CHAMPIONSHIP OF SOUTHERN OREGON DEPENDS UPON OUTCOME OF GAME AT ASHLAND THANKSGIVING

If the Klamath county high school football team fails to win from Ashland high in the game at Ashland Thanksgiving, it will not be on account of lack of practice, for the local gridiron knights are being drilled hard every evening by Coaches McCall and Elliott.

The team is especially kept at work on the forward pass. The boys have been slow to use this during their games, and the coaches are anxious to have it thoroughly developed as one of the principal means of attack.

Ashland high school has cleaned up everything in the shape of a football team in Southern Oregon except Klamath county high. These teams played a scoreless game here a few weeks ago.

The return game at Ashland will be hard fought, and upon its outcome depends the championship of Southern Oregon. This is the first year the local school has met other school teams on the gridiron, and a championship would not go half bad.

THANKSGIVING GAME ARRANGED

KLAMATH FALLS-MERRILL CONTEST WILL BE HELD AT MODOC PARK ON TURSDAY—LOCAL MEN DRILLING

The much-talked of game between Merrill and Klamath Falls will be staged at Modoc Park. This has been settled by the managers of the rival football teams.

The local organization will be composed of some fast men, according to those interested. The entire lineup is being selected from men who won numerals in their earlier days, and all are well versed in the rudiments of the game.

From the Alfalfa City come reports of the banding together of a team that is believed will annihilate anything in the shape of padded knights that the county seat can offer. The loss of two games by the Merrill high school team has instilled a keen desire for real, sodden "r-r-revenge," and a combination of high school players and old stars is preparing for the wreaking thereof, to the satisfaction of Merrill and vicinity and the everlasting shame of Klamath Falls.

On the Way to Nippon

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 19.—The world touring baseballists under Manager McGraw today bade goodby to American shores. The Giant-White Sox aggregation sailed from here today. The first stop will be Yokohama, where they are scheduled to show the Japs how the American national pastime is played, on December 3d. The next day they play in Kobe.

ARMY AND NAVY

TICKETS SELL FAST

TEN THOUSAND PLACED ON SALE GOBBLED UP IN SHORT TIME. THREE TIMES AS MANY COULD HAVE BEEN SOLD AS EASILY

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Ten thousand tickets to the Army-Navy football game to be played at the Polo Grounds here November 29, were put on sale today. They were quickly gobbled up.

Three times that number could have been sold to the most spectacular athletic event of the year.

Special precautions have been taken to prevent the usual New York way of permitting speculators to buy up great blocks of seats to turn over to the public at highway robbery prices.

ELKS DEFEAT THE STAR DRUG TEAM

FIRST MATCH GAME OF THE SEASON IS WON BY THE BILLS, WHO TAKE THREE GAMES OUT OF FIVE

After losing the first ten frames by four pins and the second by two pins, the quartet representing the local B. P. O. E. lodge last night took a brace and captured the remaining three games of the engagement from the team sent to the Club alleys by the Star Drug company.

The Elks started matters with J. E. Bodge, L. G. Van Bellen, W. O. Smith and Austin Hayden. After the third game Harry Ackley took W. O. Smith's place.

For the pharmacists, Kieth Ambrose, Leo Houston, Arthur Leavitt and Hugo H. Loewe rolled. Some pretty good scores were rolled, but none high enough to be marked up on the "high score sheet" for the edification of all who may care to rehearse the performance.

This was the first match game of the season. There may be organized a bowling league in a few weeks.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

By CARLTON TEN EYCK
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—It may be due to the votes-for-women movement, or to the increasing desire for bizarre information, or perhaps, more likely, to our ever-growing curiosity. Whatever the cause, the fact remains that the New York public wants to know more and more about the men they elect to public office and the spot light now turns even to a man's family. John Purroy Mitchel, in the tremendous political upheaval that brought about the complete defeat of Tammany and left the Tiger's hide drying on the fence, was elected as mayor of Greater New York, and immediately the people want to know about Mrs. John Purroy Mitchel.

Well, she is a suffragist. The curiosity seekers learned that right off the reel. Mrs. Mitchel believes in woman suffrage. She even believes in women taking the stump to get the ballot—that is, other women. Mrs. Mitchel herself will never take the stump, though she "believes in the principle," as she puts it.

"I guess I am a home body," she said. "I believe in women working for the ballot, but I could never bring myself to stump. I always expect to dust the piano and do other things like that. I believe in suffrage, though. I go on record now as a suffragist. As long as five years ago I joined the Equal Suffrage Franchise Society, but I have never been active for the cause. Nor will my new position as wife of the mayor affect my attitude, though, as has been suggested, I might now be a valuable acquisition to 'the cause.' I am content to let more aggressive women do the stumping."

Mrs. John Purroy Mitchel is an exceedingly pleasing woman to look at, but her face is more to be described as attractive than beautiful. Her charm is of the kind that leaves its describer groping for words. She has great, steady brown eyes, almost disconcerting in their frank gaze, a wealth of chestnut hair, always simply coiffed, and a face of an oval to charm the artist. Her mouth is ever willing to smile and disclose even, white teeth, while her complexion is seemingly country-given, due to outdoor exercise and athletics. Mrs. Mitchel is 24 years old, eleven years her husband's junior, and before her marriage in 1909 was Miss Olive Child of New York. She is, as she herself admits, just a home body, a womanly woman, without any fads or fancies and "advanced" ideas. She is not even romantic.

"No, oh no, there was no romance about my wedding," she said. "I met Mr. Mitchel as a dance while he was commissioner of accounts. We were married after being engaged for eight months. That is all there was to it." Such a sane, unvarnished view of Cupid's work naturally suggested that Mrs. Mitchel has a head for business and politics, and is her husband's advisor. But she dashed that idea quickly.

"Naturally Mr. Mitchel tells me of his affairs," she said, "but he never asks my advice and I never volunteer it. His business is his affair, not mine. I attend to the home."

She confided naively that she is very fond of dogs and cats, but is not allowed to harbor them in the fashionable Peter Stuyvesant apartments on Riverside, where the Mitchels live. The wife of the mayor-elect is of an athletic turn. She is an expert swimmer, is fond of canoeing, and plays tennis all summer. That's all the insatiable public has been able to learn of the new "first lady," and she herself says, with perhaps a trace of regret, that it is all there is to know. As for the new mayor, here are some of his characteristics:

John Purroy Mitchel is 34 years old, and has been in politics all his life. He was elected mayor by one of the greatest pluralities on record, 121,709. He dresses well, but without flashiness. He takes a drink when he is thirsty, and can put down a glass of Scotch and soda with relish. He smokes cigars, good ones, but does not use tobacco to excess. He likes a good dinner, and can order one without looking at the bill of fare to see how much it costs. He does not sport an automobile, but rides in the subway to and from his office. He is a flat dweller in winter, and in summer spends as much time as he can in the country. He does not make a practice of swearing, but he can rip out some expletives that would make a pirate envious when occasion demands. He is handy with his fists, on occasion, and quick on his feet, and is a baseball fan, never missing a game when business will allow.

He goes to the theater, enjoys a good play, laughs heartily at comedy and likes a good supper afterwards, in congenial company.

He says "hello" to his acquaintances, speaks to anyone he knows, is always approachable and calls his friends by their first names. He has two weaknesses. He affects big loose-fitting overcoats and has a predilection for big soft felt hats or the "statesman" variety. He wears a silk hat when ceremony demands, but is noticeably awkward in its manipulation. He hunts the Tiger in Manhattan during the usefulness part of the year, and hunts big game in the Northern woods on his vacation.

And all her friends remarked about his liberality. However, if he had spent that sum during her lifetime for pleasure in the home, her lot would have been easier and his memories more pleasant.
