; while in the utterance of vowels the sound is produced back of the larynx, and the muscles of the mouth are only used in shaping the sound. Take the word "fact", in trying to enunciate this word the stammerer tries to wedge his tongue into position behind the upper teeth and forcibly holds it in that position; this closes the air passages and prevents the formation of the vowel sound "a". These are the only sounds that would cause trouble in the enunciation of this word. In the correct enunciation of this word the opposite position would suggest mental relaxation with a little muscular effort of the organs. The tip of the tongue should be pressed lightly against the upper gums and teeth and then gently withdrawn as the sound of "t" is whispered; the muscles of the mouth are then in position to form the sound of the letter "a".

This style of talking must be practiced day after day, until it becomes to the stammerer a reality—his natural way of talking. It is simply based on the philosophy of "forgetting the old and learning the new."

THE BROKEN SEAL

"Oh, wonderful science, that can make
The stammering tongue to speak,
To loose our bonds, our chains to break
And bid us now new pleasures seek;
Where once was darkness, gloom, despair,
New life, new hopes are blooming
there.

"How great the change no one can tell,
But those whose lives are clouded o'er
With stammering, fate that like a spell
Blasts every thought and cries. No more
Close up the treasures of the gifted mind,
And shun forever all mankind.

"Such was my doom, such my decree:
I bowed submissive to my fate;
Hope died, the future was a blank to
me,
Life a chaos none could elevate;
For years a recluse life I led,
Ambition gone and almost dead.

"Wealth could not bring the joy I felt,
Nor could it buy my joy;
Your science broke the skeptic's
seal
And brought me peace without alloy;
And now your praise my tongue shall sound
To stammerers all the world around.

"But words, poor words cannot convey
The feelings of my heart for thee;
God bless you, bless you every day,
My humble prayer shall be.
Your work is glorious; oh! how grand!
The stammerer speaks at your command."

County Fair

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Fair Association, held in this city Wednesday evening, it was decided to hold the next county fair in this city on October 3, 4 and 5. The site selected for the new fair grounds cannot be had, for reasons not made public, and as a result the association is on the still hunt for a new location. The fair this year will probably be held on the old fair grounds.

BE A PRIVATE SECRETARY

Holmes Business College of Portland
Has Brought an Expert From the East to Train Students to be Private Secretaries

The Holmes Business College of Washington and Tenth streets, Portland, Oregon, has a new business manager in Mr. Herbert T. Vance. G. Holmes Lawrence, president of the college, has been alive to the rapid development of the Northwest and has brought into the field one of the best known, aggressive young business educators of the east. Mr. Vance comes to the Holmes Business College from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. For a number of years he was managing editor of one of the eastern daily papers, upon which he served as a criminal reporter. He afterwards entered the employ of the United Gas Improvement company, of Philadelphia, as a corporation stenographer. This company controls the lighting interests in two hundred cities of the United States. While with this company Mr. Vance recognized the hopeless position prominent firms were placed in securing office help of sufficiently high grade. His conviction was of such a nature that he resigned and organized a commercial college wherein he introduced a private secretary course. It met with spontaneous success.

This course of study has been introduced into the Holmes Business College. Great things are expected of it, for it gives that preparation for the best class of positions which are now only attainable after years of service.

This course has been tried and proven a success. It is, therefore, no experiment, but rather an assured innovation which the Holmes Business College introduces to the Northwest.

Mr. Vance is a man of pleasing and tactful manner and has that enthusiasm that is always contagious to young people.
