

BUD ANDERSON ENJOYS FINE NIGHT

Bud Anderson had a pleasant little seance at the opera house Friday night, much to the discomfort of one Australian Kelley. In fact, it may be said that the entire Anderson family, known here, were pleasantly entertained, but a good sized bunch of fight fans was disappointed because of the brevity of a scheduled 20-round boxing exhibition.

Kelly, who had been picked to oppose Bud in the squared ring, did very little opposing. In fact, he early evinced a disability to stand on his pins, and, just as Chief of Police Smith started toward the ring to put a stop to the bout, "Kid" Williams in Kelley's corner threw up the sponge.

Kelley looked considerably lighter than Bud, and showed in the first round that he is some boxer. He poked Bud at least five times square in the face in the first round, but the only effect it seemed to have on the Vancouver lad was to bring a slight blush to his nose. But as a fighter Bud had it all over the youth from the Antipodes. In the second round Kelley commenced to slip and slide around the ring. One of these falls led to the cry of "foul," but Referee Linkenback refused to allow it. It was claimed that Anderson struck Kelley after he had fallen down. If he did the blow was not effective.

In the third round Bud smashed Kelley at will, and a knockout was prevented by Kelley's second.

Two preliminaries were more entertaining than the main event.

"Kid" Williams of Kelley's training camp and "Kid" White, a local boy, clashed good-naturedly for four two-minute rounds without doing any damage to anything except their wind.

The second event was more exciting. Fred Anderson, brother of Bud, and "Kid" Pomeroy, a local boy, went at it fast and furious. Spurred on by his admirers, Pomeroy went after his shifty opponent with the apparent intention of lowering the colors of at least a portion of the Anderson family, but he came to grief himself in the fourth round.

Pomeroy was fighting strong when, in a rapid exchange of blows he fell for the count. From the press table it was difficult to tell whether the sleep producer was the result of a short-arm jab to the jaw or whether young Anderson's head had accomplished the desired result.

Frank Williams refereed the two preliminaries, while Jack Linkenback, the well known local boxer, was the third man in the ring in the main event. Phil Sinnott, as official announcer, kept the crowd in good humor because of the numerous delays.

NEW HOME FOR LOCAL FOUNDRY BUILDING WILL BE READY FOR OCCUPANCY ABOUT MARCH 1. ELECTRIC CRANE WILL BE FEATURE OF EQUIPMENT

LACK OF LABEL CAUSES TROUBLE

INSTRUMENT MAKERS UNION WANTS MUSICIANS TO DISCARD VIOLINS MADE BY INSTRUMENT MAKERS OF LONG AGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Trouble started in the Chicago Federation of Labor because Stradivarius and Guarnerius did not put union labels on the violins they made some hundreds of years ago. The Cremonas should be discarded in favor of union-made instruments, it was demanded, in a communication from the Band Instrument Makers' Union. The discovery that some violinists in the Musicians' Union were playing Cremona violins without union labels brought forth the complaint from the instrument makers.

"I move that the communication be laid on the table," said B. C. Dillon, a violinist of the Musicians' Union. "I play an instrument that cost me $750; it's a 'Strad,' and I would not change it for 10,000 union labels. I wouldn't give it for a carload of union labelled instruments."

"The position of the delegate is untenable," replied Delegate Schlicht, of the Piano Makers' Union. "It is preposterous to suppose that union men cannot make as good instruments as non-union men. I suppose you think you are an artist?" he concluded, addressing himself to Dillon.

The trouble was stayed for the time by the appointment of a committee of two each from the Federation of Labor and the different unions of musical instrument makers to meet with the executive board of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, to try to effect a settlement.

TIMBER SALE IS APPROVED

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS PERMITS THE SALE OF 1,500,000 FEET OF TIMBER TO CHILOQUIN FIRM

The commissioner of Indian affairs has approved the contract with the Chiloquin Lumber company for the purchase of 1,500,000 feet of timber on the Klamath reservation. The price bid was $3.25 per thousand.

Since this sale was made the timber has been bringing $3.50. The Chiloquin Lumber company purchased several small tracts previous to this large contract direct from the Indian agent, who is permitted to dispose of timber to the value of $100. Sales bringing a larger amount have to be first approved by the commissioner.

RED WITNESSES GIVEN WHISKEY

PORTLAND SALOON MAN IS IN TROUBLE AS A RESULT OF A TRANSACTION WITH TWO KLAMATH AGENCY REDSKINS

Superintendent Edson Watson of the Klamath Reservation left this morning for Portland, where he goes as witness in an Indian liquor case. Henry Wilson and Adila Johnson, two Indians, are also witnesses in the case, and went to Portland Tuesday.

Some time last spring, while these two Indians were in Portland as witnesses in another case, it is charged that they were sold whiskey by a Portland saloon man. He was arrested and indicted by the grand jury, and is to be tried this week.

INVENTOR TOLIVER HAD NO PATENTS FOR AERIAL MACHINES WHICH MADE BASIS FOR COMPANY ORGANIZATION

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 23.—Stockholders in the Toliver Aerial Navigation company, organized by C. N. Toliver, the inventor who was killed by Hubert G. Lewis, today learned that Toliver left nothing but debts. No assets, or even patents on the machinery have been found; although over $60,000 was subscribed in stock. Lewis, who killed both Toliver and his wife, Katherine, was recently acquitted of the charge of killing Mrs. Toliver, and is now awaiting trial for the murder of the inventor.

FACIONAL FIGHT IS ON SCHEDULE

DEMOCRATIC SENATORS WILL ORS ON THE DIFFERENT COMMITTEES IS A BELIEF

United Press Service
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22.—

Senators returning to Washington before convention of congress predict that one of the most bitter, factional fights between democrats after March 4th will be for the control of the senate finance committee, the tariff making body of the upper branch of congress. Upon the selection of the chairman and democratic personnel of this important committee, it was pointed out, rests not only on the fate of any real tariff regulation or reduction by the Wilson administration, but also probably upon the make-up of many other important senate committees.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina is the "ranking" democrat on the finance committee, whose chairman is now Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania. By right of seniority, which is jealously adhered to by the senate, Senator Simmons is entitled to the chairmanship when the republicans step down March 4 because of the democratic majority in the senate.

But Senator Simmons is regarded as a "reactionary stand-pat" democrat. He is a protectionist on many schedules. He has often voted with the republicans on tariff matters, to prevent radical tariff reduction legislation. He is also not in close communion with the leaders of the Wilson movement.

Senator Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, "original" Wilson man, and strongly progressive, is picked as a possible opponent to Simmons for the finance chairmanship. Gore is a close friend of the president elect.

Efforts to name senators as members of the finance committee who are real "progressives" as to tariff legislation will provoke a lively fuss, it is declared. If the seniority rule is abolished and Simmons denied the chairmanship, it is probable that the precedent may be followed in other senate committees, and a straight square issue of progressivism versus conservatism between the democratic majority factions.

The various committee chairmen and members will be chosen when the next congress convenes at a democratic caucus.

Gov. Wilson's friends are said to be concerned over the possibility that "reactionary" democrats may secure control of the finance and other senate committees, and be in a position to defeat the Wilson tariff reduction plan and other "progressive legislation."

STATE LABOR COMMISSIONER PREPARES AN ESTIMATE OF THE GAME TO BE FOUND IN STATE OF OREGON

State Labor Commissioner O. P. Hoff has compiled a table showing the amount of game in the different counties in the state. Just how he secured the data is not known, but it is probable that he did like the little boy was advised to do, namely, put salt on their tails and then enumerate them. Here is the report:

It is estimated that Clatsop, Lincoln, Union and Curry counties each have 100 elk, while Columbia has 80, Tillamook 79, Lane 70, Grant, Baker and Umatilla 50 each, Wallowa 45, Douglas 25, Linn, Yamhill, Clackamas and Wasco 15 each, Jackson and Washington 10 each, Harney 3 and Klamath 2.

Forest rangers and game wardens place the number of deer in the state at 80,000, scattered as follows: Curry 15,000, Douglas 10,000, Coos, 9,000, Jackson 7,000, Lane 5,000, Josephine 5,000, Klamath 3,500, Yamhill 2,700, Union 2,600, Harney 2,000, Polk 2,000, Crook 1,500, Lake 1,500, Grant 1,500, Linn 1,500, Benton 1,000, Umatilla 1,000, Wallowa 1,000, Baker 1,000, Tillamook 1,000, Lincoln 1,000.

Mountain sheep are found in a few counties, Grant being credited with 5, Harney with 10, Baker with 50, Wallowa with 90.

The counties in which bear abound are as follows: Lane, Douglas and Curry counties 2,000 each, Union 1,600, Columbia, Grant, Jackson and Lincoln 1,000 each, Tillamook 760, Clatsop 700, Coos and Josephine 500 each, Washington 400, Klamath, Linn and Yamhill 300 each, Baker and Crook 250 each, Lake 200, Wallowa 150, Morrow, Clackamas and Umatilla 100 each, Benton, Wasco and Wheeler 50 each, Harney 40.

Antelope are found in six counties, Malheur containing 2,000, Lake 1,500, Harney 1,000, Crook 90, Wasco 20, Grant 15.

LOS ANGELES LAWYER WARNS AGAINST GROWING TENDENCIES OF INHABITANTS—FAMILY TIES ARE DISREGARDED

PASADENA, Nov. 23.—Independence of the American woman and brutality, drink and failure to provide for the family on the part of many men, as well as the generally loose attitude of both sexes towards the family ties, is gradually disrupting the American home, according to Judge Frank F. Forbes, a Los Angeles lawyer, in an address before the Christian Church Men's Club here.

Judge Forbes declared that a union of the denominational churches could in ten years cure the evils of the world.

Every effort is being made to find relatives of Mrs. Harrington.

SINGLE ACRE IS DIVIDEND PAYER

ENOUGH FEED MAY BE PRODUCED ON SMALL PIECE OF EARTH TO SUSTAIN THIRTEEN COWS THE ENTIRE YEAR

PORTLAND, Nov. 21.—Making one acre produce enough feed to sustain thirteen dairy cows one year with a slight addition of some other feed, would be declared a physical impossibility in any land but Oregon, and even here it will not be believed until the Land Products Show is visited.

Clatsop county shows kale, with the authenticated statement that it has been harvested there as high as seventy tons in one year. Seventy tons of this feed is 140,000 pounds. In making kale even a major portion of a dairy cow ration, this almost unbelievable tonnage would furnish thirteen cows 30 pounds each every day of the year.

In another exhibit which Clatsop county has is a pile of monster turnips, which are declared to have made a yield of 60 tons to the acre. This enormous tonnage would give ten cows thirty pounds of turnips a day for the year through.

In connection with these startling figures, it is interesting to note that on the P. O. DeMoss farm, at Rooster Rock, which is operated under the guidance of Agriculturist C. L. Smith of the O-W-R. & N. railway, last year, twenty-six tons of corn ensilage was made from one acre of sown corn. This corn ensilage would furnish 4 1/2 dairy cows a daily ration of thirty pounds every day of the year, and by adding to this ration ten pounds of alfalfa hay, would be sufficient for the best milker. Corn has been proved one of the best of all feeds for the dairy animal, and the results attained on the De Moss place, which have been in strict compliance with instructions furnished by the O-W-R. & N., were thought to establish a marvellous record.

To appreciate these figures, usual duties required of Oregon land must be considered. On the open range where the forest service leases, three to five acres are thought necessary to feed one steer through the summer grazing months. In the average hay field, one acre is estimated to be sufficient to feed one animal if the yield is good. But here at the Land Products Show one acre is proved to have possibilities when properly cultivated and attended, which surpass the dream of the uninformed farmer.

SERVIAN KILLS BRIGAND CHIEF

WHEN DESPERADO REFUSES TO LEAD INTO BATTLE HE IS KILLED AND HIS FOLLOWERS ARE PUT TO FLIGHT

BELGRADE, Nov. 21.—Issa Beletinat, the famous Albanian brigand, who with his men joined the Servian army, was ordered by General Zivkovitch to lead the advance against the Turkish positions. He refused, contending that the Servians should lead, whereupon the general accused him of mediating treachery.

Beletinat started to draw his revolver, but the general proved the quicker as a gunman, and shot the brigand dead. His followers were then promptly cut down by the Servians.

Why "sap" the cow or harness the "plugs" without a light on these dark mornings?

PEOPLE YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

∴ PALS HAVE A RE-UNION ∴

There was a Damon and Pythias, Alphonse and Gaston, and Mutt and Jeff. Locally there are Horace and Ike, known also to fame as Horace Mitchell and Alexander Davis.

For years Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Davis have been pals. They have been partners in business transactions and know each other so well that they never even try to trade horses with each other, but that, of course, is another story.

Recently Mr. Mitchell sold a butcher business which he has conducted in Ashland, and moved back to this section, where he was practically raised. It was a joyous re-union when he met his old companion, "Ikey" Davis.

Once there came near being a split in this friendship, however.

According to tradition it happened thusly: Horace invited Mr. Davis to dinner. Wine was served with the meal Mr. Davis did not care for any at first, but was urged to imbibe by his friend, who said:

"This is very light wine."
The next morning Mr. Davis awakened with a dark brown taste in his mouth, and it was a long time before he could be convinced that his friend had not deceived him about that wine.

ATTORNEYS GET

RID OF A CASE

Keesee & Groesbeck have withdrawn as attorneys for Arthur Wallen, who is in the county jail, charged with incest, and so far as could be ascertained this afternoon, no other attorney had been retained to make the defense.

The principal witness against Wallen is his daughter, who was recently brought back here from Texas, where she fled soon after the arrest of her father.
