

WILL BE TRIED IN LAKEVIEW

BERNARD KUHLE TAKEN THERE
BY SHERIFF

CHARGED WITH HORSE STEALING

Was Companion of DeMose When He Was Killed Near Callahan's
Ranch Last Week

Sheriff Arthur Dent of Lake county Wednesday took with him to Lakeview Bernard E. Kuhl, the young man who was with Albert T. DeMose when he stole a number of horses from the Silver Lake country and who was killed last Friday by Elby Brewer near Callahan's ranch, twelve miles northwest of Dairy.

Kuhl, who is 24 years old, has a homestead near Silver Lake, and DeMose, who was 35 years of age, had been helping him put up some of the buildings on the place. The two men had been roaming over the country a vicinity of Silver Lake, claiming that they were trapping bears for their hides.

The inconsistency of such a statement was evident to the stockmen in that portion of Lake county, and it was believed that the two intended to steal some of the horses in that vicinity and a close watch was likewise kept on the stock.

The first of last week a number of the horses could not be found and the men were also missing.

Mr. Brewer at once notified his neighbors, and a posse consisting of Elby Brewer, Bill Owsley, Kinnear Brulek and Frank McBroon started in pursuit of the men.

When the posse reached the Klamath Indian reservation they secured the services of two Indian guides, Clayton Kirk and Jason Howard, who trailed the horses and thieves to Williamson river, where a description of them was secured.

They reached Joe Coburn's place about twelve hours behind the thieves and Mr. Owsley was sent back to telephone to the officers in Klamath Falls.

About 12 o'clock in the morning the other three secured several candles and started out on the trail. The Indians would light a candle, find the trace of the herd of stolen horses, extinguish the candle and ride on in the direction the thieves had taken, every few miles picking up the trail again by the light of the candles.

Just before daylight they came to a pasture on the ranch of Emile Egert, and there they discovered the stolen horses, but no trace was to be seen of the thieves, who had made their camp about half a mile from where the horses were.

A little farther off the two saddle horses ridden by the two men were found, and these were driven to the herd, where Mr. Brewer was left to guard them.

The supposition was that the two men had gone to Callahan's ranch.

Knowing that the thieves were acquainted with the Silver Lake men, the two Indians were sent ahead, the idea being that as they were strangers to the men wanted they could get the drop on them before the two could draw their weapons.

Brewer was left to guard the horses and Bulck and McBroon went with the Indians to aid them in capturing DeMose and Kuhl.

With his rifle, the bullet going in at the right side near the back and coming out below the left breast. DeMose fell dead, his hands touching the trunk of the tree whose shelter he had sought.

Kuhl fled to the hills, where he remained all day.

When Coroner Whitlock, District Attorney Kuykendall, Deputy Sheriff John Schallock and Court Reporter Richardson arrived a coroner's jury consisting of Fred Beck, J. P. Callahan, Jesse Drew, St. B. Pool, John Donald and Irving Cutter, was summoned, and after hearing the testimony of the witnesses decided that there was no crime committed by Mr. Brewer.

LIMBS WERE BADLY MANGLED

PHYSICIANS' SKILL WILL SAVE THEM

Frank Smith's Leg and Arm, Crushed by Traction Engine, May Not Be Lost

Four weeks ago tomorrow Frank Smith, while setting the brake on one of the lumber trucks hauled by the Meadow Lake traction engine, fell under the wheel, and his left arm was broken in three places, the left hand was terribly mangled and his left leg was broken in two places. He was brought to this city and placed under the care of Drs. Hamilton and Fisher. It was thought at first that it would be impossible to save the arm, and it was doubtful about saving the leg, also. But the doctors decided that neither one should be taken off at that time, and through their skill and the attention of the nurse the probability is that both the arm and the leg will be saved.

Sunday Dr. Fisher put the leg in a cast, and now Mr. Smith is able to move around in the bed a little more.

The accident in which Mr. Smith was injured occurred on a steep hill between the Meadow Lake mill and this city. Smith was firing the traction engine, and also assisted in setting the brakes. As they were going down the hill he noticed that the three trucks which the engine was hauling were going quite fast, and he ran between the first and second one to set the brake. The handle of the brake was bent, and for some reason the brake failed to catch, and when he released it the handle flew back and threw him to the ground, directly across the road, in the path of the wheels.

The sides of the road sloped up considerably at that place, and Smith realized that he could not roll away from the trucks, and he turned towards the middle of the road between the wheels. He was not quite quick enough, however, to get out of the way, and one of the massive, ten-inch wheels of the truck passed over his left arm and hand, the indented surface of the massive wheel crushing the arm and terribly mangling the hand, tearing it so badly that one could see between the bones in the palm. The wheel also passed over his left leg between the thigh and knee, breaking it in two places.

His presence of mind did not leave him, however, and he continued to roll until he reached the center of the road between the wheels. His absence was not noticed until the remaining two trucks had passed over him, when his predicament was seen. He was brought to this city, where he has been since that time.

Until Dr. Fisher placed the cast on his leg Sunday, Mr. Smith has been able to move but a few inches, but now he is able to occupy a somewhat more comfortable position in bed.

Each truck weighs about five tons when empty, and as they were loaded with between 7,000 and 8,000 feet of green lumber it is an enormous weight that crushed the limbs of Mr. Smith.

Had it not been for his presence of mind in rolling toward the center of the road as quickly as he did the wheels would have cut his body in two.

He may lose the use of his arm and hand partially, but it is probable now that it will not be necessary to amputate either of his limbs.

EXCURSION ON THE UPPER LAKE TONIGHT

It has been planned to spend four hours on the lake, returning to the Winema landing at midnight. The transfer wagons will be at the landing when the boat returns to bring the sailors home. All the members of the different young people's societies in the city, as well as their friends, are invited to take this moonlight ride on the Upper lake. Remember the day and the hour, and be on time. Fare on the boat will not exceed $1.

MANUAL TRAINING TAUGHT

IMPORTANT BRANCH OF HIGH SCHOOL WORK

Equipment Being Installed for Teaching This Work Here During the Coming Year

Mr. Hawley, the manual training teacher of the County High School for the coming year, is expected to arrive in Klamath Falls August 25th, and will oversee the installation of the work benches and other equipment necessary for the new course. Considerable work has already been done in the rooms to be occupied by the new department, and Principal Faught hopes to have everything ready for work in manual training as well as in the other departments to start on the first day of school. A brief outline of the manual training work is as follows:

First year—Mechanical drawing, furniture designing, tracing and blue printing.

Wood work—Exercises in handling tools, keeping them sharp and in working order, furniture construction and primary cabinet work.

Second year—Mechanical drawing and designing, wood turning, moulding, pattern making and cabinet construction.

In the third and fourth years the mechanical drawing is continued and iron work is taken up. This part of the work will not be put in for another year or two, and so is not given here in detail.

The first thing that strikes one in looking over such a course as this is its great practical value. If a boy who has been taking a manual training course has to stop in the middle or at the close of his High School career and go to making his own living he will have something that will be of assistance to him whether he goes to work on the farm or in the workshop. If on the other hand, he wishes to go on to the university and take an engineering course he will have an excellent foundation for the work he must do there. In fact, no matter what occupation or profession a man may follow, he is all the better off for being able to design such pieces of furniture as he may need, and even construct them if he chooses to do so.

But this practical value of manual training, attractive though it may be, is not the main reason for its adoption into the courses of study in the schools of the country. There is an educational value in manual training outside of its practical application. It has been found that a student who is taking such a systematic course as is here outlined is receiving a mental development just as valuable as that derived from a course in mathematics or latin, and that such a course makes his mind stronger for the work along other lines. This last consideration is one that is frequently overlooked in considering the value of manual training in a school.

This work will be optional in the County High School.

ROOSEVELT OUT OF NEW YORK CAMPAIGN

Responsibility Off His Shoulders—Takes Much Interest in California Election

WAS NOT ONE DISSENTING VOTE

COUNCIL DECIDES TO HAVE TELEPHONE SYSTEM

Bids Are Received for the $5,000 Bond Issue—Highest Gives $65 Premium

While the council only met for about three-quarters of an hour Monday night, they did business. In that time they heard the report of the street committee relative to the change of the grade on Main street between Center and Second, and also passed the telephone ordinance over the mayor's veto.

Councilmen Wilkins, Castel, Willets, Waldron, Stone, Obenchain and Summers were present when Mayor Sanderson called the meeting to order.

The matter of the telephone ordinance was brought up and no one seemed willing to move that the ordinance be acted on. Finally Councilman Wilkins said: "Mr. Mayor, in order to get the matter before the council, I move that the ordinance be passed over the mayor's veto." The motion was duly seconded, and when the roll was called there was not one dissenting voice, every member present voting "Yes."

This ordinance grants to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company the right to operate a telephone and telegraph system in this city for a period of twenty-five years.

The company is to have its wires not less than twenty-five feet from the ground, the city is to have free use of the poles for the installation of a police and fire alarm system, the rates are fixed in the ordinance and cannot be increased until the company has 1,000 or more instruments, the company must cut the wires at its own expense when it becomes necessary to move a house within the city limits, and is to paint the poles which are erected, five telephones are provided free for the use of the city.

Bids for Bonds

Bids for the $5,000 bond issue of the sewer bonds were received. They were as follows:

S. A. Keane & Co., Chicago, wants a $50 discount.

H. Rollins & Son, Denver and Chicago, $10 premium.

U. Sutherland & Co., $30 premium.

All the bids called for bonds bearing 6 per cent interest.

Main Street Grade

The question of the grade on Main street between Center street and Second came up. Mrs. Marple objected to the fill which would have to be made in front of her property as being excessive and objected to its being made.

The street committee reported that, although they thought the street should be raised, the whole matter ought to be gone over by the entire council.

MAYOR GAYNOR'S CONDITION IS NOW SERIOUS

Glands in His Throat Are Swelling and Gangrene Is Feared

HOBOKEN, N. J., August 17.—Mayor Gaynor's condition this afternoon is reported as being most serious. The mayor's brother and the city officials are hastening to his bedside. It is rumored that an alarming swelling had attacked the glands in the throat, and persons who are familiar with the case state that the mayor has been in a critical condition all along. He is in no better condition now than he was the day he was shot. Grave fears are entertained, as beside the danger from gangrene, there is the possible bursting of the affected blood vessels.

Stoss, independent, and Melvin, regular, were selected as nominees for supreme court.

Spaulding is probably nominated for senator.

The insurgent ticket is universally conceded to be successful with but few exceptions.
