SOME TECHNICALITIES.

Why the Drummer Lost Suit in a Kansas Court.

"While I was working a Kansas town for business a few weeks ago," said the drummer, "I got into a dispute with a young fellow in a pool room, and he plunked me in the eye. Before I could hit back we were pulled apart, and at the instance of half a dozen citizens I swore out a warrant for assault and battery. I had six witnesses to swear that the defendant struck first, and in fact, he admitted it, but the justice gave him the verdict and his liberty. I got mad at that and went for his honor with: "Don't you see this black eye?" "I certainly do."

"Do you think all six of my witnesses lied?"

"I do not."

"Didn't the defendant as good as admit that he struck me?"

"He did."

"Then will you please tell me why he was not punished?"

"I will. You were beaten on technicalities."

"I don't understand."

"Well, you didn't prove whether it was your right eye or your left that was blackened; whether he struck you with his right fist or his left; whether you are married or single; whether you belong to the church or the world; whether you are a Democrat or a Republican. I could name at least ten other things."

"You might give me one more from your stock," I said, with a sneer.

"I will, sir. You heard the crier adjourn court. That was formally. Technically court is always in session, and I therefore fine you $5 for contempt."

—Chicago News.

Womanly Instinct.

It was a happy and neighborly little party that was enjoying the cool evening breezes on the porch. Education was the theme of conversation, and the host was airing his views.

"Nobody can learn in a lifetime all that should be known," he said. "A man ought never to assume that his education is complete. I must and will keep abreast of the times, and I propose to begin the study of astronomy at once and to continue it through the winter."

"Jerome," said his wife calmly from the hammock in the corner, "you'll have to think of some better excuse than that for staying out until all hours of the night."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Rising to the Occasion.

Captain Homer W. Hedge of the Aero Club of America, with two other members and a society woman who is an enthusiast over the new sport, was recently discussing at the tea table in an uptown hotel certain details of a proposed balloon ascension. There had been some slight hitch in the arrangements, but an idea popped into the lady's head, and she exclaimed, "Oh, I have a proposition to make!" Out went her hand, and over went a cup of hot tea right into the captain's lap. "That strikes me unfavorably," said he, rising hurriedly.

The general laugh which followed relieved the lady's embarrassment.—Lippincott's.

Different in This Case.

Judge (in the law courts during a divorce case to the husband)—Well, what is it you wish?
Husband—A divorce.
Judge (to the wife)—And you?
Wife—A divorce.
Judge—But when you came in you said that neither of you could ever agree on any one point.—Nos Loisirs.

The Greater Love.

"She was engaged to a millionaire, but she jilted him to marry another man."
"Ah, so she's really marrying for love?"
"For love of money, yes. The other man's a multimillionaire."—Bohemian.

Contrary.

"Isn't she the most contrary thing?"
"Why so?"
"She's been coaxing and coaxing me to go to that picnic, and I just won't do it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Too Late.

The Small Boy—Please, sir, will you help teach my little brother to swim?
The Old Gentleman—But I don't see your little brother.
The Small Boy—Oh, he's tied on the string.—Sketch.

Once Only.

He—I sang tenor once.
She—Well, once would be about all the people would stand for, I guess.—Yonkers Statesman.
