The evening was devoted to five hundred, and refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Rabbes were presented with Klamath Falls penants, which are to be hung on their automobile during their trip to California. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Kip Van Riper, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Truax, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McLean and Mr. and Mrs. Maguire.

Highly enjoyable was the party given at the home of Professor and Mrs. E. W. Faught in Hot Springs addition last evening, when the guests all harkened back to their school days. The occasion was a social given for the Presbyterian church by Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Coats, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Delzell, Mrs. Melissa Sargeant and Professor and Mrs. Faught. The rooms were arranged in the order of the old time district school, even to the water bucket, from time immemorial a fixture in the rural institution of larnin'. W. A. Delzell was in his element as schoolmaster, and between roll call, spelling bee, geography lesson, etc., the evening was one of continual merriment for everybody. Apples and stick candy were served for refreshments during the evening. The guests were Rev. J. S. Stubblefield and wife, Mrs. Snow, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mack, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wyde, Miss Marjorie Sellers, Miss Maude Carleton, Miss Olive Carleton, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Slough, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Delzell, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Friends of Rev. George H. Feese and wife, Sprague Post G. A. R., and members of the M. E. church assembled at the church Tuesday evening to bid farewell to the pastor, who left for Lakeview after occupying the local pulpit for four years. There were more than a hundred present. During the evening musical numbers were rendered by Miss Louise Benson, Mrs. Birdean Fraker Gambell, Misses Dorothy Masten and Lucille Waldron, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Walton and Mrs. Carl Cofer. Talks were made by Judge Benson, George J. Walton, superintendent of the Sunday school, Rev. Feese, Rev. Stubblefield and others present. A luncheon was served in the basement of the church late in the evening.

Klamath Falls Lodge No. 1247, B. P. O. Elks, gave the first of their winter series of Ladies' Nights at the club rooms Thursday evening, and the affair was largely attended. The evening was devoted to cards and dancing, and fruit punch was served. A. Y. Tindall and orchestra furnished the music.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

By MARGARET MASON

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The newest corsets spell woe to the lady of generous embonpoint. Her nearest approach to a fashionable figure will be a swell one. The new models are so low of bust as to come scarcely above the waist line. The fewest possible bones are used and the material of the corset is thin and pliable. To be sure, they look as though what has been cut off above the waist line has been tacked on below so far down past the hips do they come, but fortunately insets of elastic in the sides and back make it possible for the wearer to assume a sitting posture and saves her the embarrassment of being forced to take her meals off the mantelpiece. The front laced corset is being shown in many models and is a great favorite not only because it is easier to adjust and more comfortable to wear, but because it actually tends to reduce a too generously chubby "tummy."

Tricot is the ideal fabric for the flexible corset of 1913, especially for evening wear. Indeed, the smart woman whose purse is as well filled as are her stays, has had different corsets adopted for different needs. One of silk tricot lightly boned serves her beautifully for dress and evening wear while a heavier silk broche boned a trifle more strongly offers her ample support for street wear.

Certainly the new stay ought to be here to stay for it is a boon from a hygienic standpoint. The days when we squeezed up our waists like a Chinese woman did her feet are relegated to a barbarous past.

But while Lena clasps the new stays to her meagre bosom with unbounded bliss, Fatima can but mourn for, alas, fashion's mandate has gone forth that she may not even have a brassiere to sustain her.

Lingerie is even more scantily inadequate and bewilderingly colorful than ever. Impressionistic panties and cubist chemises are the order of the day. Underwear designed by Paul Poiret is bound to be original and a bit bizarre and his one-piece combination of white linen piped in brilliant tones of cerise, bright blue, purple or orange are most novel and attractive.

The embroidered Italian silk combinations consisting of undervest and knickers continue as favorites of these buxom beauties who wish to do away with all the surplus bulk of excess underwear and exquisite confections of lace, pink rosebuds and ribbon offered as underbodies make one rejoice that they are not born to blush unseen. None of their alluring charms are lost under the all-revealing, none-concealing net and chiffon blouses of the moment.

As for your necktie, it never would recognized its little chaste beribboned lacyness among the weird creations now putting forth gaudy claims as robes de nuit. Here they are guaranteed to evoke most spirited and unbridled nightmares. One is of white ribbon piped with cerise and purple, another of yellow polka dots in blue, a Nile green in striped in mauve and a cream color sprinkled with blue hieroglyphics.

In a recent opening of a French farce, the leading actress appeared in a bewitching rose pink crepe de chine combination trimmed in lace, pink rose buds and tiny rhineston buckles, a boudoir cap with a bridle, and later donned a negligee with a weird tunic a la Minaret.

Another follower of Thespis graced—or disgraced—its all in the point of view—an opening night with a black gown whose skirt was slit to the knees in front, revealing black Turkish trousers of none too generous fullness. Verily, a costume designed to take your breath away and leave you panting.
