

MONEY FOR CRATER LAKE ROAD.

Forest Reserve Officials Notified Money Will Be Allowed To Start Work on Park Road.

PORTLAND, June 21.—In response to a special requisition for an appropriation to aid in the construction of a road from Medford to Crater Lake, the department at Washington has advised the officers in charge of the local forest service that an appropriation will be allowed with which to begin the construction of such a road through the forest reserve which is included in the route of the proposed highway. The amount of the appropriation which has been granted has not been announced, but it is intended as the initial contribution from the government, which will be followed by such additional amounts as may be required to complete the government's end of this project.

For the fiscal year beginning July 1st next, the forest service has been allotted $61,000 to be expended in this State in the construction of roads, trails, cabins and telephone lines through the national forest reserves. This was the information which reached the office of E. T. Allen, district forester, in this city yesterday.

The regular fund for the employment of additional fire wardens and other employees for the suppression of forest fires has been increased 15 per cent for the ensuing fiscal year. This will enable the forest service to keep 230 men actively in the field during the summer months as against probably one-half that number during the winter months, when the danger of disastrous conflagrations is reduced probably 50 per cent. With this increased assistance, the forest service expects to reduce to a minimum the loss from forest fires, which originate largely from the carelessness of thoughtless campers.

THE ALTURAS SURVEY.

ALTURAS, June 21.—The Southern Pacific surveyors who are engaged in making a survey between Klamath Falls and this place have completed their survey as far south as Lookout, and are now engaged in locating the line from that place up Pitt river to Alturas.

The line as located follows substantially the preliminary line as far south as Timber mountain. From that place it continues almost due south through the heart of the vast timber holdings of T. B. Walker to Egg Lake. Here the line turns in a southeasterly direction, leaving the timber about six miles west of Lookout and continuing in the same direction to Lookout. Here they "went back on themselves," turning up Pitt river in the direction of Alturas.

Running the line to Lookout before turning up the river can mean one thing: a junction at the point where the turn is made, one line going north to Klamath Falls and thence to Portland, another up Pitt river to Alturas and thence to an eastern connection, while a third will extend down Pitt river to the Sacramento valley to connect with the present line to San Francisco. It means also great milling and allied industries at the junction, hence the selection of a location suited to such works, and where a suitable water supply can be obtained. From Lookout the most direct route to Klamath Falls will open all the timber of the western part of the county, as well as vast tracts in Siskiyou county. It is, moreover, a country well suited to logging by rail owing to the level character of the land, making the building and operating of logging roads easy, and the absence throughout the timber of good mill sites.

Keep your eye on the western part of the county, and especially on Lookout. There will be things doing down there in the not very remote future.

Plans and specifications are now ready and call for a strictly first-class modern structure.

CALHOUN JURY DISAGREES.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—The jury in the Patrick Calhoun case failed to agree and were discharged. The jury stood one for conviction and eleven for acquittal. Marking the end of a trial that will go down in western history as the climax of a great municipal scandal, the case of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads of San Francisco, was submitted to a jury just before the noon hour Saturday.

An unbroken silence had prevailed in the crowded auditorium of Carpenters' Hall during a period of three hours, which ended the seven-hour argument of Assistant District Attorney Francis J. Heney, and had permitted Judge William P. Lawlor to charge the jury.

The first disorder in the heated chamber was when the twelve men who decided the charge of bribery against the street railroad magnate filed out of the jury box at 11:45 under escort of two deputy sheriffs, just sworn anew to keep them safeguarded.

A few moments before the jury's retirement Judge Lawlor formally discharged from service aged Michael Murphy, the alternate or emergency juror, who heard the evidence from his place by the side of the jury box. The Court warned Juror Murphy not to discuss the case with any person, thus dashing the hopes of several enterprising interviewers who had hoped to secure an expression of his opinion on the evidence.

At 4:50 the jury called for the Court and asked to have certain parts of the evidence of Supervisor W. W. Sanderson read to them.

At 6:15, when the reading of evidence was concluded, court adjourned until 9 o'clock.

At 10 o'clock the jury asked for the Court a second time and again called for the reading of more of Supervisor Sanderson's testimony.

The Calhoun trial began January 12th, five months and one week ago. The Ruel trial, the longest before this, lasted 76 days. Six members of the jury were sworn March 9th, four others have been away from their families and business since March 21st and the others since April 14th. It is estimated the cost of the trial to the city is $50,000.

Ever been in an "affinity house"? Perhaps not, or perhaps you have and don't care to make a noise about it. Anyway, Seattle has such a place, and it is one of the features of the Pay Streak at the exposition. This attraction was dropped into the amusement cocktail to give life and color to the Pay Streak, and it all that, and some more. Sometimes it is called the Foolish House, the Bug House, the Crazy House, and everything else that signifies mental aberration. "If it is a crime to laugh, the proprietor of the Affinity House should be in the pen," reads a sign over the entrance.
