London Officers Pick Up Fine Pair of Crooks, Posing as Members of the Elite, While Engaged in Shoplifting

United Press Service LONDON, Nov. 1.—A woman who gave her name as "Annie Gleason," and who was sentenced to five years imprisonment by a London magistrate recently, turns out to be the notorious "Charity Ann," formerly of New York and Chicago. She is one of a dozen skillful American crooks who invaded England several years ago, after the States became too hot for them. She was the wife of "Slim Jim," the Detroit crook, who was, perhaps, the most interesting personality in the "American mob" in London. He has just been released from a five-year term here. His wife was arrested in company with a man claiming to be a Russian prince. He was discovered to be in reality a Soho restaurant waiter. They were shoplifting.

BRIDGE STREET FILL IS ORDERED

Attorney Horace M. Manning appeared before council Monday night with his client, L. D. Ward, to protest against the ordering of the grading and filling of Bridge street. His assessment for the work will run close to $250, while Mrs. Joe Moore will pay about $150, and it was stated that both these property owners would bear the greater part of the burden of the improvement. The attorney argued that there was no pressing need for the work to be done now, that it would only make the streets more impassable, and work a financial hardship on the property holders. Paul Breitenstein, who owns some property along the improvement line, protested vigorously against the delay in the matter, as no way to build up a city, and said he had paid hundreds of dollars to get the streets bettered. He said he had attended fourteen meetings of the council on the proposition, and that if the council would not do the work now it did not want to improve the city. Councilman G. W. White explained to Mr. Ward that he could pay in ten annual installments, nothing for the first year. The remonstrant said he wished to delay only because he thought the whole thing had to be settled at once when the work was completed and for this reason and the fact that he felt unable to pay such a big bill right away, he wished to have the improvement deferred. The council adopted the measure ordering the improvement.

SOCIALIST MAY BE MAYOR OF CITY OF LOS ANGELES

United Press Service MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 1.—Taftites are rejoicing at the president's refusal to be butchered to make Pittsburg a holiday, when members of the Chamber of Commerce there "bailed" him at the banquet last night. Congressman Littleton denounced the Sherman law, and demanded its repeal. He was wildly cheered by hundreds of millionaires, and 150 minor officials of the steel trust. President Taft, mad clear through, his face suffused, pounded the table, the dishes rattling, and almost screamed. He cried: "The law must be enforced, and stifling competition, establishing of monopolies, and thus controlling prices, must cease, or we must allow these gentlemen to run the entire business of the country or take the final step to have a socialist republic." The president is here today to participate in the inauguration of Thomas Hodges as president of the University of West Virginia.

WANT GOOD TITLE TO FORTY HE HOLDS

After living in undisputed possession of land for nearly forty years, to bring suit to quiet title in a state where adverse possession for ten years is the residence required by the statute may seem odd, but it is susceptible of explanation. James Taylor, a well to do ranchman of Fishhole Creek, near Bly, is the one bringing suit through Attorney J. C. Rutenic, while the defendant is C. W. Finch. The land, forty acres, is technically described as the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 13, township 37 south, range 14 east, and is a fine natural meadow land. Taylor acquired it from the state of Oregon in 1873 as swamp land. This was before the Modoc war, and the period of Taylor's possession has seen many interesting and vivid chapters of history written about the region in which the land is located. It appears that after Taylor got the land it was granted by the government as a part of the Oregon military land grant, so that a patent was issued from the United States. It appearing that the state's application to the federal powers for the land was in some way held up, and then rejected, which left Taylor on the land, but with no patent. Through the patent issued as a part of the military road grant C. W. Finch of Springfield, Oregon, not long ago took title, and the suit brought by Taylor is to establish the absolute ownership of the land as it is today as between Finch and himself. The land is a part of a field of the latter's extensive ranch, and while as long as Taylor lives he has no fear of being disturbed in possession, owing to his holding since 1873, he wishes to settle the ownership for the benefit of his estate.

EYE JARRED OUT OF PLACE BY FALL

SCHOOL BOY STRUCK OVER LEFT OPTIC BY FALLING BAR, AND ORGAN IS SHIFTED FROM ITS NORMAL POSITION

Clarence Montgomery, a lad of 14, who attends Riverside school and carries papers, met with a peculiar accident which shifted the position of his left eye. With some other boys he was practicing athletics in a gymnasium, and Clarence was using the turning bar, which, while he was on it, slipped from the socket and precipitated him to the floor. The bar fell on top of him and struck him over the left eye, jarring it out of place, so that the angle of vision apparently crosses that of the other optic. For the first two or three days after the occurrence the eye pained the boy, but since then he has suffered no inconvenience save that the sight of the altered eye is slightly weaker than normal. Since the occurrence the eye has worked slightly toward its proper position in the socket, and the family have been waiting, hoping that the eye may move entirely back into place without the necessity of an operation. If it is determined that an operation is necessary Montgomery will go to Portland to a specialist. The boy is a son of Logan P. Montgomery, who is foreman at the stone crusher plant, and lives at Fifth and Grant streets.

HIG GRAIN PARADE OF FARMERS DAILY

Talk about your agricultural fairs and exhibits. If the people of Klamath Falls and visitors in the city would only take the trouble of walking a few blocks they would be able to see a demonstration of the future agricultural possibilities of this county as confined to the growing of grain and manufacture of flour and byproducts. If anyone has the slightest doubt that Klamath county can grow grain in abundance, he should visit the Klamath Falls roller mills on the corner of Sixth and Oak streets. It is possible that he will not be able to get within a block of that place, on account of the jam of farmers' teams loaded with wheat and barley for the mill. At one time Monday twenty-nine wagons were standing in line, waiting to unload, and it is said that on one day last week as many as sixty were in the waiting line at one time. Farmers have been hauling grain since September, and the greater portion of the crop is yet to come. The threshing is not sufficiently completed yet to ascertain to any degree of reliability as to the approximate crop in Klamath county this year, but it is predicted that it will be far in excess of any season in the past. The acreage this year has been greatly increased, and reports from all over the county are exceptionally promising. It is stated that the wheat crop is running from 30 to 40 bushels to the acre; barley, 60 to 75, and oats 90 to 100.

United Press Service LONDON, Nov. 1.—Judge Ruegg of London, Stratfordshire, is the modern Solomon. A colliery company asked leave to reduce compensation paid an injured employe on the ground that he had been given suitable employment after the accident. The man claimed the work was too hard for one in his condition. Judge Ruegg then decided to go to the mine and do the man's work himself, to know just how hard it was. He returned, tired and grimy, after two hours shoveling stunt, and promptly rendered a decision in favor of the poor collier, declaring the work too difficult.
