MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19.—(Staff Correspondence Bulletin)—Congress will today formally accept Madero's resignation and elect Felix Diaz provisional president of the Mexican republic.

Physicians will examine Madero today. If he is found to be insane he will be sent to the asylum for insane criminals until peace is finally declared. After the fighting is ended Madero will be declared sane, and will be banished forever from Mexico.

Quiet Reigns
MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19.—Comparative quiet reigns in the city, following the capture of Francisco Madero last night. General Huerta is acting as military dictator and General Blanquet as military governor.

General Huerta, heading the combined federal and rebel armies, is having the city properly policed, and the traces of warfare are being rapidly removed. The censorship over press dispatches maintained by Madero has been lifted.

Vice President Suarez was arrested this morning, and is imprisoned at the Palace Diaz. Gustavo Madero is also in prison. It is believed that he will be executed.

Felix Diaz and his supporters are planning a triumphal march to the capital from Cuadela, where he has been directing the rebel fighting. The streets are crowded with throngs awaiting to join their voices in acclaiming Diaz president.

The city is taking on gala attire in place of the terrible conditions of the last few days. The people are enthusiastic, and the fighting where fully 3,000 were slain and half that number wounded, has been forgotten.

The anti-American sentiment has disappeared entirely, and the American embassy automobile is cheered everywhere. It conveyed the Diaz peace messenger to Huerta last night.

One of the scenes is at the White Pelican hotel, and a faithful reproduction of one of the parlors at the hostelry is to be one of the scenic effects.

There are four characters in the production, as follows: "Mrs. Lang," Miss Hazel Manning; "Maude Sutter," Jerry's sweetheart; "Miss Alysse Jones," "Harry Lang," Harry J. Hamilton; "Jerry, the detective," L. A. Reynolds. The cast is rehearsing daily.

SOCIALIST MAYOR WILL AGAIN BE CANDIDATE

BERKELEY, Feb. 19.—J. Stitt Wilson will again be a candidate for mayor of Berkeley.

The mayor made announcement to this effect this afternoon.

In this way, he says, he will be able to carry out his plans for the government of Berkeley, as he charges that a hostile council has greatly crippled the socialist program for municipal reform.

Wilson also announced that the socialists of California are planning to have a building at San Francisco during the Panama-Pacific International exposition.

The building will be a vast amphitheater. It will be used as a place for the expounding of the socialistic doctrine.

ALAMONT TAVERN IS DENIED BAR LICENSE

The application of L. H. Snell for a license to sell liquor at the Alamont tavern was denied by the county court Wednesday.

Mr. Snell's petition was presented by Attorney Fred Mills, who insisted that there was no good, legal reason for the rejection of the application.

The members of the county court were unanimous, however, in denying the petition on the ground that favorable action would be against public policy.

Dr. E. V. Morrow returned Tuesday night from Seattle and Portland, where he has been attending to business matters.

Perry O. De Lap is home from Portland, where he has been attending to matters in connection with the opening of the new drug store.

I. H. DAVIES OPENS A GENERAL STORE IN DAIRY

Dairy, the little metropolis of Yonah Valley, has had quite an addition to her business circles in the last few days by the opening of a general store by that well known and progressive citizen, I. H. Davies.

Mr. Davies has been a resident of Yonah Valley for more than ten years, and is favorably known by every man, woman and child of that thriving community.

When Mr. Davies first came to Yonah Valley, over ten years ago, he opened a general store, which he conducted until some three years since, when he went out of that business and turned his attention to ranching. His love of a mercantile life, however, has once more asserted itself, and he determined to enter that sphere again.

The general store which he has just opened will carry a full line of the goods in demand in a farming section, and the past experience of Mr. Davies is an assurance to his customers that in his place they will not only find the best of goods, but that the prices will be such that it will be to their advantage to do their dealing in the new store.

BUD ANDERSON MAY GET A MATCH WITH RITCHIE

"Bud is at least 100 per cent better in Los Angeles than when he boxed here," says Jack Linkenback, who returned Tuesday from Los Angeles to accept a position with the Ewauna Box company. Linkenback, who holds the welter-weight championship for the Northwest, was instrumental in getting Anderson properly introduced to Los Angeles fandom, and he was in the Vancouver lad's corner when he won from Sam Trott.

"Anderson is under contract to fight three bouts for Tom McCarey at the Vernor arena," continued Link. "If he wins these McCarey has assured Dick Donald, Bud's manager, that the Northwest lightweight will get a match with Willie Ritchie on July 4th.

"Bud is to fight March 8th, if suitable arrangements can be made, with Joe Mandot. In case Mandot cannot be secured, he will meet some other man of that caliber.

"McCarey has also assured him a match with the winner of the Brown-Rivers set-to. His third fight will be with Wolgast of 'Harlem Tommy' Murphy."

Bud and Dick have made several good offers to Wolgast, but the Cadillac ex-champ continually sidesteps, according to Linkenback. He declares that Wolgast has refused to accept a bet, even money, that Anderson can whip him.

LOCAL BOOSTER SAYS THIS MAY BE ORIGINAL CITY

The following explanation of the "Land of Nod" theory is contained in Monday's Oregonian:

"The story of the early history, archaeologically, of Klamath," said Frank Ira White of Klamath Falls, "is not in conflict with the Biblical story of the first city of the world."

Mr. White, who is president of the Chamber of Commerce of Klamath Falls, is one of the leading colonizers of that section, is in Portland, and he is the least disconcerted man of the community that has read the disclosures made in the Oregonian concerning the primordial relationship of the southern city.

"Geological formation," he said, "is revealed at many points, notwithstanding the great volcanic flow that covered the region of Klamath. You will note in reading the conclusions of Dr. Hallock that he treats the Bible version of Adam and Eve as allegorical. This, I believe, is in accord with the present time. As to his interesting conclusion that the Land of Peace, the most fertile, productive, prosperous and populous town of the dawn of history and the first to establish the practices and principles of community life, he seems to have found evidence he regards as positive."

Mr. White believes the geological formation and stories embedded in Klamath are being slowly unfolded by scientists.

"Crater Lake National Park," he said, "has only recently come to be appreciated at anything approaching its merits by authorities at Washington. Professor Diller's enlightening study of the geology of that section, published many years ago by the United States geological survey, is known to few in Oregon, yet it portrays the theory of the cataclysm that left to our observation and enjoyment the seventh wonder of the world—Crater Lake."

Mr. White believes there is a connection between the Crater Lake wonder and the discovery elucidated by Dr. Hallock.

"This superb gem," he said, glowingly, "is incomparable. Under Professor's Diller's direction it was thoroughly charted from shore to the highest crest of the crater rim of Wizard Island. Here, according to this geological research, Mount Mazama stood, towering several thousand feet above its sisters, Shasta, McLoughlin or Hood, the molten lava pouring from its vents emptying out the mighty craters until a total of almost twenty cubic miles of solid matter had disappeared, burning out a hollow into which the crown plunged, its topmost crater becoming the extinct crater of Wizard Island."

Here Mr. White proceeded to connect the theory of Crater Lake's ebullition with the dicta explained by Dr. Hallock.

"It was," he said, "this lava flow from Mazama, another from Shasta, possibly others from sources not now visible, that overran the whole region where had grown and prospered the first mighty tribes of humanity, building cities, developing agriculture, establishing commerce, attaining advancement in the arts, education and sciences.

"The terrific flow of lava poured down to the southern plains and across the eastward slopes, for, probably to the westward as now, stood the barriers of the lower portion of the Cascade range and the Siskiyou group.

"It must also be suggested at once that there are other established facts tending to confirm the Hallock theory.

BENCH WARRANTS FOLLOW RETURN OF TRUE BILLS

ACTION BEING TAKEN AS RESULT OF GRAND JURY'S REPORT

Identity of Two "John Does" Made Known by Arrests—Marcho Is Charged with Purling a Steer. Is Out on Bonds—Berry Arrested at Fort Klamath on a Charge of Gambling.

Marcho was arraigned before Circuit Judge Benson this afternoon. He entered a plea of not guilty. Attorney Fred H. Mills appeared as counsel for the accused.

The identity of two of the four persons indicted by the grand jury was made known Wednesday through the serving of bench warrants on W. H. Marcho, a Poe Valley rancher, and Jack Berry, who conducts a saloon at Fort Klamath. Marcho is charged with the larceny of a steer, and Berry is charged with gambling.

Berry was arrested at Fort Klamath this morning by Sheriff Charles Low. He will arrive here late this afternoon.

The indictment of Berry is said to be the result of a petty feud that has been waged in the Wood River country for several months past. There have been frequent threats made, and the arrest of Slim Chambers is said to have been brought about through the same set of differences. Chambers was haled before the federal grand jury in Portland, but that body exonerated him of the charge of impersonating a federal marshal.

Marcho is specifically charged with the larceny of a steer from Oldfield & Stukel, Merrill cattle buyers. The steer was sold to Dalton & Hosley, butchers, and the cattle buyers brought suit against the meat dealers to replenish the animal. The suit was tried in the justice court, and attracted a great deal of attention.

Learning that he was one of the parties under indictment, Marcho came to Klamath Falls last night to accept service of a bench warrant. He is at liberty under $500 bonds.
