

PYROTECHNICS SUPPLANT THE BALL

WILSON'S REQUEST FOR SIMPLICITY FOLLOWED OUT—MAGNIFICENT DISPLAY OF FIREWORKS ARRANGED

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—Instead of an inaugural ball tonight, the uniform climax of inaugurations since James Madison's in 1809, abandoned at President Wilson's own request—a street carnival of a half-million persons, with fireworks on the Washington monument grounds awaits the holiday crowds.

With the abolishment of the inaugural ball, because of President Wilson's request for "simplicity" in his inaugural, the center of attraction tonight will be the display of fireworks on the big elliptical tract back of the White House. Just $10,000 worth of fireworks are awaiting the crowds tonight. Set pieces will be attached to balloons to be carried high in the air and discharged by electricity. "The Star Spangled Banner," in flames, will float across the sky and be greeted by a national salute. "Wilson and Marshall" will be written in huge letters against the black sky of night. The masterpieces of the display will be luminous portraits of Wilson and Marshall, covering 2,000 square feet.

Washington's entire police force, soldiers and sailors, were detailed today to guard the crowds tonight. After the fireworks, which President Wilson and his family propose to view from the rear porch of the White House, their first night "at home," the crowds will throng Pennsylvania avenue for high carnival until midnight. The avenue will be converted into an immense "red way," literally painting the city red, by burning fires at short distances along the street.

WILSON'S TASK IS BY NO MEANS "DEAD EASY" ONE

Creation of the new department of labor.

The "seamen's labor" bill. The Page educational and vocational bill.

Conservation of water power and beauty of Niagara Falls.

Direct election of presidents and senators.

Regulation of campaign contributions.

Maintenance of the commerce court and the economy and efficiency commission.

Workman's compensation.

Repeal of the Canadian reciprocity treaty.

Conservation of forests and water power.

Physical valuation of railroads.

Prohibition in Hawaii.

"Shipping trust" investigation and regulation.

Senator Owen's bill for direct election of Federal judges.

Senator Crislow's bill for a national initiative and referendum.

Establishment of a national public health service.

Opening of Alaska.

Eight-hour day for women in the District of Columbia.

Recodification of patent laws.

Limited woman's suffrage.

Reorganization of militia.

Creation of a national council of defense.

Reorganization of the customs and revenue service.

Increase of pensions.

In addition to these problems the opening of the Panama canal and establishment of a civil government on the Isthmian zone faces the new president.

Scores of unfinished trust prosecutions, begun by Attorney General Wickersham, also await the new administration's action. Many important cases must also be presented to the supreme court by the new executive heads which were instituted during recent years.

Administration and extension of the parcel post is another important problem. Appropriations for the navy, army, good roads, the San Francisco exposition and economy in expenditures generally furnish even more huge tasks.

Organization of the sixty-third congress augurs difficulty for the new party in power. An extremely small majority in the senate and an overwhelming majority in the house, with disputes over important committee chairmanships, present a delicate partisan situation.

MORNING PAPER CIRCULATION KNOWN

order to be considered at all it was necessary for him to give the names and addresses of his subscribers within the county.

Instead of having 1,400, it appears that Sammy has but 577 subscribers in the county. This number includes his daily as well as weekly subscribers. It is believed that there are about 160 people in the county who take the weekly Northwestern, so Sammy's actual circulation for his daily paper in the county is 417.

The affidavit filed Tuesday and the one filed last August are taken from official documents.

When the proposals for the county advertising were opened late Tuesday afternoon there were but two tenders, that of the Northwestern and that of the Klamath Republican. The circulation of the Republican in Klamath county was given as 504, or only 73 less than the combined circulation of the daily and weekly Northwestern in Klamath county.

Because the county considered that the population of Klamath county is more than 10,000, and as the law requires that in counties of more than 10,000 population the official proceedings of the county court shall be published in two papers, both the Republican and the Northwestern were designated as the official papers of the county.

Elmer Moore, a well known Poe Valley rancher, was a Wednesday visitor in Klamath Falls.

J. S. Mills, who has a ranch near Pine Grove, spent Tuesday in this city.

Attorney C. C. Brower has gone to Portland to give attention to legal matters.

OREGON MAY FURNISH TURPENTINE

YELLOW PINE CAN BE USED FOR THAT PURPOSE

As the Supply of Long Leaf Pine Diminishes, Yellow Pine, Which Abounds in This Section, Will Become Increasingly Valuable—The Pinon Pine Is Also Useful for the Production of This Commodity

Special to The Herald

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 5.—Turpentine from Western yellow pine, says the department of agriculture, can be put to the same uses as that from the long leaf pine of the Southeast, which furnishes the bulk of the turpentine of commerce. Western yellow pine forms enormous forests in the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast states, while the supply of long leaf is fast melting away. A product very similar to turpentine can be obtained also from pinon pine, another tree common in the Southwest.

Careful tests made by the department of agriculture have shown that the yield of turpentine and rosin per season from Western yellow pine in Arizona is only two-thirds that from the Southeastern pine, the difference being due to the fact that the season of flow in the West is about twenty-five weeks and that in the South is about thirty-three weeks. During the Civil War, when turpentine operations in the South had virtually ceased, some operations were carried on in California to meet local needs. But with the return of the Southern product to the California market, the Western operations were abandoned.

The results of a chemical examination of the oils of Western yellow pine, digger, sugar and lodgepole pines which have just been published by the forest service in an official bulletin, show the possibilities of the rosin and turpentine from Western Yellow and pinon pines as a supplement to the present supplies. Economic problems of markets, transportation and labor remain to be solved. Information as to how the forest service secured the yields upon which the analyses were based is given in another bulletin on the possibilities of Western pines as a source of naval stores.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martin returned Tuesday from California points, where they spent the winter.

PORTLAND, March 6.—Sheriff Tom Word has adopted a modified "honor system" as Kelly Butte. The other day he lined up thirty-two prisoners within the stockade and notified them that active stone-breaking would begin shortly.

"Do any of you fellows expect to cut and run if you get a chance?" asked the sheriff. They all disclaimed the intention.

"Because if you do," continued the sheriff, "I want to know it now. When I turn you into the stockade there will be only one guard, instead of four or five guards with shotguns. I'm going to make you responsible for all escapes, and I expect you to live up to your agreement."

"That's all right, sheriff," replied one of the prisoners. "If anyone gets away we will go after him and give him a ducking when we get him back."

A New William

A son arrived Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Tiams on Klamath avenue.
