

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

By MARGARET MASON

He and she had a spat,
As lovers often do.
And she said, "I'm sorry,"
And he said, "I am, too."
She raised her fair face to him,
All glowing pink and white;
Her scarlet lips so tempting
He kissed with all his might.
Upon his manly shoulder
She coyly laid her head.

And with a happy slumber,
"Now we're made up," she said.
Aghast, he viewed the havoc
His burning kisses wrought.
The pink and white was streaky;
'Twas worse than he had thought.
Those vivid lips of scarlet
Had now become a smear.
"Yes, I'm made up," he answered,
"But you're not ow, my dear."

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—There are two kinds of women—those who powder and those who don't. It is the wise woman, however, that a little cost of powder covers a multitude of skins, to her great advantage, and that the bloom of youth added with a rabbit's foot is better than no bloom at all.

Time, was when the painted lady was eyed askance but now everybody is doing it. A little make-up is a dangerous thing, however, unless it is put on by an artist. Painting the face is just as much of a fine art as painting a canvas.

The first and most important thing is to have pure materials and coloring, matter that matches up with the complexion bestowed upon you by nature. For instance, your shade of powder may be the most glaring note in the whole of your make-up. One person in a thousand has a skin white enough to employ a flesh color or pure white face powder. A cream tint is preferable for the majority of skins and a deep cream is the thing for the olive toned brunette. The shade of rouge is almost as essential but each individual must use discrimination in matching up the tint of the cheeks.

With your pigments at hand it is next for a good strong light, and then to work. First of all the face should be gone over carefully with a good cold cream. Then the last vestige must be wiped off carefully with a bit of clean cheesecloth or sanitary gauze. Next apply your rouge either liquid, dry or grease, to suit your whim.

If your face is fat, bring the color in close to your nose, and if your countenance is a meagre one spread the color out generously toward the ears. On top of this apply the powder smoothly, go over your lips with a thin coat of light red lip rouge, and your picture is complete. For street purposes eye make-up is never a success. No matter how carefully it is applied it never defies detection.

The only permissible touch may be an application of brown mascara to those eyelashes so pale as to look like none at all. For evening, 'neath the shade of electric lights, you may go to the eyebrow pencil and the lines at the edges of your lids and the bit of dark shadow blended underneath your languorous orb with more impunity.

As a matter of fact, husbands and prudes notwithstanding, a bit of judicious make-up helps every woman and no matter how elaborate and elegant your attire, if your nose is shiny and your face greasy and red you can never hope to be well groomed or good to look upon. And have you ever noticed how your husbands like it on the other woman?

For the shiny nose or the powdered one there is a brand new hanky come to hand. It has a wide hem either an inch or an inch and a half and a touch of delicate color. Either the hem is a dainty pink, lavender, or blue, or the center is tinted and the hem is white.

Some of them have the hems wholly embroidered in tiny flowers or dots; some just the corners, and many of the very smartest show only embroidered initials in one corner in colors if the hem be white and the center tinted, or white, if the color scheme is vice versa. You can have them done to order with your initials at five cents apiece for a half inch block letter.

There are some stunning new sweater coats on the market that almost prove you can make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, for truly it is almost as much of a feat to make a thing of beauty out of that most hideous of garments for women—the useful sweater. These new sweaters have indeed accomplished the well high impossible. They are of knit silk, either of one vivid tone or of two, in a wondrous changeable effect. Your soul fairly yearns for one and your fingers itch for the silky feel of 'em, but as their prices range from $17 to $25 you can only hope good St. Nick may slip one in your Xmas hosiery, along with a new fur coat, a velvet dinner gown and a pair of long gold earrings.

STATE LABOR COMMISSIONER ASKS ALL TO SHOP EARLY

To the Editor—

I want to beg space in your valuable paper for an appeal to the public on a matter of much more importance than many as yet think.

It is the matter of early holiday shopping. There are very few who have not heard this appeal from many sources before, but many, very many, have not been moved by it as they should.

As labor commissioner, charged with the protection as far as possible of the workers of Oregon, I add my voice to the appeal to everyone to shop early.

Do your shopping early in the month, early in the week, early in the day. Observe all three of these pitality of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hall will be long remembered.

As the glad Christmastide approaches, steps are being taken by local people to see that Christmas will be a right merry one for all the youngsters of the city. To accomplish this, a dinner and tree is to be given Christmas for all the poor children at one of the largest halls. Already those interested in the movement are working for the scheme's advancement, and a call has been issued for clothing, food stuffs, money, in fact, for everything that can be utilized for the dinner or tree. A number of contributions boxes have been placed in the pool rooms, cigar stores, barbershops and other places, and these are rapidly filling up with small change contributions. Persons knowing the names of children in needy families are asked to send them to Santa Claus, Box 8, City.

In honor of the birthday of Miss Joyce Mundy, a party was held Saturday evening at her home on Oak street. Many games were played during the evening, and later refreshments were served. Those present were: Miss Iris Turner, Miss Pearl Blehn, Miss Frances Humphry, Miss Lucille Beckley, Miss Joyce Mundy, and Messrs. Walter Walker, Ted Shipley, Leroy Glenger, Billie Turner and Blair Mulloy.

Next to the anniversary celebration at the White Pelican, the smartest social event of the week was the entertainment given at the White Pelican hotel Monday afternoon, which was largely attended. The hostesses were Mrs. J. Frank Adams and Mrs. Richard E. Smith. Five hundred was the game of the afternoon, and the first prize, a beautiful hand-painted plate, was won by Mrs. Maxwell M. Long. To Mrs. William W. Baldwin went the consolation prize. The invited guests were Mrs. Louis Gerber, Mrs. Fred Schalllock, Mrs. J. J. Parker, Mrs. Fred Melhase, Mrs. Fred Goeller, Mrs. Fred Stahlman, Mrs. Bridges, Mrs. Robert Emmitt, Mrs. Nate Otterbein, Mrs. Wesley O. important points and you will do justice and mercy that will be appreciated by thousands of overworked saleswomen and salesmen, and by thousands more who realize the importance of such action.

Shop early and in broad daylight. Don't allow yourself to linger with the thoughtless throng after the evening shadows begin to fall. Do this, and the fervent "God bless you" will spring from the hearts of tens of thousands of shopgirls ready to collapse from the fatigue of the day of the hardest kind of work.

Have you any idea of the work of both brain and body of the average saleswoman, particularly in the city or larger town? I dare say you have not—not one in fifty of you. On their feet all day, running hither and thither, harassed by the whim and often the rebuke of all classes of men and women in all stages of nervous tension. A more fatiguing occupation is unknown. Think of it, please, and lend your reasonable assistance by forming habits that will add just as little as possible to the general strain.

It is at these rush seasons when the incentive is greatest to break the law governing the hours of employment. And this is natural. Merchants strive to please their patrons and to accommodate the public in every way. Surely the public, also, has some responsibility. If the law is violated, those charged with its enforcement must act or be justly censured.

From every conceivable viewpoint, the appeal for early shopping is of vital merit, and I urge upon one and all the importance of co-operation, both in their personal acts and in helping by verbal appeal, to secure the most general observance of so worthy a principle.

O. P. HOFF,
State Labor Commissioner.

CHAMBERLAIN HAS PROMISED TO AID

The following letter has been received in answer to the resolutions of the Sportsmen's Association, sent to Senator Chamberlain:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor, enclosing a copy of resolutions adopted by your association, in regard to the matter of the closing of Williamson River to logging. In compliance with your request it will afford me pleasure to at once take this matter up with the secretary of the interior, and as soon as he advises me in reference thereto I will communicate with you again."

PRESIDENT SAYS "NO" TO WOMEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Facing a delegation of suffragists today, President Wilson refused to send a special message to congress, urging women's right to vote. He also declined to incorporate this in one of his regular messages.

Wilson was so diplomatic that the women left satisfied that he will aid if he gets an opportunity.

BIBLE SCHOOL IS GROWING RAPIDLY

Sunday at the Christian church, the Bible school passed the high water mark with an attendance of 207. The pessimist who says that Klamath Falls cannot be a Bible school city had better begin to open his eyes or take to the tall timber.

Those who came early were happily surprised to see an orchestra of eight pieces on the platform, and to join in the song service that followed, assisted by the instruments, which was soul-stirring.

Under the movement six classes have been organized, and the possibility of a front rank school is not far distant. The motto for attendance for next Lord's Day is 225.

Following the Bible school Elder Harlan preached an illustrated sermon for the children, which the older ones present appreciated as well as the children.

This school will have Christmas exercises, and a committee is now arranging the program.

Again Nesmith County

That Cottage Grove will make another fight next year for Nesmith county was the opinion expressed yesterday by Elbert Bede, editor of the Cottage Grove Sentinel and president of the Cottage Grove Commercial Club, who was in the city heading the delegation of fifteen from his city who came as delegates to the Southern Oregon Development meeting. Before the contest is started, however, Mr. Bede stated a conference would be asked with Roseburg to consider where the southern boundary line of that county shall be placed. He hopes that when the proper time comes the co-operation of this city can be obtained.—Roseburg News.

Reservoir Next

The government has finally given out some definite information regarding the La Pine Basin reservoir that has been discussed throughout the La Pine vicinity during the past few months. L. Corbin is reported to have made application for some of the land in the north end of the basin, and was informed that the land was not open for entry as it was reserved for a government reservoir. According to information received the reservoir is to be over twenty miles long and five miles wide, sufficient to irrigate all the land in the entire La Pine county, including the many thousands of acres soon to be opened to homestead entry.—La Pine Inter-Mountain.
