SECOND STREET BOULEVARD IS CAUSE OF PROTESTS

While the Second street boulevard movement has been greeted with enthusiasm by all those believing a lake shore drive will be a benefit...

At last night's meeting of the council, following the reading of the report, an objection, signed by E. R. Reames, C. E. Wiley, Fred H. Mills and A. L. Leavitt, was presented to the council...

The boulevard would cut off access to the lake, destroying dock and wharf privileges of the property cut through; would cut off all drainage into the lake; would totally destroy the value of the property as a waterfront...

All of the objectors were present in person. "The Klamath Canal company and myself will put up $1,250 toward the construction of the boulevard, and I think we are being handed something," said Reames.

"The boulevard at present ends in a swamp. I don't believe it is the purpose to put it in with no outlet," said Leavitt.

"It is patent to the casual observer that the county is in no condition at this time to put in the connecting road to the fair ground. I believe it policy for this matter to be continued. It should remain in statu quo until the county has some light ahead."

Upon motion of Councilman Savidge, the matter was continued until Monday, to give the council an opportunity to look into both sides of the controversy.

CANDIDATE EXPOSES CORPORATIONS

The following eplatie, teeming with "inside dope" on local conditions, is the platform of Dan Corcoran, candidate for mayor, being circulated as a letter. Until he entered the campaign Corcoran was in charge of the bottling works for the Klamath Development company, and prior to that was connected with their White Pelican bar.

To the Citizens and voters of Klamath Falls:

In view of the fact that I have declared myself a candidate for the majority of this city, it is only fair and just that I should let the people know what policies I intend to pursue, if elected.

I have always taken a deep interest in municipal affairs, as I have studied these conditions since I graduated from college. I was appointed chief deputy assessor of the city of St. Louis at the age of 22, and I was in a position to know what the financial condition of acit y should be as regards the assessment of revenue. Afterwards I held the position of superintendent of streets for eight years, and am thoroughly acquainted with the construction of streets, sewers and sidewalks.

I will endeavor to explain as lucidly as possible what the people of Klamath Falls need in the upbuilding of their city. Good streets, good sewers, good water, free from pollution, for the protection of the health of the children and inhabitants of this city. I believe in the immediate construction of sidewalks to enable the people to get free delivery of mail; but this should all be done with economy and be compatible with the financial conditions of the city.

I have had a conference with Postmaster Delsell on the subject of free delivery, and he is heartily in accord with my ideas and promises to do his utmost to accomplish this if the sidewalks are built.

The wet and dry question is up to the vote of the people. If the city goes wet, the law shall be enforced. If the city goes dry, it shall be as dry as the Desert of Sahara, and no blind pigs shall flourish in this city.

Now, the most painful part of my statement comes in attacking some of my opponents, but I am in duty bound to retaliate, as they are continually attacking me before the people. I have been accused by the "Nicholas faction" of being a protegee of the Klamath Development company; while, on the other hand, the "Murray faction" claims I am the candidate of the Water, Light and Power company. I will state for the information of the people how I stand as regards those two giant octopuses who have invaded our fair city and fertile valleys, tainting and poisoning with their pestiferous breath what their voracious appetites cannot devour. What has the Klamath Development company done? It has even tried to take away the very homes of the people and leave them destitute. What has the Water, Light and Power company done? It is slowly, but surely squeezing the energy, life and blood out of the people by its exorbitant rates to accelerate the dissolution of its victims.

Now, if the voters and good people of Klamath Falls will only pull aside "The Shades of Oblivion" they will see quietly reposing behind the curtains—in one corner the sanctimonious Mr. Murray, with his hands tied, willing to obey the will of his lord and master, "The Klamath Development Company." On the other side, "Rip Van Winkle," our present chief executive, who has just awoke from a two years' slumber to find out that there were some streets to be plowed up in Mills' addition, and that the city charter demands that the streets should be kept in a sanitary condition. This is the candidate of the Water, Light and Power company.

I will even go further and state that those candidates whom I have referred to have even invaded the sacred precincts of our churches to disturb fervent but unobtruding piety. Churches were built to God; not for the benefit of selfish politicians.

Let the people weigh each candidate on the scales of justice and decide on election day whom they want for mayor. Civil dissensions should cease among the people, and everybody act as a unit to make Klamath Falls the center of the coming Inland Empire of the West.

As a finale, I will state that if I am elected mayor of Klamath Falls, under my administration I will endeavor to make it a city of "Golden Rule," with equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

DAN CORCORAN.

A bazaar and dinner will be given Monday at the White building by the Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church. Already people are looking forward to this opportunity to secure fancy work, etc.

A meeting of the members of the organization in charge will be held tomorrow afternoon at the church, to complete arrangements for the affair. All the members are urged to attend.

"AUNT NANCY" SAYS SHE IS "NOT GUILTY, BY GRAVY"

I went over to Mrs. Joneses one day last week to borrow a settin of eggs, and when I come back, Si was actin up something terrible. "Gosh dang their goshdanged onery hides!" he kept shoutin, so loud I knowed any body passin couldn't help to hear him.

It was some time before I could get him kammed down. Come to find out, it was one of them there pieces of Polly Perkins that had got him riled up so.

"There ain't no use talkin, Nancy!" he hollers. "You got to take up your pen again in Klamath Falls! Folks is accusin YOU of writtin them goshdanged pieces! Your writtin may be like a few grains of wheat in a bushel of chaff, Nancy," he shouts, "but gosh dang it, there ain't NO wheat in Polly's." (Now I don't want to hurt Polly's feelings. I was young once myself—a long time ago—and by the time Polly gets as old as me, I reckon she may get to be as notorious as I be.)

Everybody here in the Basin knows I ain't got no book-learnin. I never got no chance to get no schoolin. But when I've got something to say, I don't stand back for no one, if I ain't no college graduate. I write narchical just like I talk—just the way I've been used to talkin all my life; and I don't have to go and consult no novels of western life in order to get a line on the "vernacular."

You know what the Bible says about prophets never been taken very seriously amongst their most intimate friends—or words to that effect: and that was kind of the way in my case. The folks here in the Basin didn't seem to set as much store by my writtin as strangers done, so I've been doin some writtin for some papers that has a little bigger circulation than them here. (I don't mean the Merrill Record, neither, by that.) Also, me and Si took a little trip down to The Bay and while I intended to write a few lines to the papers here while we was gone, I took a spell of rheumatiz down there in sunny Alibon on account of the fog and damp around the Bay and wasn't able to write.

I did try to get a stenographer or two to do some writtin for me, but they seemed to think my grammar wasn't just the kind they had been learned in the business college and evidently found some other faults in my way of expressin myself; also they seemed to feel kind of stuck-up and above me because I didn't wear the same styles of clothes they did and I didn't feel free in their society so I cut out writtin. Beats all how high-toned some stenographers is, anyhow.

But to go back to Si, I just had to promise him to write some more pieces for the papers here, so folks would know Polly wasn't me and vixy werry.

The other day when everyone in town was cleanin up, it put me in mind of the spasms they was havin down to The Bay when we was there, about THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

Some of the women that had a real lofty sense of the artistic and didn't have no menfolks in their families dependin on paintin billboards for a livin, was a-movin heave nand earth to get them billboards tore down. Other folks was tryin to get the grimy old housefronts washed off or painted and others was insistin that the city wouldn't never make much of an esthetic showin till the refugee shacks was all tore down; and altogether, they was raisin a regular hellaballoo.

Some folks was talkin about it in the streetcar one day and I got so riled up that I just couldn't help a-buttin in.

"Madam," says I to one old lady, about my age, I should judge, though she looked a heap younger, never havin cooked for hayhands or thrashers nor milked no cows nor done no washin or scrubbin—"Madam," says I, "What IS a CITY? Is it a collection of houses with people livin in them, or is a city a collection of people livin in houses? The way I look at it," I says, "a city is a collection of people livin in houses; and if we are goin to have a CITY BEAUTIFUL we had ought to start in on the people."

"Madam," says I, gettin more riled up all the time, "I have walked miles and miles along your water front—and me with the rheumatiz, too— watchin the men at work that makes this town what it is; for what would any seaport town do without its longshoremen? And I have saw lots and lots of beautiful horses at work—horses that was well fed and well kept—but I haven't saw many beautiful men!"

"Yes, ma'am!" I went on, so fast she couldn't get in a word edgewise, and her a-lookin mad as hops at me over her glasses—"you could put public parks and boovyards all over this old town and tear down all the billboards and paint up all the houses and put boKays in all the windows and sprinkle the streets with Florida water—but you wouldn't have no CITY BEAUTIFUL as long as you had hunchbacks and cripples and little children and old women sellin papers in the rain and fog, and the 'breeze' that keeps 'dear old Frisco' healthy—at least not to my way of thinkin. Beautiful people is people that has beautiful bodies and beautiful minds and beautiful souls as well; and you can't even have beautiful bodies unless folks has enough good plain grub to eat and as much shelter as dumb animals has to have; and as for souls—"

Just then the conductor hollers "Twenty-a-e-v-en-th!" and the old lady climbs off in a hurry; but she took one last shot at me. "I see very plainly that your sense of the esthetic ain't had no cultivation." And I didn't have no chance to say anything back because the car started up just then.

Up north of Market one day we was hurryin to catch a car when I seen a queer-lookin little creecchure hobblin along the sidewalk. His legs was cut off at the hips and he had leather pads on the stumps of his legs, like shoe soles; and he was sellin pencils to keep his soul and what was left of his body together. I ain't one of the shriekin kind but I felt like I could holler when I looked at him! He stood and waited for someone to help him on the car but no one made a move.

Finally Si gave a kind of snort and grabbed the poor feller and histed him aboard the car. Made Si puff, too. He ain't as young as he was when we come over from Rogue River forty-odd year ago; but I'm frank to say I ain't felt so proud of my old man as I did right then, since he rode the worst outlaw in the Basin without pullin leather.

Si bought every pencil the poor feller had. He handed him a gold piece and says he, "Just keep the change, sonny!" like gold pieces growed on the sagebrush here in the Basin! But I didn't have the heart to contrary him none. And he blowed his nose and sneezed till everyone in the car was lookin at him. That night he says to me, "Nancy," says he, "if we don't start for Klamath pretty soon, we'll have to write for moneey to get home on!"

But I just can't keep from thinkin about that CITY BEAUTIFUL proposition. If we are goin to have BEAUTIFUL CITIES we have got to have BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE; that is, people with beautiful bodies and minds and souls. And to do that, everyone must have good grub and fresh air and enough exercise but not too much to injure them, and a chance to get an education and time to THINK and find out for themselves that they have got souls; and when that is did these BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE will mighty soon make an end to them ugly billboards and shriekin auto whistles and slums and Barbary Coasts and beggars, because really BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE couldn't possibly live and be happy in anything but a CITY BEAUTIFUL.

Yours for the real CITY BEAUTIFUL. AUNT NANCY, Klamath Falls, Ore., April 28, 1914

TURN WATER INTO ANKENY DITCH ON FIRST OF MONTH

Several Tentative Abatement Plans Have Been Suggested, Among Them The Furnishing of City Water to the Owners of Water Rights Under the Ankeny Ditch, But Nothing Definite Has Been Done.

Friday morning water will be turned into the Ankeny ditch, the way through the city which for years has been a menace to the health of Klamath Falls, and for the abatement of which there have been suggested a myriad of plans. Workmen are engaged in cleaning out the ditch.

There have been several schemes advanced during the past year for the closing of the ditch, but so far none of them have accomplished anything. In the meantime the irrigation season is with us again, and the reclamation service is obliged to furnish irrigation to those holding water rights under this ditch.

"We are still negotiating for the closing of the ditch, and don't intend to let up on the fight until it is conclusively shown that it is hopeless," said Project Manager J. G. Camp of the reclamation service today. "Pending that time, though, we must furnish water to those entitled to it."

The latest solution offered for the closing of the ditch is the closing of the canal and the furnishing of city water to those using water from the ditch. Those in favor of this plan say that the cost would be very slight, as the city water mains are already on the property affected.

JOHNS For REPUBLICAN Governor Give this Job to a man who will reduce Taxes and cut down expenses. If you had an interest in a private business you would want it conducted on business principles. You have an interest in the affairs of this State. The State of Oregon is a business institution run for the benefit of the people in it who, in a certain sense, are stockholders in its business interests. TAXES MUST BE REDUCED! In the coming primary election, Charles A. Johns, of Portland, will ask the vote of every person who believes the State of Oregon needs to have taxes reduced and expenses cut down. The only way to reduce taxes and cut down expenses is to apply the same principles in running the State that you would apply in running your own business. How many institutions would run along with an increase of operating expenses from year to year? Not many. Well, let's reduce our taxes and cut down our expenses. Charles A. Johns, of Portland, is running on that platform and stands on his platform. Get him on the job! Start thinking about this today! Will you elect a man who will cut down expenses and reduce taxes, or a politician, as our next Governor? The issue is clear. One will cut down taxes—the other will give jobs to his political friends. Which do YOU want? Paid Advertisement.

Notice to the Stockholders of the Klamath Water Users' Association: You are hereby notified that pursuant to a resolution of the board of directors of the Klamath Water Users' Association duly made and entered on the minutes of said board held in the association office, rooms 17 and 18 Maddox-White building, Klamath Falls, Oregon, Saturday, March 28, 1914, the call for the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Klamath Water Users' Association was made, and that said annual meeting will be held in the Houston Opera House, Klamath Falls, Klamath county, state of Oregon, Friday, the 5th day of June, A. D. 1914, at the hour of 2 o'clock p. m. of said day.

That the purpose for which said annual meeting is called is for the election of a board of five directors for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business as may regularly come before said meeting.

You are further notified that at said annual meeting the following amendments to the by-laws of the Klamath Water Users' Association will be submitted for your acceptance or rejection, to-wit: That section one (1) of article four of the said by-laws as amended be amended to read as follows: Section 1. Revenues necessary for the accomplishment of the purposes of this association shall be raised by an assessment thereof from time to time as required upon and against the share holders. No assessment shall be declared by the board of directors to be delinquent within less than thirty days after the time for levying the assessment. That section two (2) of article four (4) of said by-laws be amended to read as follows: Section 2. No subscription of stock shall be accepted unless accompanied by the full payment of an amount in money equal to all assessments previously levied by this association on lands subscribed thereto, and the previous assessments herein referred to shall be determined by taking the aggregate of all assessments heretofore levied by this association. Assessments paid on shares of stock cancelled at the instance of the association within three years after April 1, 1905, for the Loomis building, in the city of Klamath Falls, Oregon, within six months from the first day of May, A. D. 1914.

Section 3. All certificates or other evidence of the ownership of shares of stock in this association shall have the seal of the association affixed; provided, however, that no certificate of stock or other evidence of ownership of stock in this association shall be issued until the full amount levied by the secretary of the interior under public notice upon and against the shares and lands represented thereby, and until the full amount of all assessments previously levied by this association upon and against the shares and lands represented thereby shall have been paid by the owner thereof. Dated at Klamath Falls, Oregon, this 23d day of April, 1914.
