FROM OUR EXCHANGES

[Merrill Record]
Work is soon to begin on the new Catholic church.

Frank Slate arrived home last night from his visit to Willamette valley points.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Turner left Thursday for Salem on a business trip.
Plans for a creamery to be managed on a co-operative plan are assuming definite shape and everything promises fair for the success of such an enterprise in Merrill valley.

Mr. Haskins has purchased the 160 acre farm of Andy Eigner and will use it as a stock farm. Merrill is glad to welcome so energetic a citizen as Mr. Haskins appears to be. It will be the immigration of such men that will make Klamath county prosperous.

Bud Obenchain, manager of the Mint Saloon, had several suits of clothes stolen from his room in the Richelieu hotel last week and later found them lying in the alley by the Riverside hotel in a torn and soiled condition. A party was seen wearing part of the garments, so Mr. Obenchain is not unaware of the identity of the thief.

J. W. Haskins, of Pampa, Wash., purchased this week, through the E. E. Fitch real estate agency, the Dewey & Hyde place and will next year move his family here from Washington and enter the hog raising business. In the meantime he has leased the place to Mr. J. Brown who has been living on a part of the property the past year.

Mrs. Lon Story, wife of Lon Story, died Friday morning at the Story home near this city. Mrs. Story was well known and respected in this community and her death is mourned by a large number of friends and acquaintances. She leaves besides her husband, five small children. The burial was held at 2 o'clock in the city cemetery, under the auspices of the Rebekah Lodge, of which she was a member.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chastain of Bonanza were visiting their daughter, Mrs. T. A. Langell, of this city, several days this week. The doctor, who is an old resident of Klamath county, said that he and his wife got it into their heads about three months ago that they would like to spend the evening of their life in the land of milk and honey, the

Oregon Republicans

[Dalles Optimist]

There has been a discussion going on in various papers of the state for some time on the question, "Is there a Republican party in Oregon?" and the Pendleton Tribune in showing that there is such a party here goes on to enumerate the office holders of the state and shows that the Republicans elect something like 90 per cent of them.

But The Optimist begs to take issue with the Tribune, and we say most emphatically that there is no Republican party in this State, but there about 70,000 Republican voters residing in Oregon, and by exercising their franchise they usually elect the most of the officials.

But the present meaning of the word "party" is something beyond a mass of voters, no matter how numerous they may be or how loyal they may be to their beliefs; and they may belong to one of the great parties of the Nation, and vote for them. But all of that does not prove that we have such a party in Oregon.

There can be no party without leaders. There can be no party without articles of faith, usually called a platform. There can be no party without an organization, and if there is an organization of Republicans in this State, that is a State organization, we would be pleased to have it pointed out to us.

When the Republicans of this State go into a campaign they do not go into it with any concert of action. They do not know what the party stands for on State questions, they do not know who to rely upon for leadership, there is no one in authority to issue printed matter to explain to the voters what the issues are, and every fellow is fighting for the man or men he chooses, in his own way, regardless of what the standing of his choice may be.

No, there is no Republican party in the State of Oregon, and never will be as long as we have the present laws in force. Mr. Geer very well knows this but he wants an office. He wants to be Congressman, Governor, Senator or any old thing that has got a good salary hitched to it. He is not particular whether the people want him to be a candidate or not, and probably if we had a party and a party organization we might say to Mr. Geer that we are tired of annual, perennial and eternal candidates. But Mr. Geer knows there is no organization, and he knows that the rag-tag and bobtail element which is dominating the political atmosphere of Oregon at present like to be told that they are "it," and that they are a part and parcel of the great Republican party, while as a matter of fact they are doing all they can to bury the party which they have already killed.

And we say once more, without fear of contradiction, "There is no Republican party in Oregon."
All those who desire to go hunting this year had better get out their license. The one procured last year expired December 31.
