WOODARD'S AUTO GOES OVER BANK

ASIDE FROM DUCKING, MAN WAS NOT DAMAGED, WHILE THE MACHINE SUFFERED SLIGHTLY FROM SUDDEN IMMERSION

Charles Woodard and his Brush runabout took a joy ride on Monday afternoon which will not be tackled by many of our autoists—if they can help it. It was a cool sort of a trip at that, but decidedly a damp one.

Woodard was starting across the river, and was on the approach to the bridge when he lost control of the steering gear and the machine swerved and went down the embankment into the river. Woodard stayed with the car, but was not injured, while the damage to the car does not amount to much. The car was fished out and sent to a garage and Woodard hiked homeward for dry clothing.

GEN. MAUS HERE TO SEE GROUNDS

ACCOMPANIED BY HIS CHIEF OF STAFF, COMMANDER OF DEPARTMENT OF THE COLUMBIA VISITS MANEUVERING GROUND

Accompanied by Lieutenant Whitby, Captain O. C. Applegate and others, Brigadier General M. C. Maus, commanding the Department of the Columbia, and his chief of staff, Major H. C. Cabell Monday inspected the site near Fort Klamath that the government proposes to use for maneuvering purposes. General Maus and his aide arrived Saturday afternoon from Vancouver Barracks, and left yesterday for the territory being surveyed by a detachment of engineers under Lieutenant Whitby.

This visit of General Maus' will be one of the deciding points in regard to the acceptance of the ground by the government. After Lieutenant Whitby completes his preliminary surveying work, he will make a report to the government, together with his recommendation, and as a supplement to this General Maus will also send in a recommendation. The general was here last summer and went hurriedly over the ground, but after this visit he will be more thoroughly posted.

Should the site be selected, it will mean that troops, both regular army and national guard, to the number of several thousands, will rendezvous there every summer, to play the "war game," and train under actual warfare conditions. Such a large force of men will necessarily demand a large quantity of supplies, and as a matter of course, these will be drawn from the immediate country.

General Maus, after leaving the proposed maneuvering grounds, will return with his party by way of Upper Klamath Lake. They will stop at B. St. Geo. Bishop's country seat, "The Cedars," where Mr. Bishop and Colonel Levin C. Allen, who was retired from the United States Army after forty years of service, will entertain them.

SAMARITAN HOSPITAL WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Tomorrow afternoon between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 and in the evening from 7:30 to 8:30, a reception will be held at the Samaritan hospital at the corner of Sixth and High, the occasion being the formal opening of the much needed institution. At this time all residents of Klamath Falls are cordially invited to be in attendance.

The management of the hospital have gone to no little expense in fitting up the establishment, and the equipment, though the hospital is comparatively small, is equal to that of the larger institutions. A. J. Lyle, manager of the Samaritan, has been working hard for some time past getting together the best possible apparatus and fittings.

There are now seven patients in the hospital, according to Mrs. Dorothy Luce, the chief nurse.

STATEHOOD BILL UP TO SENATORS

RECALL IS SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION TILL LATE TOMORROW. AT THE VERY LEAST—ALL WANT TO TALK ON IT

United Press Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 7.—The senate today took up the statehood measure. It is expected that the legislative day will be continued till Tuesday, as a large number desire to speak.

Pointexter is opposed to the amendment of Nelson striking the recall of the judiciary from Arizona's constitution. He said this was no business for congressmen, asserting that the principle is utterly destructive to republican government. Borah of Idaho assailed the recall. He said that after such a law was written a judge should not consider anything except in the terms as it was written. If the judge was thus forced to consider his popularity, he said, law would become paltry.

WOUNDED BLACK BEAR MAKES HIS GETAWAY

A party of hunters out for deer last Friday on Swan mountain encountered a big black bear, which they shot with a small caliber gun, and wounded, fatally, they are sure, judging from the gore by which they were able to trail through the dense thickets.

Nelson Rounsevell, the contractor, who is building the pretty bungalow on High-school hill, and J. Y. Johnson, who owns a timber claim on Swan mountain, are the hunters, and they say if it were not for becoming so thirsty during the chase after the bear, that they would surely have run him down. We have heard of many reasons precluding the close proximity to a wounded bear in a dense thicket, and they are good ones, and a drink of something other than water always helps some at such an exciting time. We don't know what they had, in their car, so thirst-quenching.

Since the boys have relieved their thirst they assert they are going back and get old bruin, and they are pretty sure he is dead now.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dalton, prominent residents of Tule Lake, accompanied by Mr. Dalton's mother and his brother, B. F. Dalton and wife, returned Sunday from a trip by auto to Crater Lake. Mr. Dalton's mother and brother and sister-in-law arrived here recently from Stigler, Okla.

FINE CATCHES AT THE SYLVIA CAMP

IN ADDITION TO YANKING OUT THE SCRAPPY RAINBOW, THE GUESTS TELL OF DEEDS AROUND THE FIRESIDE

(Staff Correspondent)

SPRING CREEK, Aug. 7.—Round the fireside of a fishing camp on Spring Creek (Frank Sylvia now controls the Henry Hoover resort on Spring Creek as well as his own on Williamson River) Captain O. C. Applegate of Klamath Falls always has "lager listeners to the many incidents the genial ex-superintendent of the reservation can tell of the Modoc War and other frontier tales of this great country. All of the Sylvia guests are acquainted with the Captain, and some of them are not slow at telling stories themselves. Most of them, however, are of the sportsmen type, and are pretty "fishy."

C. K. McIntosh, vice president of the Bank of California, ranks second only to Mansfield in fly casting. In addition a tale he related a few nights ago places him on record as the greatest Munchausen of the season. Whittout fishing the day before, McIntosh says he raised a clam, and the story he tells of the terrific battle the close-mouthed one put up is graphically interesting. Sylvia, of course, can furnish corroboration and affidavits, but even Sylvia's veracity of long standing is winked at by some. Mr. Sylvia adds that the clam was of the Pearl variety.

A. B. Finch and E. M. Hecht arrived last Wednesday in a touring car. They are having good success in the ripples of Spring Creek and at the big pools, the haunts of the rainbow in the Williamson.

A six pounder was landed by J. J. Wirtner of San Francisco Tuesday evening, and reports of good catches are constantly coming to the front.

OFFICIALS ARE INSPECTING THE POE VALLEY PROJECT

A. P. Davis, chief engineer of the United States Reclamation service of Washington, D. C., and E. P. Hopson, supervising engineer of Portland, are in the city to visit the Klamath project. In company with Project Engineer W. W. Patch they spent Monday inspecting the Poe Valley extension of the lower project.

Chief Engineer Davis is here for the purpose of attending the board meeting of engineers to pass on the plans and specifications for the building of the Poe Valley extension. If the plans are approved it is probable that bids will be advertised for this fall for construction early next year. The water for the irrigation of Poe Valley lands will be taken from the main canal, and will be conveyed onto about 7,000 acres by means of three laterals.

W. C. Dalton, one of the big property owners of Southern Klamath, came in from Tule Lake last night with his wife to meet his mother and his brother, B. F. Dalton and wife, who arrived here last night from Stigler, Okla. The Easterners are here to see the country, and this morning Mr. Dalton started for Crater Lake in his auto.

Mrs. E. R. Reames returned Thursday from a visit to San Francisco, where she accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Frank Jennings. to attract attention from the leaguers. The importance of the communities will come before the convention. Addresses scheduled will deal with publicity problems in a practical way, calculated to solve questions that vex the average development worker; ideas will be exchanged on methods and those attending will come away better informed on matters of the greatest moment to the state.

During the three days session there will be enough entertainment to avoid the tedium that might follow uninterrupted business. A big banquet will be given by the Astoria people and the various points of interest about Astoria will be viewed. Then, too, the historic importance of the Centennial will be appreciated when the pageants and scenes depicting the first century of Oregon history are viewed.

The program now outlined for the convention follows:

Monday, August 14, organization day, and Tuesday, August 15, railroad day.

Call to order, Dr. H. L. Henderson, chairman Centennial committee, the mayor of Astoria.

Address of welcome, John E. Gratzke, editor Astoria Budget.

President's address, Theodore B. Wilcox, president Oregon Development League.

"Next Year's Work," C. C. Chapman, secretary Oregon Development League.

"What Better Organization Can Accomplish," William Hanley, Burns, vice president Oregon Development League and president Central Oregon Development League.

"Hens, Hogs and Harmony," J. W. Brewer, vice president Central Oregon Development League.

"Our Responsibility to Newcomers; How Commercial Clubs Can Serve Them," William M. Colvig, president Medford Commercial Club; vice president Oregon Development League.

"Exhibits as a Means of Education," Hon. James S. Brady, Boise, ex-governor of Idaho; president of Western Development Association.

"New Awakening for New Duties," Tom Richardson, founder of Oregon Development League.

"Exhibiting Our Products," John F. Carroll, Editor the Evening Telegram.

"Team Work Between Commercial Organizations and the State," Hon. Oswald West, governor of Oregon.

"Portland's Attitude Toward State Building," G. F. Johnson, chairman Promotion committee, Portland Commercial Club.

"More People on Farms," J. H. Raley, Pendleton, vice president Oregon Development League.

"Community Solidarity," J. Robert Hargraves, Hood River.

"Settling Our Logged-Over Lands," N. B. Coffman, Chehalis, Vice president Southwest Washington Development Association.

"Foreign Immigration," A. B. Hofer, secretary Salem Board of Trade, representative State Board of Immigration.

"Business Men, Bankers and Hogs," D. O. Lively, vice president Portland Union Stockyards company.

"Assimilating Settlers," W. J. Kerr, Corvallis, president Oregon Agricultural college.

"Industrial Education," L. R. Alderman, Salem, state superintendent public instruction.

"Good Roads and Rural Uplift," P. L. Campbell, Eugene, president University of Oregon.

"Community Co-Operation in Colonization Work," Louis W. Hill, St. Paul, president Great Northern railway.

"Oregon's Opportunity," representative of President Lovett of Harriman System.

"Helpful Suggestions," Howard Elliott, St. Paul, president Northern Pacific railroad.

"All Together for a Greater Oregon," Carl S. Gray, president Hill lines in Oregon.

Wednesday, August 16, Good Roads Day.

Reports from commercial clubs, presidents of league presiding.

Addresses on good roads by Louis W. Hill, chairman board of directors, National Good Roads Association; Sam Hill, Judge W. S. Worden, Klamath Falls, speakers representing the State Grange, C. S. Jackson, editor Oregon Journal, on "Good Roads Legislation," and others.

Election of Officers. Unfinished business. Adjournment.

Dr. R. R. Hargraves, who has been hunting with a gun in the hills about thirty miles from Wamplers, came in on Sunday night. He says his party met with very good success, but deer skinning him any too plentiful.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore have returned to Klamath Falls from Portland, where they were several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hughes have as a house guest, Mrs. J. W. Hughes, mother, Mrs. Tracey and Mrs. S. Howes.

IT'S ALL UP TO THE SPORTSMEN

GOVERNOR WEST DECLARES HE

WILL CLOSE THE HUNTING SEASON IF MEN START FIRES BY CARELESSNESS

SALEM, Aug. 7.—The open season for hunting deer as well as a number of other animals and game birds, began August 1st, and State Forester Elliott has his ear to the ground for reports of forest fires started through the carelessness of hunters. Every year a great many fires are caused by sportsmen leaving their camp fires unextinguished, and thoughtlessly dropping lighted matches, cigars and cigarettes as they travel through the forest in pursuit of game.

It will probably be news to many people of Oregon to learn that the forest fire law which went into effect February 24th, empowers the governor to declare a closed season for the shooting of wild birds and animals of any kind. The law covering this point is as follows:

"Whenever or wherever, during an open season for the hunting of any kind of game in this state, it shall appear to the governor upon the showing of the state forester that by reason of extreme drought the use of firearms or fire by hunters is liable to cause forest fires, he may, by proclamation, suspend the open season and make it a closed season for the shooting of wild birds and animals of any kind for such time as he may designate, and during the time so designated all provisions of law relating to closed seasons for game shall be in force."

"It is, of course, not my intention to urge the enforcement of this provision unless it becomes absolutely necessary in order to prevent destruction of forest property," said Forester Elliott in commenting on the above extract. "Whether any action is taken depends entirely upon the behavior of the hunters themselves. However, just as soon as this office receives reports that fires are being started through the carelessness of hunters, I shall immediately present the facts to the governor and recommend that a closed season be proclaimed. The governor is heartily in favor of this plan, and has assured me that he stands ready to issue such proclamation should conditions warrant. This matter, as I said, is entirely in the hands of the hunters, for as long as they exercise due precaution while in the forests I will, of course, have no reason for taking action. It would be an excellent plan for every hunter to familiarize himself with the Oregon Forest Fire law, copies of which will be sent upon application to this office."

NEWLYWEDS GIVEN A SERENADE BY BAND

A quiet wedding was solemnized at 9:30 Sunday morning, when Rev. Feese united Miss Ina Ione Ingalls and Archibald Y. Tindall in the bonds of matrimony. In the evening the Klamath Falls Military band, of which Mr. Tindall is a valued member, turned out in full force to serenade their fellow musician at the apartments of the newly wedded pair.

The bride's home is in Petowsky, Mich., but since her residence in Klamath Falls she has made a host of friends, and is well known in musical circles. Mr. Tindall is a member of the Herald force, and has a wide circle of acquaintances, who unite with this paper in wishing happiness and prosperity to the pair.

AMONG SECRET SOCIETIES

Linkville Lodge No. 110, Ancient Order United Workmen will have several candidates for initiation at their regular meeting in the A. O. U. W. hall tomorrow evening. The members are planning for a big time, and have arranged for a banquet and special entertainment. The order has nearly 200 members in this county, and a very large attendance is expected at Tuesday night's meeting.
