OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

M. White and Charles Baldwin.

Mrs. Charles I. Robertson is hostess to a number of ladies at her Cedar street home this afternoon, her guests being Miss Edna Houston, Miss Madge Clopton, Miss Maude Baldwin, Mrs. Robert Dalton of Merrill, Mrs. Wm. Masten, Mrs. Fred Stahlman, Mrs. Zim Baldwin, Mrs. Evan Foulds and Mrs. N. C. Briggs. Cards is the principal diversion.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Richardson and son, Harry, left early in the week for San Francisco, where they will purchase an automobile. They will return in the machine.

Mrs. Frank Jennings was hostess at a "hobo" stagette party Wednesday evening. Auction bridge was played, and Mrs. Harry Benson made high score. Attending were Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. Charles Meldrum, Mrs. Leslie Rogers, Mrs. Don J. Zumwalt, Mrs. Harry Benson, Mrs. Wesley O. Smith, Mrs. N. C. Briggs, Mrs. Will W. Baldwin, Mrs. Zim Baldwin, Mrs. R. M. Richardson, Mrs. E. R. Reames, Miss Maude Baldwin. A Dutch lunch was served.

"The Doll Shop," an adaptation from the quaint little German toy pantomime, is the latest production to be staged by local talent. With between sixty and eighty local singers, this will be produced at Houston's opera house July 22 and 23. The performances are for the benefit of the Women's Civic League's park fund. The playlet consists of a number of splendid singing and dancing specialties, supposedly the dream of a German toymaker that his dolls have come to life.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church met with Mrs. W. J. Steinmetz Thursday afternoon. A fine program was carried out, and dainty refreshments were served. The following ladies were present: Mrs. George McDonald, Mrs. C. E. Widdoes, Mrs. P. M. Reidy, Mrs. R. R. Hamilton, Mrs. J. S. Elliott, Mrs. C. V. Fisher, Mrs. Harry Peltz, Mrs. Sadie Markee, Mrs. Henry Momyer, Mrs. Len Lewis, Mrs. J. B. Stapleton, Mrs. Thomas Skillington, Mrs. Atkins, Mrs. L. Haines, Miss Butterlie, Mrs. Mead, Mrs. P. Goodman, Mrs. G. H. Feese, Mrs. W. J. Steinmetz, Mrs. H. L. Benson, Mrs. Wm. Wagner, Mrs. Gail Briggs, Mrs. Edmund Chilcote, Miss Madge Clopton, Mrs. H. E. Peltz, Mrs. R. R. Hamilton, Mrs. Skillington, Mrs. W. W. Masten, Mrs. W. J. Roberts, Mrs. S. H. Turner, Mrs. R. Alexander, Mrs. E. O. Beardley, Mrs. E. B. Ramsby, Mrs. F. J. Pipgras, Mrs. W. B. Barnes.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church was entertained at the home of Mrs. Dr. C. V. Fisher on Wednesday afternoon, in honor of the president, Mrs. Henry Momyer. Home-grown strawberries, ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

Mrs. E. M. Marple was hostess to the 1912 Needlework Club Friday afternoon, when there were present Mrs. Robert A. Emmitt, Mrs. George T. Baldwin, Mrs. J. Fred Goeller, Mrs. G. K. Van Riper, Mrs. Frank Ward, Mrs. Thomas Hampton, Mrs. Nate Otterbein, Mrs. W. T. Shive, Mrs. Charles I. Robertson, Mrs. William Masten and Mrs. Sawyer. This was the last meeting of the club for the summer months. On account of the approach of vacation time, an adjournment was taken until September. The afternoon was spent in an enjoyable manner by the members of the club, and refreshments were served.

The N. N. N. Club's Friday night meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Roberts, when 500 was played. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Orb Campbell and Charles Baldwin, and there were present Mr. and Mrs. Will Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Orb Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley C. In addition to the sorrow and tribulations of the family heretofore, including sickness, death and poverty, still another, insanity, is said to be included in the list of misfortunes.

Thompson, who had been a lawyer, and for years a county school superintendent in Nebraska, came here a little over a year ago, with his wife and five small children. He operated an independent express wagon here.

By no means a strong man, and more a student than a robust fellow, Thompson strove hard to feed and clothe his wife and family of five little children. Although it was a determined effort, it was a losing fight.

In the fall, weakened and emaciated, he was forced to appeal to the county for aid. A short time later he was taken to the county hospital, where he died.

In an effort to sustain her family, Mrs. Thompson appealed for work in this city, and was employed at whatever she could get to do. This work was not steady, though, being more in the nature of odd jobs, and the family was forced to depend upon charitable persons a large part of the time.

Late this spring the family returned to the county hospital, and have been there since. Mrs. Thompson's mental condition, following her worrying, has grown worse. At the instance of several persons it was deemed advisable to test her mentality.

BULLDOGGER MAY USE MOTORCYCLE

LADUE, NOW RIDING TWO-WHEELED AUTO, BELIEVES HE HAS THE BEST THRILLER YET THOUGHT OF

Steer bull dogging, where the bulldogger jumps from a galloping horse and grasping the horns of a wildly running steer, throws the bovine to the ground, is dangerous and thrilling enough to deter a good many daring men from tackling it. Occasionally a man is killed at this pastime, and nearly always they are somewhat mused up.

Charlie LaDue, the Canadian cow-puncher, was almost killed by a steer during the Rodeo, but instead of foreshadowing the gentle art of "throwing the bull," he is going to improve on it. Instead of a horse, he proposes to use a motorcycle.

An automobile has been used by some punchers in this contest as exhibition stuff. There is as much comparison in the danger between the use of an auto and a motorcycle in this respect, though, as between tit-tat-toe and bulldogging.

LaDue has been motorcycling for the past few days, and this gave him the idea. He may try out the stunt in a few weeks.

BODIES ARE MISSING; SUSPICION IS ABOUT

Whether Fred Landen and Harry Stone were drowned in Williamson River with their hired team Friday, or whether they forced the team into the water in order to have it thought that they lost their lives, are questions that local sleuths are turning over in vain in their minds. So far there has been nothing definite to confirm either theory, except that it was reported that Stone was in Algoma Saturday morning.

The two men hired a team Thursday to go to Algoma, where Stone is said to have had money due him. Friday the team was found in Williamson River, near the Palmer place, seven miles from the Klamath Agency. At that point the river is forty feet deep.

An Indian woman who lives near the bridge, stated to Coroner Whitlock Friday that a man answering the description of Landen drove the buggy to the river, and using the whip, forced the jaded horses into the water. The horses were both drowned and the man has not been found, although a search has been made.

DEVELOPER, July 12.—Any working girl who is making $10 a week can dress well. That's what Chrystal Herne, known as one of the best dressed women on the stage, says, and she declares she knows whereof she speaks, for she has done it. Miss Herne believes that if a girl studies the psychology of dress she can do it. "Psychology of dress" she means the art of dressing to suit one's individualities of character and style. The plainest looking girl, she believes, can "get herself up" attractively if she but practices the psychology of dress.

"Every woman has her own individual characteristics and her own peculiar personality," said Miss Herne today. "If she dresses to fit her character and style she will attain the ideal in correct clothes. She will not need to spend a great deal to achieve this object. It is hard to explain this, but most girls will know what I mean. I have found only one dressmaker in New York who understands me—who understands my personality and individualities. Understanding them, she can gown me attractively on comparatively little outlay. She might not be able to do the same for other women, and that proves my point."

"Dress is simply one way to add to character—to set it off. The plain, easily satisfied girl should never be decked out in frills and fancies by an aspiring seamstress. A woman like 'Nora,' in Ibsen's 'Doll House,' light, airy and rather shallow, should not attempt to wear elaborate gowns. Her dresses should be rather of the fluffy, simple order, which fits her own personality. "Simplicity in all things is essential to correct dress. Gaudy clothes, many frills and ridiculous fashions are never seen on correctly gowned women."

Miss Herne is extravagant. At least that is what she says. She believes in buying only the best. When playing recently in New York she wore three gowns which were made to her own order. The total cost of these three gowns was $800.

"But those dresses were not elaborate or gaudy," she said. "New York papers spoke of them as 'wonderful creations,' but at the same time commented on their extreme simplicity. They were made as I felt they should be for the part I was playing—simple, but rich. If I could afford only a few clothes, I would have them tasteful and as near 'the best' as my pocket-book would afford. I would prefer one afternoon dress, one evening gown and one tailored suit of good quality to several of cheaper material."

"If I were a girl working in a store and earned $10 a week I would still have good clothes. I would watch the papers carefully for sales, and what few clothes I did have would not be cheap imitations. I would rather have a shirt waist and skirt made simply and of good material than several gaudy dresses and a number of ribbons which showed their cheapness on the face of them. If girls would but realize this they would look far better dressed and cause a good deal less comment, and be happier in the long run. Elaborate dresses on rich or poor girls cannot be of any great credit to their training.

"The same general scheme of dress works for rich and poor girls alike. Simplicity and quality, not gaudiness and quantity, and a careful study of what is best suited to one's own particular style are the true secrets of proper and therefore attractive dressing."

It is said to be considered better form to wear high shoes on the street than the pumps or oxfords which have been seen so much of late, and are still worn with other than tailor-made gowns. Women who are no longer slender will be glad of this, as the low summer shoes make the ankles very much thicker.

It is interesting to know that, despite all that has been said to the contrary, white gloves will still be worn on the street. But most of the white street gloves have stitchings of black down the back. These are more in favor than the black with white titching, although there are of course many women who will not wear white gloves on the street.

It is said that women of Paris are wearing sandals for dancing shoes, and, of course, their American sisters will have to follow suit. The dainty ankle ties are said to attract women who have tried them much more than the sandals themselves, for one might as well dance barefooted for all the protection they are.

Worth says that the pannier skirt was all right in the days when women wore powdered hair and walked gracefully along, but it is not suitable for this generation, when women ride in automobiles and go up in air ships.

KLAMATH ROADS ARE BOULEVARDS

BEND MEN ARE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER THE TOURIST POSSIBILITIES IN CENTRAL OREGON TERRITORY

The following from the Bend Bulletin is a Crook county man's opinion of the Klamath county roads: "Returning last week from a 670-mile trip southward from Bend, J. C. Rhodes is enthusiastic concerning the possibilities of auto outings in Central Oregon, and is especially warm in his commendation of the good roads of Klamath county.

"They aren't roads, but boulevards," he said, in discussing the highways in Judge Worden's balliwick. "Never before have I been so impressed with the great importance of good roads. Why, they mean everything to a country. Very apparent results are increased business for the hotels and that nearly everyone has an auto, which in turn means business for the garages and mechanics.

"Of course that applies only to the tourist and the pleasure end of good roads, while their greatest benefit is to the farmer."

"The long trip was made in Mr. Rhodes' Ford car, Clyde McKay accompanying him. On the journey Mr. Rhodes says that there was not one stop made for repairs of any kind.

"The points visited included LaPine Crescent, Ft. Klamath, Klamath Falls, Merrill, Lakeview, Plush, Adel, New Pine Creek, Paisley, Silver Lake and Fort Rock. Everywhere the travelers report promising signs of development, both in the country and towns."

The Horticultural Fire Relief Makes Good

The Horticultural Fire Relief of Salem, Oregon, paid through their agent, J. G. Swan, $1,000 to the O. K. Transfer company last week, this amount covering full face value of the policy on stock destroyed in the Woodard fire.

This is the third loss paid by this company in Klamath county, aggregating over $5,000, and ought to convince people of the ability and honesty of this company in adjusting and paying losses. This is a mutual company which collects only enough premium to pay losses and create a safe reserve fund. It keeps all the money in Oregon, pays no excessive salaries to officers, nor large dividends to stockholders, and saves from 30 to 40 per cent of the premiums to policy holders. Several thousand dollars annually are being kept in the pockets of business men of Klamath county through their insuring with this company. The "knockers" to the contrary notwithstanding, they pay their just losses and save insurance money. Spend a penny by dropping a postal to J. D. Swan and he will explain how you can save several' oll'rs each year.—Adv. H. & P

150 LODGE MEN TO VISIT HERE

The first big excursion in the history of Harriman Lodge, the beautiful rustic summer resort on Pelican Bay at the northern end of Upper Lake, will occur Friday, when 150 members of the San Francisco council of the Knights of Columbus, will arrive for a few days' enjoyment of the fishing, boating and other pleasures the resort affords.

The party will arrive on a special train Friday, and after dinner at the White Pelican Hotel, will leave on the steamer Winema for Harriman Lodge. They will remain at the lodge until Wednesday, when they will return to the Bay City.

This organization, a fraternal society composed of members of the Catholic church, has long been figuring on this northern trip. They first planned to come here in June, but waited until they could more easily reach Crater Lake.
