SOCIALISTS ARE IN CONVENTION ASKS CAMPAIGN OF LITERATURE

DISCUSS JUDGE HANFORD'S DIS-FRANCHISING DECREE

Delegates Behind Movement to Compel Hanford's Recall—Berger Will Take Action on Floor of Congress. Expect Aid From Republicans and Democrats—Four Candidates for Presidential Nomination

United Press Service
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 13.—Judge Hanford's action in disfranchising Leonard Olsson of Tacoma overshadowed everything at the socialists' national convention. The delegates are behind a movement to compel Hanford to recall his decision or to face impeachment charges.

Congressman Berger promises to act on the floor in congress regarding the decision in the near future. Republicans and democrats are telegraphing the socialists offering help in their efforts to prove that Hanford is permitting personal prejudices to rule his decision. The decision will be carried to the supreme court if necessary.

Tomlinson hall is decorated with red flags and the American flag.

This afternoon was devoted to a reception to fraternal delegates.

The presidential candidate to be nominated Friday lies between Debs, Haywood, Harriman and Seidel.

COMING BOXING CONTEST CREATES GREAT INTEREST

The coming boxing contest between Bud Anderson, the fast Vancouver lightweight, and Frankie Edwards, the Oakland boxer, is talked of considerably among the fast enthusiasts of the city. The bout has been arranged by Promoter Merle Houston, to take place at the opera house during the Elks' Rodeo. The coming bout promises to be fast and furious, as the two little boxers have been seen in action several times, while training, in preparation for their twenty-round exhibition, which took place at the opera house several months ago, and resulted in a victory for Bud Anderson by a narrow margin. It is also stated that there will be two or three preliminaries between local men before the main event is scheduled to take place. There is no doubt but that the opera house will be crowded to its capacity on the night of the event.

Work recommended many radical amendments to the socialist constitution because, he said:

"We have come to the point where the itch for office is likely to cause an influx of old party politicians into our ranks. We should increase the length of membership necessary to be a candidate for public office. Doubtless an attempt will be made to let down the bars and make it easier to get into the party and easier to run for office. It should be made harder, not easier. This is too critical a juncture in our movement to throw down the safeguards and allow it to become the prey of designing self-seekers."

"The signing of blank resignations by our candidates for public office should be made obligatory. Even though the capitalist courts might declare such resignations void, their moral effect is great. But no committee should be entrusted with the power to fill out such resignations. The membership in the territory covered by the office should alone have the power to decide when such action is to be taken."

Most of his amendments were designed to carry out the above suggestions, while others were generally technical. He recommended, however, that all of the party press should be owned absolutely by the local, state and national organizations. The number of socialist papers he said were: Daily, English 5, foreign 8; weekly, English 262, foreign 36; monthly, English 16, foreign 2.

TRACE IDENTITY OF MURDER VICTIM

SEVERAL CLUES TO IDENTITY OF VICTIM FOUND

Aged Woman Views Remains and Believes Body That of Her Daughter, Formerly a Resident of Chicago, and Who Had Quarrel With Her Husband—Clothing Has Brand of Chicago Merchant

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—Mrs. L. A. Keller, an aged woman, today viewed the remains of the unidentified victim, whose body was found yesterday in an unoccupied house with her head split open. She said she believed it to be that of her daughter, but refused to give her name. She said her daughter, who was missing, had a quarrel with her husband, and formerly lived in Chicago. She had clothing similar to that of the victim.

A nurse named Kathryn, missing for several days, is believed to be the unidentified woman murdered here. Authorities refuse to tell her name.

The identity of the murdered woman is still unsolved. In addition to the handkerchief with the initial "K" on it, the suit and hat bore labels of Marshall Fields, Chicago, and the in the clothing were badges of Socialities of Church of the Holy Name, Chicago.

Detectives are confident she is a Chicagoan. Laundry marks "C" and "VX" on the clothing are being traced.

ADVISE CHANGE SCHOOL SYSTEM

INDIANAPOLIS, May 13.—The committee on education recommended that to make the school system of the country effective the following was necessary:

Approval of national, state and local action leading to the establishment of vocational instruction in the elementary schools. (Vocational includes agricultural, commercial, domestic and professional, as well as industrial. Much of the school work is already vocational for those entering the professions—about 4 per cent of the pupils; no changes are needed in this direction.)

Approval of the establishment of vocational guidance work in cities and towns.

Approval of extension of census work, or the establishment of permanent census work in the direction of yielding information as to the industrial changes and as to the character of the population.

Approval of extension of age compulsory education, with provisions for monetary compensation wherever necessary.

Support of legislation that will prohibit all work for children which does not lead to increasing economic and social worth.

Opposition to arrangements between school (public) officials and shop owners that leave the control of the education in the hands of the employers.

Insistence upon the control of industrial education being in the hands of truly representative bodies.

Insistence upon the subordination in public schools of skill and speed to understanding and appreciation.

Insistence upon emphasis being laid upon citizenship and manhood and womanhood.

Insistence upon administration that will permit of flexible re-adjustment of pupils to their own developing powers on the one hand, and to changing economic conditions on the other.

GREAT FEATURES FOR ELKS RODEO

CARLOAD OF CHAMPION BUCKERS SECURED

Rodeo Committee Has Gone to Great Expense to Secure the Most Famous Attraction eFeatures That Can Be Secured on the Coast—Every "Bad" Horse in the County Will Be Here

After weeks of negotiations the Elks have been successful in securing an entire car of bucking horses, headed by "Cyclone," the champion bucking horse of the world, which will be brought here from Pendleton, where most of them were used in the Round-Up. There will be about twenty horses in the car, and included will be Wardeloupi, Gavlotam, Sky Scraper, Billy Buck, Prescott, Black Diamond and Phoenix, all of them famous for their bucking propensities. Jeffries, the champion bucking bull of the world, will also be brought to the Rodeo.

The attraction will also include some of the champion riders who took part in the last Round-Up. There will be the champion bulldogger of the world, whose performance was one of the strongest features at Pendleton last year. A man will be sent to do the famous and thrilling drunken ride, and also a fancy roper.

The Rodeo committee are bound to make their first event one of the biggest attractions ever pulled off in Klamath county, and the systematic advertising being done in addition to the features of exceptional merit, is sure to bring thousands of people from all parts of California and Oregon.

There will also be an abundance of local performers, as every section of the county and many portions of Lake county will be represented with a string of wild and bucking horses. The two counties are already being secured for every available "bad" horse and outlaw.

TWO MINIATURE "TITANICS" OCCUR ON LAKE EWAUNA

Two miniature "Titanics" occurred Sunday on Lake Ewauna. One occurred when Bob Ryan's launch, on which there was a party of ladies, struck a floating log about midway between the Link River bridge and the fair grounds. The party on the Antler, which came to the rescue of Mr. Ryan's launch, consisted of the following: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bass, Mr. and Mrs. Crystal and their children, Maurice, Connie, Relda and Mamie; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jackson and their little baby, Clarice. At the helm, steering to the rescue, was Captain Hansbrough. Following the rules of the sea, the ladies were first taken from the vessel. After the men came aboard the Antler toward the other boat to the fair grounds.

On the return trip the Antler has a narrow escape, which might have been serious were it not for the skillful craftsmanship of Captain Hansbrough. He switched at full speed beneath the bridge with a view of docking at the Jennings & Reames slip, which has only an eight-foot span, while the Antler has a six-foot beam. The bow and glass cabin were shattered, and the compartment of the launch was a mass of wreckage.

A slight commotion occurred, but nothing further than a few hysterical cries of the women folk impaired the close of a comparatively eventful, though otherwise pleasant outing.
