SAYS BAD WATERING CAUSES POOR LAWNS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 25.—Bad watering is the cause of almost as many poor lawns as droughts, according to the landscape gardener of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Frequent watering of merely the surface of the grass, makes the roots of the grass grow near the surface, and these roots should be made to grow down as deep as possible in order to secure a fine lawn that will resist the hottest weather of summer. The best method of watering the grass is to apply a spray for from 6 to 12 hours, the stream being so gentle that water will not collect in sufficient quantities to run off. The water will then sink down into the soil and the roots will grow to a greater depth. When this method is used, the lawn should not be watered oftener than twice a week and then the ground should be soaked, so that the water penetrates for several inches beneath the surface. As a general rule, watering once a week is sufficient to keep a lawn in good condition.

The man who enjoys watering his lawn in the evening for a half hour after returning from work will probably prefer this method to leaving the stream on for a number of hours once each week. If he will divide his lawn area in 6 parts and confine his attention to a different part each evening, he will obtain practically the same results in the long run. Haphazard watering every evening is not advisable. He should be careful, also to use merely a gentle spray, and not continue watering to such an extent that water runs off, as such water does no good. In fact, it may do harm, for it may remove loose dirt from the grass roots and expose them to drought. The strong stream of a hose should not be used, as it helps to expose the roots unnecessarily.

Many people wonder why drought dries up their lawns in July after they have taken what they consider to be good care of them. The combination of hot winds and dry weather makes July undoubtedly the hardest month for lawns, and when the roots of the grass are encouraged to grow near the surface by bad watering, and the loose dirt is also removed from them by a hose of strong water power, the results are more disastrous than if the lawn had been left alone.

Interesting to the Ladies

BY MARGARET MASON

(Written for the United Press)

(Written for the United Press) There's Sireno and Fie, Clarissa and Mimi, and Irmingard, chic, and Irene, Georgette and Adora, Bonita and quaint Rosalona; There's Edna, Felicia, Cosette and Patricia, Camilla, Ailine and Marie; And this is no harem— You take 'em and wear 'em; They're names of the new lingerie.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Even if your underwear doesn't answer all the requirements of modesty and propriety these days it simply must answer to a name or it isn't up-to-date. Most any deluded husband casting a weather eye over his wife's shopping list and catching such items as "one modern Dorothea trimmed in pink ribbon" or "one pink and white Bottina, medium weight," would hastily offer to do her shopping for her. Quite the best he would get, however, would be a combination or a nightie not forgetting a good sized bill.

Just fancy calling your chemise by a pet name. You see they run in sets. For instance, there is the Marcelle combination, the Marcelle envelope chemise, and the Marcelle nightgown, all very Frenchy and made, of sheerest batiste banded in pink and white striped madras. Think how embarrassing it would be to get mixed and call your domestic machine-made Eloise combination by a hand-made name; it simply wouldn't do at all. They really don't go in the same set, you know.

Aside from the novelty of naming the new lingerie there are lots of novelties in the cut, materials and trimmings also. More and more color is creeping into the underwear and dainty pink particularly faintly blushing against my lady Fashion's satiny skin. The trimming of the nightgowns, combinations, chemises and drawers in bands of pink and white, blue and white, or lavender and white striped Madras is very quaint and Frenchy, especially when the material proper is of sheerest French batiste. Bands of one-toned old blue, rose, pink and lavender batiste is also very desirable as trimming as well as bands of thin flowered organdie and lawn. Sets of all-over flowered organdie, lawn and chiffon are lovely beyond words and also beyond price except for the handy home dressmaker who can copy these expensive imported delights for little or nothing, as the flowered material especially requires little trimming save a narrow lace banding or a tiny edge.

The envelope chemise is perhaps the most popular of the many novel cuts. It is a regulation chemise down to the knee, when the back of the skirt part is narrowed into a flap effect that passes between the knees and fastens up on the front edge of the skirt a la envelope. The combinations of flesh-color chiffon, accordeon plaited, and guileless of shoulder straps that are held up over the bust and under the arms with an elastic band around the top are very practical for the transparent and low-cut evening bodices now in vogue. The three striking characteristics that differentiate the lingerie of today from that of yesterday are: first, simplicity of cut and trimming in lieu of the fluff and flubdub of the lace frilled things we used to wear; second, use of colored and figure material; and, third, sheerness and transparency. Nowadays underwear doesn't conceal anything—not even its real name.

Organdie not only plays an important part among the lingerie this season but also as a frock accessory. No matter of what material your gown, taffeta or crepe, gabardine or cotton fabric, it may have a touch of sheerest white organdie either as a surplus front, a gladstone collar or puffed undersleeves.

Paris muslin which has all the transparency and the general effect of organdie, which can be laundered much more successfully is a wiser substitute for the thrifty, however. As a hem on such thin material never looks well, to be really smart and correct, the edges of your collar, sleeves and surplice must be finished with a hand-done picot edge. For the very, very hot days to come, adorable fluffy whole frocks of organdie especially is ideal for the ruffles and puffs of the moment and as cool as it is charming.

It is believed that the scene of the next big battle will be at Queretaro. This city, south of San Louis Potosi and east of Tuxpam, is the key to Mexico City. General Villa and his forces will begin to move southward immediately. Owing to the railroad between Saltillo and San Louis Potosi being wrecked by the Federals, Villa will transport his troops via Monterey and Tampico, thence to San Louis Potosi route.

United Press Service EL PASO, May 22.—As a result of the evacuation of Saltillo by the Federal forces, military activity in Mexico has been transferred to the south central part, leaving Northern Mexico entirely in the hands of the Constitutionalista forces. It is not expected that the Federals will make any big defense of San Louis Potosi. This is already being besieged by rebels under Torres and Gutierrez.

SURVEY BUTTE VALLEY ROUTE

Surveyors under the supervision of Engineer O'Connor of the California Highway Commission and Road Commissioner Barr of Siskiyou county, are now at work surveying the highway from Weed, California, to the Oregon line.

This road, when completed, will be a part of the California State Highway, branching at the state line with one road leading by Klamath Falls to Crater Lake, and the other winding out by the Klamath Hot Springs and Ager.

SILLIMAN IS IN MEXICO CITY NOW

MEXICO CITY, May 22.—John R. Silliman, American vice consul at Saltillo, reached Mexico City today, in good health.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The Brazilian minister at Mexico City today wired the State Department, congratulating the arrival of Silliman. He is safe at the Brazilian consulate.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 22.—Indications are that the mediators will refuse to formally receive Carranza's representative, although Huerta's envoys leave this matter up to the mediators. Vasconcelas will be regarded as a "newspaperman," free to be present in an unofficial capacity. He came here, at the suggestion of Secretary Bryan.

A Six Pound Son.

If the affairs of the Klamath Water Users Association get somewhat tangled in the next few days, the blame can be placed entirely upon the son of Albert E. Elder, a Sunday afternoon arrival. According to "Deek", there is no where a healthier, stronger, brighter little fellow than this six-pounder, and with visions of the cherub in his mind, he finds it hard to give attention to dry columns of figures.

Minimum Wage for Timbermen Is Urged

United Press Service SOUTH BEND, Wash., May 25.—Following the recent cut in wages paid by sawmills of the county, timberworkers here have appointed a committee to draft a minimum wage scale. The movement is expected to become state wide. Union officials say any reduction below the proposed scale will be fought at any cost. J. G. Brown, president of the International Timberworkers' Union and C. J. Folsom, union organizer, impressed the importance of a minimum wage on a meeting of timberworkers here last night.

The proposed scale will be based on the wages paid at present except those paid in mills where a recent reduction has occurred, and will be patterned on the international scale for shingle workers.

SAM EVANS GETS THE NOMINATION

Completion of the official returns shows that Sam Evans has been nominated for congressman in the Second District by the Democrats. Evans received 180 votes, and his nearest competitor, J. Harvey Graham of Baker received 126.

Evans will oppose Congressman N. J. Sinnott at the November election. It is the local man's intention to make a strong campaign.

Thousands of rural teachers in the southern states receive less than $150 a year.

One-half the population of France is engaged in agriculture.

The loss by evaporation and considerable of its danger is eliminated by a new system of storing gasoline which is used by a London concern. Air is always excluded from the storage tank by making use of water, which fills the space which is not occupied by gasoline. In other words, the tank is always filled completely, no matter how much the quantity of gasoline varies. As the gasoline is drawn off its place is taken by water.

and as the two do not mix, the gasoline is not in the least affected by the close presence of the water, the latter always seeking the lower part of the tank.

SUMMONS. In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Klamath county. Joseph S. Seeds, plaintiff, vs. Alice Seeds, defendant.

In the name of the State of Oregon: You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit, on or before the 6th day of July, 1914, that being the last day of time within which the defendant is allowed to answer herein as fixed by the order of the court for publication of summons herein; and if you fail so to appear and answer, the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in the complaint filed herein, to-wit: for a decree of said circuit court of the State of Oregon, for the county of Klamath, forever dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between the plaintiff and defendant, and for such other relief as to the court shall appear just and equitable.

This summons is published in the Semi-Weekly Herald, a semi-weekly newspaper published at Klamath Falls, Oregon, by order of the Honorable Henry L. Benson, Judge of said Circuit Court, dated the 21st day of May, 1914, directing that such summons be so published once a week for six successive weeks. Date of first publication, May 25, 1914.
