Sentiment in Upper Country Strongly in Favor of Removal of the Court House

H. E. Crane, of the Falls, is visiting in the valley.

The Chinook which came last Friday soon took off the snow. It also spoiled the good roads.

W. L. Welch has purchased the elevator at Dairy, formerly owned by I. F. Davies, and is moving it to his place north of the village.

The bachelors' dance given last Friday evening by Riley Woods and the other bachelors at his den in Pine Flat was a pronounced success.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Michael returned from their California visit on the 21st, having gone as far south as Los Angeles, and stopped at many place while en route for visits among friends.

Rabbit hunting is still the favorite sport in the valley, and the killings are numerous. John Jones and two friends killed twenty-eight one afternoon last week.

Sam Hertzler is making an effort to have the road changed which now runs eastward through one of his 40-acre lots so that it will run on a surveyed line. George Ritter is opposing the change.

Next Friday evening a small dancing party will be given at the Shook ranch in honor of D. P. Shook, the oldest bachelor in the valley. All the married ladies who dance are especially invited to attend and be sure to bring their babies.

A new postoffice is to be installed at the residence of T. R. Patterson, near Edgewood in Swan Lake Valley, to be called Swan, with Mrs. Mattie Patterson as postmistress. Esquire Sherman of Dairy was called over there last week to assist in the execution of the bond for the lady. A fine sleigh ride fell to his lot en route both "gwine and comin'." Bert Landers is to be the mail carrier to and from the Falls.

Sentiment in this vicinity seems to be strongly in favor of the acceptance of the change of location of the court house as proposed by the Hot Springs Company. It is not generally believed that it will make much difference to the business of the town. Business naturally drifts away from a railroad in every town, and a court house is a small attraction, except in some places. If Klamath Falls continues to grow the location of the court house will be a small matter of consideration as relates to the business of the town, and ought to worry nobody. In large towns in the East the court house is seldom near the business center. The matter of expense to the county in building a new court house is what appeals to the average taxpayer. The business men who are boycotting the Republican are evidently making a mistake. Spite work will neither build up nor tear down a newspaper.

A goodly number of the shareholders in the Water Users' Association from Yonna Valley attended a called meeting of the Upper Project men at Bonanza Saturday, where action was taken to urge on the department at Washington the early pushing to completion of the work on this project. A paper was also numerously signed pledging resistance to the collection of further assessments until members of the Lower Project fall in line with them in the effort to have the work on the whole project pushed to completion. An address to the Secretary of the Interior was adopted with one dissenting vote (and that voter was apparently ashamed of it) in favor of raising the par value of the shares to $30, as required by the department. A general discussion was indulged in and it was evident that the sentiment throughout the project was almost a unit in favor of pushing the work and on all the questions involved.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Merrill, Jan. 20, 1910. Editor Republican.

Dear Sir:—In view of the imminence of the government stopping work on the Klamath Project, every effort should be made to counteract any such action. That it is manifestly unfair on the part of those who have water under the completed parts of the ditch to put any obstacle in the way of the further building and finishing of the project. The set of answers prepared by the Directors of the Association to the Senate Committee would not assuredly have much, if any, effect. To divest them of all superfluities, they are the unreasonable complaints of ignorance and disappointment. The answers of the Chamber of Commerce are without doubt much more truthful, and very much less selfish, and certainly if they have any influence it will be such as will promote the interests of the whole county.

A point generally made use of is that the cost was promised to be not to exceed $20 per acre. In the official report of the Reclamation Service to the first Board of Directors (and accepted by them and conveyed to us poor settlers on the arid lands with great display of oratory, etc.), it was stated, pages 1 and 2, that the then estimate was not to exceed $20, but might be modified in future to either increase or decrease it, and further, on page 11, it says that the actual cost would be what the settlers would have to pay. How many members of that board are at present directors? Why did they not reject it then and there and insist on a positive statement as to cost? No business man would have accepted such a contract. But they accepted it then; why not abide by it? The ability to do so cannot be doubted. Some of the irrigated farms in this neighborhood have produced five tons of hay per acre, which sold at $6.50 per ton, which, after paying all expenses—water and included and interest excluded—produce a net income of $15 per acre. Land sown to grain has done even better than that. Space precludes the telling of half the benefits of water. As to the charge of graft, it should never have been made. The directors should so conduct the affairs of the Association as would redound to the advantage of all its members. What reason was there for increasing salaries of officials? And the egregious policy of sending delegates to Salt Lake would raise a smile on an iceberg were it not a serious matter. And now if they are successful, and work is stopped, we will have the melancholy satisfaction of paying for the jaunts and wise opinions, while they are reveling in abundant harvests produced by government water. Doesn't it seem more reasonable, and much more politic, to have the project completed, so that we may all participate in its benefits? Such a policy would promote immensely the prosperity of the whole people of the county. When the project should be wholly completed the cost no doubt would be ascertained. Also the government lands and beds of lakes to be reclaimed, when Congress should set a price on them, would all go to help pay the water rights. All in all, it does seem as good citizens we should unite ourselves and use our utmost endeavors to forward the work of completion.
