

When the late Senator Quay telegraphed Cashier Hopkins of the People's Bank, of Philadelphia, asking that he purchase certain stocks for him, with the promise of shaking the plum tree if he would do so, he little thought that his expression would find its echo in many states in the union. It was an old game in Pennsylvania. State treasurers for years had deposited large sums of the state's money in the People's Bank, and these deposits were used by the political bosses for stock gambling. It has always been assumed that when Quay said he would "shake the plum tree," he meant additional deposits from the state treasury. This practice cost the state of Pennsylvania a great deal of money, a scandal that drove Quay to his grave, defeated the Republican party and blighted the name of many well known men in the state. Dabbling with state funds is too dangerous a game for one to play, even though the stakes are high and the risk an apparently safe one.

Throughout the world. It is all due to his conservative, high-minded, in-the-interest-of-the-people administration since his election as governor of New York. He has given everyone a square deal, without any round corners. He has been governor for all the people, rich and poor alike. He has not rushed into print to tell the people what he would do, but he has gone ahead and done it. He has brought about reforms that no other governor has ever been able to even start, and did it without up-setting social conditions. These are the things that have made, and are today making, Governor Hughes the leading statesman of the country; and why the people are turning to him as the trusty pilot who can steer our craft from out of stormy seas into smooth water, and do it without tearing asunder the business fabric of the nation. With Hughes as president, the Roosevelt policy will be carried on, with this addition, that it will be controlled by a conservative mind—a mind that all the influence of high political powers or personal preterment will not move. It is as certain as human events can be that Hughes will be the nominee of the Republican party next year, and this means that he will be the next president of the United States.

What Papa Said.

Tommy was stubborn, and his teacher was having a hard time explaining a small point in the geography lesson. "Tommy," teacher began, "you can learn this if you make up your mind. It's not one bit smart to appear dull. I know," she continued coaxingly, "that you are just as bright as any boy in the class. Remember, Tommy, where there's a will there's a way." "Aw," broke in Tommy. "I know all dat, I do. Me fadder's a lawyer, he is, an' I've heard him say it lots o' times." "You should not have interrupted me," reprimanded the teacher, "but I am glad that your father has taught you the old adage. Can you repeat it to me?" "Sure," said Tommy confidently. "Me fadder says dat where der's a will—der's always a bunch o' poor relations."—Lippincott's.

Different With Him.

When Robert Van Wyck was mayor of New York he was careful as to his personal habits, especially about the city hall. One day he called on the mayor of Dublin at his hotel. That hospitable gentleman desired to set up something that would show his good feeling toward the city he was visiting. Mr. Van Wyck begged to be excused. "If I should drink," he explained, "I might not be able to hold my job of mayor." "Fajth," was the instant answer, "if I don't drink I would be unable to hold mine."

The Only Time.

A Scotchman in New Zealand was giving a visitor some account of his experiences during the earthquake shock. "I suppose," remarked the visitor, "it was rather a surprise to you to find the crockery jumping off the shelves." "Aye, it was that. But the wife was mar surprised still. I've been marit near thirty years, an' it's about the only trouble in the house she hasn't blame me for."

Merciful.

Towne—Look at that poor blind beggar playing the accordion. Brown—Yes, I've been listening to him. Pity he isn't deaf too.—Philadelphia Press.

Now that the financial flurry is practically over and affairs begin to assume a normal aspect, Mr. Business Interest begins to look around to see "who threw the brick." He does not have to look very far, and in looking he does not see Hill, Harriman, Morgan, Rockefeller, Ryan, or any of those terrible plutocrats that were leading this country to ruin. Not much. But he does see hordes of those self-styled life savers who have been so blatant of late about the things these aforesaid plutocrats were doing, standing in the attitude of a man who has just thrown something. In the gathering are seen some of the "leading" newspapers of the country, national and state officials, who are seeking notoriety by haranguing against the trusts and wicked corporations, the ever present calamity howler and the "aspiring statesman." It is a motley gathering, all heroes for their country's sake—until they see the devilment they have done. Then they again take up another brick and try to convince Mr. Business Interest and Mr. Conservative Citizen that it is all due to the plutocrats. But when they turn to see what they are doing they find that these gentlemen are standing shoulder to shoulder, pouring out their money by the millions in their endeavor to stop the tide of frenzy that has seized the people. On the one hand these "wicked corporations" are pouring out their money to save their country; and on the other, the men who are responsible for the trouble are gathering in all the money they can in order to save themselves. If this panic will have the result of opening the eyes of the public to the leham of these reformers, it will not have been in vain.

Mix the following by shaking well in a bottle, and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. A local druggist is the authority that these simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from our home druggists.

The mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the clogged and inactive kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and Urinary trouble of all kinds, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Those who have tried this say it positively overcomes pain in the back, clears the urine of sediment and regulates urination, especially at night, curing even the worst forms of bladder weakness.

Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial, as it is said to do wonders for many persons.

The Scranton, Pa., Times was first to print this remarkable prescription, in October, of 1906, since then all the leading newspapers of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other cities have made many announcements of it to their readers.

Filings Still Coming In.

The land office is busy accepting filings yet, and little time has yet been found to check up the filings. Applicants have been coming in at the rate of 15 to 20 a day since the big rush. Up to yesterday noon 425 had made application to file since Monday morning a week ago. Every spare moment in the office is taken up checking up the filings. While definite information as to what particular applicants have been successful is difficult to get at just now, it is certain that a great many locations have two or more filings on them, while a few parties have clear filings. It will be some time yet before all parties will know how they made it.

Wages Cut

Notice has been posted by the Reclamation Service stating that after November 15th all wages would be reduced to $2.48 per day. This has been expected for some time, since there has been a great demand for work and the officials found it an easy matter to secure all the men they need at these figures. These wages even are high, and it is not likely that any of the men who have been getting $3 a day will quit, for they will find it practically impossible to secure other work at $2. Latest reports from Portland are to the effect that men are begging for work there and offering their services as low as $1.75 a day.

Packing Company. The prospect for establishing a packing house in Merrill to take care of the cattle, sheep and hogs raised in this valley and vicinity seems about to be realized. The organization of the Klamath Packing and Commercial Company, with a capital of $500,000 is well under way, and within the next thirty days will be accomplished. The promoters of this enterprise number such well known citizens as C. A. Bunting, Frank Grayball and Mr. Merrill, who with the assistance of Mr. O'Brien of Oakland and Capt. Thompson, of San Francisco, Cal., have advanced the business so far along that within a month every detail will have been completed. Already a site for the plant has been secured near the town on the river bank from Mr. N. S. Merrill, who is taking an active interest in the matter.—Record.

Wedding Anniversary About twenty-five of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Merrill gathered at their cosy home Saturday evening, November 2, to celebrate the third anniversary of their wedding. The evening was most enjoyably spent in games, guessing contests, and conversation. An elaborate and appetizing supper was served at eleven o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Merrill received any number of pretty and appropriate gifts in leather. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. D. Van Brimmer, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. Ball, Mrs. Wilson, Sr., Mrs. Ed. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Puri Merrill, Miss Kattenhorn, John Boosey, Dan Colwell, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilson, Mrs. Henry Parrish.—Record.
