INDIANS QUIT THE GAME.

Over four hundred people witnessed the ball game Sunday between the Klamath Falls teams and the Klamath Stars from the Agency. The game ended in the last half of the ninth inning with the Klamath Falls boys at the bat. The catcher and other members of the Indian team quit on account of a misunderstanding over the tally, with the score 16 to 16. The Indian boys contended that there were three men out when the tally only showed two. In order to avoid any cause for ill feeling over the game, it was decided to call the game a tie.

Everything went smooth up to the fifth inning, but after that there was considerable argument over the decisions of the umpire by both sides. Each side, however, accepted the decisions without any unpleasantness.

New suits for the Klamath Falls team are expected to arrive this week, and the line up will be made soon. Sunday's game was a sort of try-out to determine the best players for the several positions. It is said that Martin, Kinney, Sloan and others of the old team will enter the game again this year, and it is very favorable for the formation of two good teams in the city this year, besides the High School team. Several strong players were noticeable in yesterday's game.

STATE BOOSTERS MEETING.

Tom Richardson has called a meeting of the managers of all the commercial and promotion organizations of the state to meet in Eugene on April 28th for one day. The purpose of the meeting is to exchange ideas and methods with each other, and to form and co-ordinate the men as boosters for the whole state as well as for individual sections. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Oregon Development League.

Because the referendum is being invoked on the increased salary of Circuit Judge William Smith of Baker City, friends of Smith are, in retaliation, invoking the referendum on the scalp bounty law.

MAY OPEN LANDS IN RESERVES.

WASHINGTON—It is the expectation of Western Senators and Congressmen that areas of agricultural lands now embraced within forest reserves will ultimately be restored to the public domain. This expectation grows out of the fact that Secretary Wilson has ordered the Forest Service to make an examination and classification of the various Western reserves, setting forth by maps and by description those areas now reserved which are purely or largely agricultural lands, as distinguished from purely timber lands.

The action of Secretary Wilson is more significant than appears on its face. During the Roosevelt administration, Secretary Wilson had no say whatever regarding forestry affairs, notwithstanding the Forest Service was a bureau in the Department of Agriculture. It is true that many forestry matters were handled over the signature of Secretary Wilson, but it is a matter of fact that the letters signed by Wilson were written in the Forestry Department and his signature was affixed merely in a perfunctory manner, and in order that the action taken might literally be in conformity with the law, for under the law certain things must be done by the Secretary of Agriculture, and not by any official of the Forest Service.

Now, for the first time, Secretary Wilson is giving orders to the Forest Service. He is superior to the Chief Forester, as the law intended, and is exercising general supervision over the Forest Service, just as he dominates all other bureaus of the Department of Agriculture.

At the instance of the Forest Service, Congress several years ago passed a law permitting the homesteading of agricultural lands within forest reserves, and after this had been accomplished, the Service was very reluctant about eliminating from forest reserves any agricultural areas that might be found within their borders. It was pointed out that under this law settlers could homestead agricultural lands within the reserves just as well as if the agricultural areas were eliminated. But it is the experience of Western men that homesteads, under that law, are more difficult to make than homesteads on the open public domain, and the figures show that comparatively small areas within reserves are being homesteaded.

Secretary Wilson, it is stated, is in sympathy with Western men who are anxious to open up these agricultural lands to settlement, and it is the hope of those who have appealed to him that in time many eliminations will be made, especially of large areas of agricultural lands which often occur along streams traversing forest reserves.

FED BROTHER TO PIGS.

NEW ORLEANS, April 21.—Incensed because his stepmother had been placed in jail at Opelousas. The in charge of his young stepbrothers and sisters for the day, Tom Godfrey, a 12-year-old negro boy, fed the youngest of his charges to the hogs, and later with an axe inflicted what probably will prove fatal wounds on the heads of the other children.

Three children were injured. Tom was placed in jail at Opelousas. The baby's hands and feet had been eaten off by the hogs when found, but it was still alive.

The stepmother straightway whipped Tom and when she went for a doctor to attend the baby, Tom seized an axe and attacked his 6-year-old stepbrother, inflicting several deep wounds.

The young stepmother interfered, and he crushed her skull with the axe. The girl is dying and the other two children have little chance for recovery.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

The United States Civil Commission announces an examination on May 26, 1909, at Klamath Falls, to secure eligibles from which to make certification to fill vacancies as they may occur in the position of field clerk, in the Reclamation Service, at salaries of $60 to $125 a month. Examination will consist in spelling, arithmetic, letter writing, penmanship and copying and with book-keeping, typewriting or stenography.

All applicants should apply at once for application form 304, either to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or to the Secretary of the Board of Examiners for the Reclamation Service at the place of examination. No applications will be accepted unless properly executed and filed with the Commission at Washington.

That "Clean up" day suggestion made by the Chamber of Commerce was a good idea, but evidently it needs pushing to make it a success.

TO BUILD SIDEWALKS.

The first ripple of the approaching tidal wave of development that is to sweep throughout this city and county during the approaching summer arrived Friday and is indicated by the proposed construction of over a mile of sidewalks in the Mills addition. The following gentlemen members of the Klamath Corporation, the company owning the Mills addition and adjacent lands, arrived here on Thursday's boat: A. L. Darrow, president; C. W. Eberlein, president of the Enterprise Land and Improvement Company; Colonel W. O. Bowers, manager of the Capitol Hotel; Attorney J. O. Prewett and F. H. Krebs. When Mr. Darrow was seen by a representative of this paper he stated that they were here on their annual tour of inspection and to make plans for the improvement and development of their property.

"We realize that time is at hand for the growth or death of Klamath Falls. We want to see Klamath Falls the biggest city between Sacramento and Portland, and we believe it will be. We are here to do our share in making it so, and the best evidence that we have to offer of our disposition in this direction is what we propose to do during the approaching summer. Our property will be sold at reasonable price and on easy terms, and it will be well advertised. We stand ready to help every movement for the growth and betterment of the city, and in doing so we believe we are simply going along with the general movement."

In these views the other members of the company coincided heartily. Coming from a live city with a live property to push, imbued with a boosting spirit, this organization is certain to be an important factor in inducing people to come here. The wide publicity given this city and county through the advertising this company has done has brought many settlers, and so good have the results been that a greater effort is to be made during the coming summer.

One of the first steps to be taken by the company looking toward to improvement of their property will be the construction of a four-foot sidewalk from the depot to and through the Mills addition. It will be so laid as to open up the greatest amount of territory, as well as to advance the interests of those who now own property there. Steps will be at once taken to secure prices on the cost of a macadamized road through the center of the tract, and many of the streets will be graded and put in such condition that it will require the severest weather to damage them.

Mr. Darrow and party will remain here until Sunday morning, when they will return to their homes. It is quite likely that most of them will be here to take part in the Railroad Day Celebration, and if possible bring a large contingent of their friends.

FOREST RESERVES TO BE EXAMINED ANEW

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture has directed that thorough examination be made during the coming summer of all forest reserves by agents of the Geological Survey and that classification be made of all non-timbered areas and land more valuable for agriculture than timber, with a view to eliminating such lands from the forests and placing them at the disposal of the public for settlement and entry. It is estimated that 30 per cent of the forest reserve areas will be restored to public use if Secretary Wilson's order is carried into effect.
