NEW HEALTH REGULATIONS PROPOSED BY COUNCIL

An ordinance was introduced in council Monday night, which has for its purpose the regulation of the sanitary conditions of the city. It is a very lengthy and comprehensive measure, and was drawn by City Attorney Drake at the instigation of Dr. Truax, the health officer. The ordinance was introduced by Councilman McGowan, and was passed to its second reading.

The ordinance provides for the regulation of all public markets and eating places in the city, and the protection of all food displayed for sale. It also provides for the disposal of all garbage. A severe penalty of a fine and imprisonment is provided for the violations of any section of the measure.

PORTLAND MEN HERE IN INTEREST OF CO-OPERATION

J. R. Buchanan and L. B. Walker of Portland are in the city in the interest of the Co-Operative Supply House of Portland. They are interviewing local people with a view of establishing a branch here. The vice president of the concern, H. Irby Knox, is expected to arrive in the city Saturday.

Miss Golda Sauber of Chico, Calif., who has been visiting with friends in Dunsmuir, Slisson and Weed for the past two weeks, arrived in the Falls on Sunday evening on a visit with her aunts, Miss Lorinda Sauber and Mrs. Charles Pickett.

O. A. C. IS KNOWN FAR AND WIDE

GRADUATES FILL MANY POSITIONS OF IMPORTANCE AND TRUST THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

CORVALLIS, Aug. 6.—In the new alumni directory for which material is now being gathered at the Oregon Agricultural college there will be recorded an impressive array of appointments to positions of trust and importance, not only in Oregon and the great Northwest, but throughout the United States and in a number of far distant lands. From Schenectady, N. Y., to Zambouanga, P. I., and from Boise, Idaho, to Korea and to Lucknow, India, young men and women from the college are spreading the gospel of the new citizenship which looks not alone to the advancement of the individual, but to the welfare of the community and the health and prosperity of future generations.

In the Iolani School at Honolulu, D. C. Thayer, formerly of Ranier, is teaching the young idea to shoot after the American fashion, while in Lucknow, at the Reid Christian College, Ina V. G. Boggees, '94, is doing missionary work and inculcating the principles of science as applied to home problems in the darkened minds of the women there. Five students from India who have gone back with messages of progress to their own people are Sohan Lal Ravi, mechanical engineer, now at Hyderabad, Deccan; M. Senba Shampur, Bijoor, P. S. Harbans, mining engineer, at Lashkor Gwallor; M. R. Sai, at the Durbar power house, and M. A. Raschid, civil engineer at Etamah.

Of the '09 class, J. A. Tiffany, an agricultural student from Portland, is at Zambouanga, in the Philippines, and Harry Evans, who came from Bourne for a mining course, is now at Faracal, Korea, in the Unsan mines. V. P. Gianella, a Honcut, alif, boy, who graduated from the electrical engineering course a year ago, is with the Treadwell Gold Mining company in Alaska, while L. B. Howe, Coquille, a graduate of the commerce school, has gone to Barougan, Samar, Philippines.

Those who left America, however, are but a small number compared with those who remained under the Stars and Stripes, taking up their life work in different states. Fred E. Ewart, '10, Portland, has gone this summer to Lynn, Mass., to engage in important electrical work there, while a number of other young men are filling positions with the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y., including R. Zimmerman, '09, The Dalles; H. M. Phopst, '10, Albany, in the testing department; Julius Gordon, '10, Portland; John Plankinton, '10, The Dalles; Rupert Wall, '08, Early; Max Heinrichs, '04, Hood River; J. D. Carnegie, '11, Albany, testing electrical machinery, and a number of others.

There are many who have gone out to other colleges and universities in the East and Middle West. Miss Ruth Smith, '11, Marshfield, who has been instructor in domestic science at O. A. C. this year, leaves for Columbia University this fall. Ivan E. Kerr, '09, Ora, Idaho, is in the University of Michigan law school; H. D. Marsh, '10, Portland, is at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston, and R. R. Clark, '09, Portland, is at Cornell. Fred Pernot, '10, Corvallis, has held a teaching fellowship in the electrical engineering department of the University of California the past year, and his brother Jack, who was graduated from the school of forestry in '10, is with the United States forest service, stationed at present at Missoula, Mont. A. M. Weatherford, '10, Dayton, Wash., is in the Harvard law school, and Shamus O'Brien McFadden, '12, Corvallis, will enter Harvard this fall. C. O. Dicken, '07, Hood River, is at Chicago University, where Frances Huston, '10, instructor in physical training for women at O. A. C., enters the medical college this fall. Ralph W. Rees, '10, Springbrook, is one of the many graduates of the horticultural department now on the faculties of other colleges. He is at Amherst, in charge of the extension work in horticulture for the Massachusetts Agricultural college. James Koeber, '09, Sherwood, is at the University of California. Warren E. Forsythe, '07, Enterprise, formerly a pharmacy student at O. A. C., is now teaching in the medical school of the University of Michigan. L. C. McLain, '08, La Grande, is at the University of Chicago. Carrie A. Lyford, a '09 graduate of the department of domestic science and art, is in charge of the household science instruction in the University of Michigan law school.

All of these are but isolated cases, when compared with the great number of graduates who have gone out from the college to engage in agricultural pursuits. Instead of Maddox & Harris bidding in some whiskey at a sheriff's sale Monday, the wet goods went to the Star Drug company.

RAILROADS ARE DENYING RUMOR

The following statement has been issued by the department of economics of the Southern Pacific company:

The new transcontinental freight tariffs have been completed. The eastbound rates will become effective August 19th and the westbound tariffs will go into effect on the 2d of September. The fact that all commodities as do not move at all have been removed from the commodity tariff, has been seized upon to make it appear that the railroads have increased their rates. Nothing could be further from the truth.

In brief, all western tariffs have been revised; the dead wood has been thrown out and the tariffs constructed on as nearly a scientific basis as is possible, consistent with the amended interstate commerce act and the rules of the commission.

Much has been said to the effect that the railroads, in order to preserve their revenues, have deliberately raised rates on eastbound California products to such an extent that Pacific coast jobbers will have to go out of business. Such statements are the result of lack of proper knowledge of the tariff itself, and furthermore founded on the extremely fallacious assumption that the proper and expedient way for a railroad to preserve its revenues is to hamper the activities of the shipping public.

The truth is that in no instance have the carload rates been raised on California commodities. Furthermore, in order to simplify the tariffs and do away with the never-ending source of irritation resulting from over burdened commodity tariffs, all commodities that move to a very limited extent in less than carload lots, and such commodities as do not move at all, have been removed from the commodity tariffs and placed under the general class tariffs, where they properly belong.

In fact, on a number of commodities, such as beeswax, bags and bagging, green hides, nitrate of soda and tallow, interior points have been given the same rate eastbound as from Pacific coast terminals.

In the former westbound tariffs there were a large number of commodity rates on non-seagoing articles that were lower to Pacific coast terminals than to intermediate or interior points. These were readjusted by advancing the terminal rates to a figure that was reasonable for the service performed. This did not increase the rates on these commodities at interior points, but in most cases lowered them.

Rates that are lower to terminal points than to interior points have been forced by sea competition. But rates on such articles as do not move by sea, such as buggies, agricultural implements, furniture, tin cans, etc., that under the former tariff were lower to terminal than to interior points, were not defensible as sea-forced rates. Hence, the carriers were compelled to make rates on these commodities that would be no lower to terminal points than to interior points.

It is not intended to imply that these articles cannot be shipped by sea, but that generally speaking they are not, when rail transportation is at hand. To pack or prepare them or sea shipment is very expensive, besides, the rate by sea on such bulky and light freight is high as compared with freight of greater density.

A large number of carload and less than carload commodities were eliminated because of their non-use, hence such action did not increase the rate or charge. Some few commodity rates were advanced because the general readjustment of rates were advanced because the general readjustment of rates in the intermountain and western territory made it necessary.

After going thoroughly over the tariffs applying to and from interior points and also to and from terminal points—both class and commodity rates—I consider that the readjustment is the best that could be arrived at for both the shipper and carrier, taking into consideration the law which largely controls adjustment of rates as well as the rates themselves.

The commodity rates on less than carloads that have been eliminated in both east and west bound tariffs have been relegated to the classification and class rates, but if such articles are not moving in less than carloads, then no harm has been done.

TAFT URGES GREAT HASTE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 6.—Urging the necessity of legislation covering the maximum and minimum toll rates of the Panama canal, the government of the zone and the operation of the big ditch, President Taft today sent a special message to congress requesting that speedy action be taken on the Panama canal bill. It was made plain that failure to enact such laws might delay the opening of the waterway.

ROOSEVELT AROUSES ENTHUSIASM

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Although Colonel Roosevelt's "Confession of Faith" speech overshadowed everything else today, the delegates admit that the Southern negro question is sure to cause a clash. The credentials committee has endorsed the national committee's action.

The present situation is this: Florida is unrepresented. No negroes have been seated from Southern states. The rules committee has prepared a report in which is a resolution making the vote cast at the previous election the basis of representation in the convention. This resolution provides that hereafter one delegate will be allowed for each 10,000 progressive votes polled. Thus the strong progressive states will be able to dictate the policies of the party.

When the convention met at noon today, all of the committees except the committee on resolutions were ready to report. It was hoped that the platform would be short, but apparently it will not be under 1,000 words. It undoubtedly will urge a scientific tariff reform, Roosevelt's trust regulation plan, employer's liability, workmen's compensation, the settlement of the suffrage question by the vote of the people of each state, a strong army and navy, judicial reform, and laws everywhere with a view to making the rule of the people easier. These are the points of Roosevelt's speech today.

The platform committee will probably confer with Roosevelt tonight in order to finish the document.

The chief vice presidential candidates are Johnson, Lindsey and John Parker of New Orleans. Lindsey has declined a prominent chairmanship. He urges the making of the temporary organization permanent.

Roosevelt has not indicated any preference for a running mate.

The Coliseum filled slowly. The resolution committee continued at work up to the time the session started at 12:45, trying to get the documents in concise form. Leaders insist that unless the resolutions are in concise form they will not get the necessary publicity.

Colonel Roosevelt appeared on the platform at 12:48, amid a gale of cheers.

At 12:55 Senator Beveridge called the convention to order. The delegates gave the "Moose Call," and then Rev. Father Andrew Spetz of Chicago delivered the invocation. The chairman then announced that the committee with Colonel Roosevelt was in waiting. The delegates leaped to their feet, cheering, as the Colonel appeared.

A demonstration was started. Ten thousand flags and bandanas were waved, as Roosevelt stood smiling, bowing and waving his hand to the galleries.

Shouts of "We want Teddy" drowned out the band. The cheering continued, the Colonel himself participating, waving his arms and shouting.

After thirty minutes of cheering Senator Beveridge rapped for order, but this only seemed to increase the din. Meyer Lissner of California carried a big bear pole upon the stage. Many women followed him.

Throughout the demonstration, the cheering was steady, continuous and devoid of spasmodic outbursts that always mark a "planted" demonstration. It lasted fifty-two minutes.

Mrs. Roosevelt was discovered by the delegates sitting in a box near a stuffed bull moose head decorating the balcony rail. She was cheered as the Colonel threw her a kiss. The delegates gave her the Chautauqua salute with their bandanas. She finally rose and bowed her acknowledgments.

At 1:40, after the demonstration had been in progress for 52 minutes, the delegates and visitors resumed their seats so that a picture might be taken.

Senator Beveridge picturesquely introduced Colonel Roosevelt, saying:

"Gentlemen of the convention: The Hour, the Man, Theodore Roosevelt." Roosevelt advanced to the front of the stage at 1:49, with a printed copy of his speech clutched in his hand. Before turning to the text he congratulated the convention on the work performed, and declared that the party was dedicated to "Justice, fair play and equality between man and man."

"It was with read significance," shouted the Colonel, "that this convention should be opened with music from life and drums of men who faced death in their youth. It was significant that beside them stood men who wore the gray. While I stood here two men came over to me. They said one was a Johnny Reb and the other was a Yank, but both are Americans now; both are progressives facing the future together."

This departure from the set speech was cheered.

At 3:35 the convention adjourned until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

SWITZERLAND IS THE "RENO" OF CONTINENTAL EUROPE

GENEVA, Aug. 5.—It is more difficult to get married in Switzerland than it is to get divorced, and profitable by the fact that it only costs about $10 to secure a dissolution of the marriage tie. Swiss couples have placed their country an easy first in the divorce statistics of Europe.

Last year the proportion of divorces in Switzerland was 43 per 100,000 of the population. France comes second, with 33 per 100,000; Denmark third, with 27; Germany fourth, with 21, and other countries in the following order: Great Britain 17, Norway 15, Holland and Belgium 14 each, Sweden 10, Austria 8, and Finland 6.

HUTTON RULES FOR THE STATE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—On the opening of court this morning Judge Hutton ruled that the state had the right to ask Clarence Darrow if he had held a conversation with Harrington in a local hotel when a dictograph had recorded the conversation. The ruling did not indicate how the court will rule on the question of admitting the dictograph testimony in evidence if the prosecution attempts to introduce it in evidence on rebuttal to contradict Darrow's testimony.

It is expected that Darrow will complete his testimony this afternoon.

ARMOUR AND SWIFT BID MEAT TO HIGHEST POINT

United Press Service
CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Beef on the hoof went to $10 per hundredweight today. Armour and Swift were bidding against each other when the high mark was touched.

C. B. Crisler of the Klamath Meat company said this morning when he was shown the foregoing dispatch, that he was not surprised.

"Is there any notable effect on the local market as a result of the raise in the price of beef in the Eastern markets?" he was asked.

"Naturally," was the reply. "There is a scarcity of beef all over the country, and at this time there is but little disposition on the part of stockmen to sell beef at any price."

So far the price of meats in local restaurants has not been affected, but there are rumors current of increased prices to come.

VOTING IS IN PROGRESS TODAY

TOPEKA, Kans., Aug. 6.—With weather fair and cool, a record vote is expected in the primaries held throughout the state today for presidential electors, state tickets and congressmen. One United States senator is to be nominated.

Governor Stubbs is confident that the Roosevelt will defeat the Tafts. Stubbs is the Roosevelt candidate for United States senator.

Darrow Gets Rest

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—There was no session of court in the Darrow trial today. The jury was taken to the scene of the alleged bribing of George N. Lockwood, and Judge Hutton announced that additional time would be required to look up authorities as to the admissibility of a dictograph conversation between Darrow and Harrington.

Work was started Monday on the warehouse for Martin Bros. along the Southern Pacific track.
