

NEW WAREHOUSE COMPANY

WILL OCCUPY FIREPROOF CONCRETE BUILDING

To Store All Kinds of Goods and Merchandise, With Special Attention to Grain

The certificate of articles of incorporation of the Klamath Valley Warehouse and Forwarding company was received Thursday from the secretary of state and as soon as their new building is completed the company will be ready for business.

The company is capitalized at $25,000, and the officers are:

D. B. Campbell president.

M. B. Mickler vice president and general manager.

C. H. Daggett, secretary and treasurer.

Those three men, with G. E. Bittinger of Los Angeles, form the stockholders.

The company will do a general storage, drayage and warehouse business, receiving, shipping and storing all kinds of goods, with special attention to grain.

Excavating is now going on for a warehouse 104x50 feet with a solid concrete floor and walls and galvanized iron roof, making it a fireproof structure. The building will consist of basement, main floor and loft, and will be erected on Spring street, opposite the freight depot of the Southern Pacific. Cofer Brothers are the contractors, and the structure is to cost about $12,000, and be completed within sixty days. Scales weighing from one ounce to ten tons will be installed.

A fireproof warehouse is something that is badly needed here, and the enterprising men who have formed this company will no doubt have all the goods they can accommodate. They will do a general teaming and transfer business as well as storage.

IMMIGRANTS THAT WOULD BE WELCOMED

There are thousands of square miles of waste lands in the Rockies that are practically of no commercial value as far as food production is concerned. Comparatively speaking, there is little life in them. As I write, I can, without long thinking, call to mind fourteen animals, all excellent food—that would thrive and multiply in that territory. The yak of the Asiatic mountains is used exactly for the same purpose as our own domestic cattle. Its beef is as good as our ox beef; its milk compares favorably with our dairy product; it is used as a beast of burden for saddle and harness, and its hair, which reaches the ground, is in great demand among Oriental carpet and rug makers. Its great value to the United States would be that it will live above the snow line and on the most uninviting provender. The land in this country resembling the yak's habitat—and there are thousands of miles of it—produces nothing in the way of food, and is practically uninhabited.

A companion of the yak in the mountains would be the llama of South America, that lives from the plains bordering the Pacific to the arid heights of the snow-capped Andes. This is an animal whose wool is splendid and very long, which makes fine meat and is also a beast of burden. In its home it is packed up to 100 pounds. Like the yak, its habitat is absolutely different from any domestic beast in the country.

Other animals from South America that would live in the Rockies are the vicuña and alpaca, both valuable for food and wool. The llama, alpaca and vicuña are of the camel family, but more resemble sheep, though from twice to three times the size of the latter. The European chamois, famous for its meat and leather, is another animal that could be introduced into the mountains of the country.—Captain Fritz Duquesne in Success Magazine.

GEORGE L. PRICE'S PERSONAL EFFECTS SOLD

Attached to Pay Board Bill Owing to Mrs. Peterstener—Brought Sixteen Dollars

When George L. Price, the erstwhile telephone promoter, came to this city some weeks ago, he boarded with Mrs. Peterstener. In time his board bill amounted to some $49. After Price left in the custody of the detective from San Francisco, Mrs. Peterstener attached his goods and published a notice of their sale.

The sale took place at her rooming house Thursday, and a number of persons were present to bid on them. They consisted of a suitcase and wearing apparel, and brought $16. John T. Harris was the manager of the sale, and Price's effects were sold in a lump.

The bidding started at 75 cents, but possibly believing that a telephone franchise might be concealed in the suitcase, the bids increased until the $16 was reached.

Price, however, will probably not miss the articles, as he is now in San Francisco awaiting trial on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses and passing fictitious checks. His wife is also suing him for divorce.

THE FARMER AND THE AUTOMOBILE

The poor farmer, who has always been a convenient scapegoat for every body else's follies, is now being hammered because he owns an automobile. Yet there is no class of people to whom an automobile may mean more than to the farmer. We once heard an old farmer remark that a manure spreader was more necessary on a farm than a piano. When it comes to a farmer's chatties it should be understood that the automobile doesn't come in the piano class of luxuries. As an implement it will be classed after the traction plow and in opening up 425,000 000 acres now inaccessible it will rank next to the irrigation ditch. Wherever the automobile has gone it has done missionary work for good roads, and it will continue to do that in the hands of the 25,000 farmers who now own cars.—Leslie's.

MERRYMAN—CAMPBELL

Miss Mabel Campbell and George H. Merryman were married at 5:30 Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Louis Gerber. Rev. George T. Pratt, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Only the immediate members of the family were present. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served.

The bride is one of the popular members of the younger set of this city. She has been a resident of Klamath county for practically all of her life, and numbers her friends throughout the county. The groom is one of the well known physicians of this city, where he has resided for about seven years. He has been honored by his fellow citizens by being elected to the house of representatives for one term and the state senate, which office he now holds.

Mr. and Mrs. Merryman left this morning for a brief wedding trip, their destination being unknown to their many friends. Profiting by the experience of former benedicts, the Doctor had no desire to be pestered by the usual tribute paid newly weds by their enthusiastic friends, so kept to himself his decision to take a honeymoon trip.

CYLINDER HEAD OF STEAMER BLOWS OUT

Accident to Modoc Will Put That Boat Out of Commission for Some Time

The cylinder head of the engine in the steamer Modoc blew out Thursday morning as the boat was nearing the Shippington dock, and will necessitate the laying off of that boat for repairs for some time.

The accident happened about two miles from the dock at 6 o'clock this morning, and the Winema went out and pulled the disabled steamer and her tow into her wharf.

The Modoc is a new boat, having made only two or three trips, and at the time of the accident was towing a barge of sand from the north part of the lake.

It is a wonder that Captain Wickstrom or some of his men were not killed, but no one was injured.

Finish Foundations

The Chico Construction company has finished the footings to the foundations of the new concrete block which H. M. Bristol is erecting between the Portland Store and the Boston Store, and has moved his concrete mixer to the septic tank. When the latter work is finished he will bring the machine back to the Bristol building and complete the structure.

TOO MANY MEN IN THE CITIES

PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCTS ARE TOO HIGH

The Products From Our Farms Is Much Less Per Acre Than In Other Countries

ST. PAUL, Sept. 3.—This was "Farm Afternoon" at the National Conservation congress. "We have too many people in the cities; too few in the country," said Henry Wallace, author, editor and member of Roosevelt's country life commission, of Des Moines, Iowa, whose address on "The Real Problem" was one of the features of the day.

"The great problem is how to keep enough skilled men on the farms to grow food at a price which the people in the towns and cities can afford to pay."

The city man does not now obtain food at anything like the farm price. He pays a third more, often twice as much—three times, sometimes four and five times as much as the farmer receives. So long as we had virgin soil to rob we did not see the inevitable end; but now that consumption has overtaken production the city wakes up and asks whence is to come its bread and its meats, at a price at which it is able to purchase.

"The city must be told with brutal frankness that there are too many consumers of farm products and too few producers."

"The farmer, too, is beginning to wake up, and finds that his yield per acre has been slowly declining for forty years. The farmer is a hard fellow to waken; when Roosevelt and James Hill talk to him he rouses himself, rubs his eyes; finally concludes that it is only a scare, and then goes to sleep."

"If the townsman is to live on his income he must get farm products moved from the farm to his kitchen door cheaper than he has been getting them. He must do the marketing himself rather than ordering by telephone, which adds about 16 per cent to the cost. He must get rid of the baby trusts, which fix prices for both town and city, and vermin like, live off the farmer and consumer."

"On the farmer's side he can add some acres by irrigation—a slow process—and by reclamation. Better cultivation, crop rotation and live stock farming are necessary."

"I have known cases where farm girls in Iowa were compelled to go into the harvest field and proved better hands than many men who were paid $2 per day. This illustrates the inefficiency of much of the labor which the farmer is compelled to use. The farmer can seldom use the city man. If the farm born boys and girls could be kept on the farm the overpopulating power of the farm breed of people would in time give up the labor which the farmer needs."

"It is a burning shame that, with the finest body of agricultural land in the world, we excel in wheat growing only the peasants of Russia and of India, that we should grow less than one-half the wheat per acre grown by England, France and Germany on land that has been farmed a thousand years."

"The most important thing is to make farm life satisfactory to the young and prevent them becoming consumers instead of producers, for a man fit to be a farmer is worth more to the city just now on a farm than in the city. Increased intelligence means a reform in our rural schools, converting them from poor town schools, moved out into the country, to a school that imbues the pupils in their plastic stage with a love of farm life and fits them for it. It means eventually the socialization of rural life, as distinct from city life."

"This nation cannot maintain its high standard of civilization unless the drift from the country to the city can be stopped. The cities use up men and families as they use up horses. The country cannot stand much more skimming of its cream into the city. The trouble with the people of the United States, both in city and in country, is that the conditions of life have heretofore been too easy. The farmer has got rich by mining the soil and harvesting the unearned product, rather than by farming; the great cities largely by favoritism at the hands of corporations."

"We are now nearing the end of our tether. We are facing the problem of how to keep enough people on the farms to feed the cities at a price which they can afford to pay."

TESTIMONY IN THE DOCTOR CRIPPEN CASE HEARD

The Hair, Underwear and Marks on the Body Found Tally With Those of the Missing Woman

LONDON, Sept. 3.—At the Dr. Crippen hearing today Mrs. Harrison, a neighbor, testified to the scar found on the body found in the Crippen house as being similar to one on Mrs. Crippen's. The underwear on the body was similar and the hair was identical with that of the missing woman. Dr. Crippen winced when he heard Mrs. Harrison's testimony.

Misleading

"The laws now enable you to look at a food label and know exactly what you are getting."

"Maybe," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "But I never yet saw a can of lobsters or a can of tomatoes whose contents looked like the pictures on the outside."—Washington Star.
