MARRIED—In this city, Saturday, December 14, 1907, Frank Chentell and Grace Barnes, T. F. Nichols, J. P., officiating.

Bonanza is going to have a grand masquerade ball Xmas night, and like all things that Bonanzaites do, it is going to be the best ever held in the county.

The storms of the past week have considerably delayed the work on the Keno canal.

A telegram was received this week by D. F. and John Driscoll, of Bonanza, announcing the death of their father, which occurred at his home in Smartsville, Calif., Thursday. Death was due to old age. Mr. Driscoll has many friends in this county who will regret to hear of his death and who hasten to extend their sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Shook left for Los Angeles Tuesday where they will spend the winter.

Miss Maud Baldwin entertained the 500 Club Saturday afternoon, and delighted her guests by presenting each with score and parther cards that were very unique. They were actual photographs of Klamath scenery and other interesting objects.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Moore left this week for Portland, where they will spend the winter.

One of the most successful dances of the club's history was given in the Houston opera house Friday evening by the 21 Club. About fifty couples danced the light fantastic and the evening was one filled with keenest enjoyment.

H. P. Hoey, construction engineer of the California Northeastern railroad, was in the city this week in the interests of his railroad and the work that is to be done on the cut through the Hot Springs addition.

Herb Cranmer left this week for his old home in Wisconsin where he will spend the holidays. From there he will go to Kentucky, where he will be employed by a large lumber company for a short time. He expects to return here next summer.

Joe Conger, who has been confined to his home for some time, was very low this week and little hope entertained for his recovery. His many friends hope that he will pull through all right and get out among them once more.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Naftzger left for their Los Angeles home this week, where Mrs. Naftzger will remain for the winter. Mr. Naftzger expects to spend portions of the winter months in this city.

D. B. Campbell left this week for his old home in St. Thomas, Canada, where he will spend the holidays. From there he will go to his old haunts in Florida to spend the winter, returning to this city in the early spring.

Miss Mae Worden and the Misses Campbell will give a New Year's eve party at the former's home. Very unique invitations have been issued and the affair promises to be one filled with pleasant surprises for the guests.

J. B. Moore this week sold his big freight outfit to R. E. Hunsaker, who will place it on the Bray route. It is one of the best in the field.

Extensive improvements in the way of new side walks are being made throughout the city, particularly in the Ewanna Heights Addition, where several of the property owners have laid good, substantial side walks during the past week. It is to be hoped that every property owner will follow the example set and thus add greatly to the comfort of the citizens and the up-building of the city.

R. I. Kilgore, who went to Ashland a short time ago, returned to his home in Bonanza this week, having longed for the beauties and fine climate of his Klamath abode. Mr. Kilgore has plenty of company, for there are many of the citizens of Klamath, lured to Ashland by the blandishments of that neck of the woods, have returned to this county to find what they were looking for—fine climate and hospitable people.

The annual mask ball will be given this year by Manager Houston in his opera house on New Year's eve. He is going to give a number of very fine prizes on that occasion. He will also give a similar affair in his opera house in Merrill Xmas eve.

Owing to a shortage of coal oil, the merchants of Lakeview have agreed to close their stores at 5:30 every evening and Sundays, and as a result the employees are wearing a smile that won't come off.

Rev. H. L. Graffius, the Methodist missionary for the Klamath Agency, was in the city for a short time this week.

In the case of C. T. Oliver vs. the Klamath Lake Navigation company, in which the former sought to restrain the latter from extending its wharf south of Klamath avenue, Judge Benson this week handed down a decision in favor of the defendant, dissolving the injunction and assessing the costs and disbursements of the suit against the plaintiff.

Ashland went "dry" Tuesday by a majority of 81, much to the surprise of everyone. This is the second try at it, it having experimented along that line two years ago. According to the city charter the question must be submitted annually to the voters. Will Loomis was elected mayor by a majority of 7 and Eggleston won for recorder by a majority of over 200.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin E. Cox, of Bonanza, are visiting friends in this city.

James H. Driscoll, who went to Smartsville, Calif., to attend the funeral of his father, returned home this week.

R. E. Wattenburg, the builder of the Bonanza high school building, was in Lakeview this week to look over the plans and specifications for the Lake County court house.

W. A. Wingate, who has been in this county for the past several months, left for his old home in Petoskey, Mich., this week, where he will remain until next spring.
