Your confidence is what Studebaker seeks to keep

Possessing this confidence, we have never tried to produce a cheap wagon. We could, but we don't dare try the experiment. Our constant aim has been to produce the best wagon.

And in living up to this highest standard, we have won and hold—the confidence and good-will of hundreds of thousands of farmers all over the world.

Studebaker wagons are built to last, to do a day's work every day, to stand up under stress and strain and to make the name Studebaker stand for all that is best in vehicles.

Don't accept any other wagon represented to be just as good as a Studebaker. The substitute may be cheaper, but it isn't up to Studebaker standards, and you can't afford to buy it.

For business or pleasure, there is a Studebaker vehicle suited to your requirements. Farm wagons, trucks, business wagons, surreys, buggies, runabouts, pony carriages—each the best of its kind. Harness also—of the same high Studebaker standard.

Rub-a-dub-dub
Three gowns in a tub
And what do you think they be
A linen, a crepon

A nainsook with lace on Wash 'em out, clean all three
NEW YORK, May 30—The best line of summer fashions is the wash line. You are quite safe in clothespinning your faith to the divers laundry loving fabrics that now reveal their unshrinkable and fadeless charms on smart shop counters. They all rise triumphant as Venus from the suds and defy even the amateur wash artist to rub her worst.

Time was when cotton print, a calico or a seersucker made up of the despised wash adjunct to milady's wardrobe and was donned only for morning housework wear. Now you may find a wash counterpart for almost every fabric of the loom. Even the exquisite velvet broche of the winter is aped amazingly by the brocaded cotton eponge. The pompador cotton voiles and French crepes are adorable and floral bordered organdies, silk mulls and batistes are sheer delights.

Charming are the embroidered cotton crepes and voiles on which tiny nosegays are scattered in bas relief. These are found only in the more expensive imported materials whose unshrinkable propensities will act inversely on your purse. Home grown printed products can be utilized with quite as stunning results, however. Only a close inspection will reveal the difference between printed domestic bouquets and the imported embossed flora.

What's the use of fast colors if they don't run? The fadeless dyes of the Futurist eponge, ratine and wash silks will easily win in a walk however. It is bound to be a highly colored summer and this ought to bring cheer to the damsel whose sunburned countenance has heretofore added the only vivid color note to her warm weather attire. The erstwhile virgin whiteness of the lacy lingerie gowns are livened by bright hued silken girdles and many are embroidered a la Bulgaria.

Quite the newest and smartest effect is the combination of a very thin material and a very heavy one. For example, a voile trimmed in a contrasting tone of ratine. Some of the new fabrics come woven in such combinations, particularly the fine French crepes striped or bordered with ratine.

All shades of blue from peacock to heavenly are the favorite tones for your summer frocks. What could be cooler or more effective when the mercury begins to rise than a soft old blue crepon girded with a silken sash of Hunter's green, and flat collars and cuffs of blue eyedelited Madeira embroidery finishing the V shaped neck and elbow sleeves.

Linen come in perfect shades this summer but for the separate skirt (and no hot weather outfit should be shy one) it were wiser to stick to the white or natural colored linen. These are due to live on and last you sundry summers, but the way bright hues are being worked overtime presages a sharp drawing of the color line ere another summer dawns.

L-a-c-e spells the last word for summer evening gowns. With baby waists, the lace filming an underslip of white chameuse or one of pastel pink or blue, they are youthful, fairylike but not for you if you have a women's weigh over two hundred pounds. If you hoaste sveite like proportions and one of these lace gowns, too, it will be woe to the bachelor beau who finds you on a piazza and a moonlight night. His heart is sure to be snared in Chantilly mesh or pierced with a Van Dyke point.

Lace anyhow, any kind, and any where is much to be desired. From the top of your lace parasol to the lace brim of your hat, your lace frock and lace hose even down to your shoe lace all is laced except your waist. She is ultra smart indeed who even laces her fingertips.

Madame La Mode knows when her nose needs attention (saritorial attention of course). The monchoir of the moment, or in other words the "hanky" that is right up to snuff must have its bit of color as well as the rest of the costume. Either the narrow hemstitched edge is of a pastel tint or cross bars of color brighten up the entire bit of linen. Cunning little pink rose buds and azure forget-me-nots embroider sheer little handkerchiefs, a square of posey for your nose sign. One in lavender and green with a violet border is sure to win by a nose. Dainty ones with tiny hand reeled hems cross stitched in color with an initial to match are chic enough for the most fastidious nasal appendage and not to be sniffed at.

RECLAMATIONIST EVOLVING SYSTEM

TRAVELING FISCAL AGENT OF THE RECLAMATION SERVICE WILL CONFER WITH WATER USERS WHILE HERE

For the purpose of ascertaining what changes can be made in the accounting system of the reclamation service in order to make the system more intelligible to the various water users' associations, A. S. Emory, traveling fiscal agent for the service, is here from Washington, D. C., for a few days.

While here, Emory will take the matter up with the Klamath Water Users' association. It is the intention of the government to have the water users on every project submit suggestions, and from this, it is hoped that the service can make its system of accountancy less complicated from the water users' point of view, and still meet the requirements of the government auditors.

NEW CONCERN TO ENTER THE CITY

An announcement has been made by J. L. Quillitch & Son that the concern's two groceries are to be combined. It is the plan to move both establishments to the Bristol building, on Main between Second and Third streets.

This is midway between the present locations of the stores.

The building near the Madsen Music House, occupied by one of the Quillitch stores, is to be occupied by the Ashland Fruit association, which concern willy open a fruit exchange. This company operates extensively in Jackson county.

L. R. Brooks, editor and publisher of the Merrill Record, is here for a short sojourn.

Charles Logan is over from Ashland attending to business matters.
