

THE BUSINESS MEN ARE AROUSED

ATTEMPT OF MORNING PAPER TO DECEIVE FAILS

Number of Real Subscribers to the Northwestern is Rapidly Dwindling and the End of Deception Now Seems in Sight—Details of Sammy's Scheme Are Given a Little Publicity

At an informal meeting of Klamath Falls business men last Thursday the question of repudiating advertising contracts with the Northwestern was discussed. While no definite conclusion was reached, it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that, as the contracts had been obtained by fraud, there was no obligation on the part of the local business men to continue to pay for something which they are not receiving, even though contracts have been signed.

It appears that the Northwestern represented to local business men that the circulation of the morning paper was almost 1,400, and, on the basis of this circulation, contracts were made. Tuesday Sam Evans, editor and proprietor of the morning paper, filed with the county court an affidavit showing that the total circulation of the daily edition of the Northwestern and the weekly edition amounted to only 577 in Klamath county.

This affidavit proved a great surprise to local advertisers who had been misled into making contracts. Legal advice was at once taken, and it was that there can be nothing binding because of the apparent fraud.

It is believed that the actual circulation of the Weekly Northwestern is about 150. Deducting this from the number sworn to by Sam Evans, the actual circulation of the morning paper in Klamath county is but 410. In view of the fact that Mr. Evans has taken a peculiar view of the definition of "bona fide" circulation, there may be additional developments, and it may develop that the sworn list of 577 may be cut down considerably.

"This surely cannot be construed as a bona fide subscriber," said Mr. Evans at the meeting of the county court Tuesday, pointing out the name of the Merrill Record on the list furnished by the Klamath Republican.

"If the Merrill Record is on that list it is a mistake," replied the representative of W. O. Smith, manager of the Klamath Republican. "I would like to change that."

A minute or two later Mr. Evans' attention was called to the fact that on his list was the name of The Herald.

"What about that, Mr. Evans?" the youthful editor, manager, managing editor and proprietor of the Northwestern was asked.

"That's all right," was the reply. "The Herald is a bona fide subscriber. It's paid for."

"Who pays for it?" was asked. "I charge it to myself," replied Mr. Evans, in his characteristic manner.

The Herald has never paid the Northwestern for subscription, and believes that the welfare of this paper is not dependent on the receipt daily of the morning paper or the goodness of heart of Sam Evans. But if it should develop that Mr. Evans' reasoning is right, then The Herald or any other newspaper might at any time acquire a great circulation by simply putting a bunch of money on one side of the subscription ledger, the same amount on the other side, and then sending the paper to a selected list of names.

"SQUARE DEAL" WILL SOON RIVAL "CYCLONE"

"The Klamath county horses were away above the average bucking stock," says Mark Howard, who returned last week from Los Angeles, where he went in charge of the Elk's bronchos. "With a little more training Square Deal will be just as accomplished a man thrower as Cyclone, while White Pelican and Cheyenne also proved terrors to riders."

"Everytime Square Deal started to buck the rider left the saddle," continued Howard. "The horse had such a variety of twists, sunfishings and jumps that it was impossible to stay aboard him. Just look at this," and Howard produced a snapshot showing Hoxie, the Mexican vacquero, clinging timorously to his seat, while Square Deal sunfished and stood on one forefoot. "The next time the horse hit the ground," he added, "his pose was directly opposite, and Hoxie left the saddle."

According to Howard, the trio trio of horses sent to the Los Angeles Rodeo by the Elks proved a great advertisement for the local Rodeo, and he says there will be riders from all over the Southwest here to compete for the prizes. He expresses a belief that the Elks, with the horses and riders available here can put on a show the equal, if not better than the Los Angeles Rodeo.

The Klamath county horses are now with the Municipal Amusement company, and will be shipped to Dallas, Texas, for the rodeo there. Howard says several tempting offers have been made for the trio, but he declares it would be foolish for the Elks to dispose of them.

FEDERAL OFFICERS MAKE RAID ON COMET HOUSE

Government officials on Wednesday made a raid which resulted in the arrest of three men who are charged with selling liquor to Indians.

The men were arrested in the Comet lodging house on the corner of Sixth and Klamath avenue, and were lodged in the city jail. The next morning they were transferred to the county jail.

The accused men are A. Little, David Green and Shelly Naive. The latter is said to be a paroled convict, who has frequently been in trouble in this section.

Much secrecy was maintained by the government men, who co-operated with the police and Sheriff Low, and it was impossible to obtain any accurate information concerning the specific charges against the three prisoners.

BOOMER STAFF NOW COMPLETE

The "Boomer," the annual of the Klamath county high school, will be ready for distribution at the beginning of commencement week, according to the students in charge of this year's publication. Plans are made for a bigger and better paper than ever before, and the following department heads have been appointed:

Senior Class—Society and drama, Annie Hales. Junior Class—Leland Haines. Sophomore Class—Oliver Applegate. Freshman Class—Pearl Dow. Staff artist—George Stankey. Josh editor—Stanley Smith. Faculty representative—Miss Bessie Applegate. An athletic editor will be named later.

MONUMENT IS PERPETUATED

City Engineer Don J. Zumwalt has completed the work of replacing the stone bench mark on Conger avenue with an iron pipe, imbedded in concrete set deep into the ground.

The bench mark was first established in 1878, and at that time marked the northerly end of Conger avenue of the village of Linkville. The monument is the basis for all surveys in that section, and its preservation was imperative. The new marker was ordered by the city council.

A New William

A son arrived Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Tiams on Klamath avenue.

J. S. Mills, who has a ranch near Pine Grove, spent Tuesday in this city.

Attorney C. C. Brower has gone to Portland to give attention to legal matters.

F. T. Nelson of Keno is registered at the Hotel Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Tompkins returned from Keno today, after a visit with friends there. They leave tomorrow for their ranch near Bonanza.

County Commissioner Guy Merrill returned to Merrill today after being in attendance at the county court.

C. B. Clendenning was in Wednesday from his ranch near Midland.

WOLGAST'S MANAGER ASKS JACK KING TO ASSIST IN SECURING CONTRACT WITH THE NORTHERN BOILER

MEDFORD, March 6.—A tribute to the prowess of Bud Anderson, the Vancouver lightweight, has been paid by Tom Jones, manager of Ad Wolgast, and Billy Papke, exchampions, and of ring exponents galore, who would like to pilot the Northwestern lightweight to the top of the 133-pound division.

Jones approached Jack King of Portland in San Francisco last Sunday with an offer of $500 and transportation to Los Angeles if Jack would use his influence in securing Bud's signature to a Jones managerial contract.

King declined to interfere in Anderson's affairs, as Dick Donald, Bud's manager ever since the Vancouver boy needed a business representative, is a warm personal friend of the Portland man.

However, Jones' activity, together with that of Ad Wolgast while the Cadillac youth was in Portland several weeks ago, indicates that both consider Anderson a prospective champion and a boxer who is destined to earn much money for himself and manager.

Wolgast had not been in Portland three days when he commenced to talk about Anderson and the chances of landing him in conjunction with Tom Jones, and when Bud knocked out Sammy Trott in six rounds, Ad requested King to telegraph for Bud to come to Portland to talk business.

King refused to mix in the affair at that time, and negotiations were not opened. Ad preferred to wait until he or Jones could have a personal talk with Anderson.

Wolgast and his wife and possibly Jones are due in Oregon for a week in the near future, regardless of the negotiations for a return fight with Murphy at San Francisco in April. Mrs. Wolgast was ill in San Francisco when King left, but Ad was busy checking up his bank account preparatory to issuing a check in payment for a tract of 1,400 acres of grazing land near Medford, five miles from the railroad. The little scrapper is already arguing about the variety and number of animals he will place on his ranch, and is also planning to lease an adjoining tract for a number of years.

King is much elated over the opportunity Anderson has to meet Knockout Brown at Vernon on March 15, and predicts that the Vancouver boy will score a knockout just as quickly as did Joe Rivers—in ten rounds.

Elmer Moore, a well known Poe Valley rancher, was a Wednesday visitor in Klamath Falls.

Henry Woods returned to Swan Lake Wednesday, after attending to business matters in the county seat.

Mrs. M. L. Sargent has gone to Oakland, where she will spend several weeks visiting friends.

FIREMEN WILL DANCE MONDAY

Tickets for the eighth annual St. Patrick's Day ball of the Klamath Falls Volunteer Fire department will be placed on sale within the next few days. Already business men are inquiring for the tickets, and the fire fighters feel much elated at the prospects for a large sale.

Elaborate arrangements are being made for next Monday night's dance. The hall is to be decorated in a manner appropriate to the "Seventeenth of Ireland," and a six-piece orchestra will furnish music.

LANDSCAPE ARTIST IS TO GIVE LECTURES IN CITY

An illustrated lecture on parks and playgrounds throughout the world will be given at Houston's opera house Friday and Saturday nights by Edward Everets Weed of Portland.

The lectures are given under the auspices of the Women's Civic League and no admission will be charged.

Mr. Weed's talks are illustrated with hand colored lantern slides, showing parks in every portion of the globe. On account of the importance of united action in beautifying the park site in this city, the lecture should be full of useful ideas for Klamath Falls, and should be the means of instilling a desire for a beautiful park into the minds of the people.

The Women's Civic League has been working industriously for the "City Beautiful," and it is taking the initiative in the work of beautifying the park site.

Alex Cheyne and son, Robt Cheyne, have returned to their homes near Merrill, after attending to business matters in the county seat Saturday

DISCLOSE THAT LAND OWNERS WITHIN THE DISTRICT MIGHT HAVE REVIEWED OR APPEALED FROM THE FINAL ORDER OF THE COUNTY COURT, BUT THEY SLEPT ON THEIR RIGHTS UNTIL THEIR OPPORTUNITY IS LOST.

Agon section 6169, L. O. L., as amended in the laws of 1911, chapter 253, provides for a contest upon the election or organization and the final order of the county court thereon, and allows sixty days in which to begin such proceedings, and provides for an appeal thereon, and adds the following emphatic language:

"And after the expiration of said period of sixty days, no action or suit shall be commenced or maintained or defense made affecting the validity of the organization of any irrigation district organized under the provisions of this act."

With these provisions of the statutory law staring us in the face, the court is compelled to hold that the defendants this proceeding cannot now be permitted to attack the validity of the organization of the irrigation district, and petitioner's objection to the admission of the original petition for organization of the district must be sustained.

Anderson may be the favorite in the betting on the Anderson-Knockout Brown scrap, is the prediction made by Jay Davidson, the Los Angeles sporting writer. He sizes up the battle in this way:

Bud Anderson is so well liked by the betting fans that he has been placed on even terms with Kayo Brown in the opening odds upon their scrap for March 15th. This is not a little surprising, as it was generally believed that Brown would always be at least a slight favorite over the Northern kid, and those who looked with favor upon his chances to whip the Eastern dreamland specialist were expecting no worse than 10 to 8 for their money. The market opened with both boys on even terms, however, and the drift of sentiment, that portion of it that is represented in dollars and cents, is so strong for Anderson that a prominent betting commissioner has said that he fully expects that Anderson will be made favorite when the real betting starts, and that he will go into the ring at no less than 10 to 8 favoritism.

There has been little or no speculation upon the result so far, as all the fans seem to prefer to wait until the right sort of odds show up, and while Brown backers are willing to take even money, the Anderson supporters are figuring that it will be the Northern boy who should be the short ender, and consequently are unwilling to give odds. Because of the greater experience of Brown and the better class of boys he has been fighting, the Anderson element is of the opinion that Kayo should be made the favorite. Just now the boys are working on an easy schedule of training, waiting until Sunday to begin the strenuous stuff. The final week of work will be a tough period for both. Because of the lax work done unable to get much of a new line on the two boys. Each has fought here once, and both engagements were rather short. Anderson put the kibosh onto Trott with such ease that he never was forced to fully extend himself, and his real form when in a hard, close fight is still a problem. Brown ran headlong into a most unfortunate punch, and while putting up an impressive battle to the final blow, was knocked out, and that serves to dock him a bit in the way of prestige.

The wise ones are very much divided in their opinions, and it is not probable that there will be much betting at even money. There is plenty of Brown money in sight, with considerable Anderson coin hanging around for the right price. Unless the price adjusts itself more definitely there will not be a whole lot of money wagered on the result. It is too tough a fight to forecast with any accuracy.

When Brown and Anderson clash in the ring the fans will see two left-handed fighters in action. That is, both boys carry their heaviest punch on the port side. Brown boxes with his right hand extended and depends on his powerful left, Anderson boxes with his left hand out, but depends on that member to bring him the verdict, as he is naturally left handed, and it is that hand that carries the greater punching power.

George J. Walton, superintendent of the Klamath division of the California-Oregon Power company, left last Thursday for Medford, to attend to official business.

Allen Stansbie, who is farming on Wilson's Flats, was a county seat visitor Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Paddock of Lorella are here to do some shopping and visit local friends.

J. E. Newbanks, a well known Kenoite, was a Wednesday visitor in the county seat.

HETCH HETCHY IS UP ONCE MORE

CALIFORNIA ATTORNEY CONFERS WITH SECRETARY LANE IN HOPES OF OVERRULING FISHER'S DECISION

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.— Seeking to overrule the decision of Former Secretary Fisher in the Hetch Hetchy Valley case, City Attorney Long of San Francisco is in conference with Secretary Lane of the department of the interior. As Lane is a Californian, Long believes his acquaintance with the matter may cause him to rule differently, and enable San Francisco to utilize this water supply.

Letters have been received from Corey, Turlock and Modesto by the new secretary of the interior, asking him to protect their interests. It is probable that Lane will refuse to overrule Fisher, and leave the matter in the hands of congress.

CALIFORNIA LAW MAKERS TO HAVE LONG SESSION

SACRAMENTO, March 10.—Senator Strowbridge introduced a resolution today, fixing the time of the adjournment of the state legislature at midnight, April 27th. The resolution was referred to the rules committee.

Governor Johnson is demanding that the legislature adjourn the session at the end of six weeks.

Senator Wright declared today that he did not see any possibility of an adjournment within the time specified.

B. E. Wolford is down from Yainax on a business trip. He is connected with the Indian service.
