CONGRESS CONSIDERING PROHIBITION BILL

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 1.—A postponed meeting of the house rules committee to consider the order of a special rule for presentation to the house of the Hobson national prohibition amendment was scheduled for today.

Suffragist leaders threatened to complicate an already delicate situation by a demand that if a special rule expediting the national dry amendment consideration goes, that similar action be taken regarding the Mondell woman suffrage amendment, or that it be tacked on to the regular legislative program.

Chances appeared to be small for presentation of either amendment to the house during the present session.

YOUNG MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

What might have been a serious accident for the "innocent bystander" occurred Friday, when Garrett's new spreader was being operated.

One young man who was witnessing the work was struck amidst the stream of oil, but luckily escaped with a ruined suit.

The work on Eighth street being done by the Garrett Construction company is nearing completion and the grade on Third street, which is being prepared for macadamizing by the same company, is practically established.

The asphalt mixture and oil was first put on Eighth street Friday. A new spreading machine has been secured by Garrett and it was used in the process.

On Third street the heavy blasting has practically been completed. The curbing has been put in from Main to High street and the rock which will be put on for the base is expected to arrive any day.

CHAMBER FAVORS BETTER ROADS

At a meeting held Friday at the White Pelican by the chamber of commerce at which J. H. Alberts of Salem, a member of the executive committee of the Tri-State Good Roads Association, and Will G. Steele, superintendent of Crater Lake National Park, were guests, the following resolutions were adopted:

"The Klamath Chamber of Commerce urges you to include in the state highway trunk road from Medford east to the national forest reserve, also a road from Klamath Falls north to the national forest reserve. Both of the named thoroughfares to connect with government roads to Crater Lake."

Talks were made by a number present, the most important by Mr. Alberts and Superintendent Steele, who talked of plans of improvement for the showing of Klamath's beauties and wonders to the outside world.

The chamber of commerce decided to give the county court every inducement possible in the building of better roads and to favor the bonding of the state for state highways.

BENSON DENIES NON-SUIT MOTION

The motion for a non-suit made Friday by the attorneys for the defendant in the trial of Mrs. Pearson vs. Big Basin Lumber company was denied by Circuit Judge Benson and he ordered the trial to proceed.

The motion for non-suit was based on fourteen counts, among which were that at the time of Pearson's death he was not in the employ of the lumber company but was working for Charles Thomas, a contractor for the company.

The evidence for the plaintiff was completed Friday and Saturday morning the witnesses for the defense were placed on the stand. The examination of witnesses continued throughout the day.

SWAN LAKE FIRE UNDER CONTROL

A large forest fire has been burning the last few days in Swan Lake Valley and Friday the smoke became so conspicuous in the direction of the Algoma mill that many thought the mill was being consumed.

The fire, however, is west of the Applegate ranch, and Fire Warden C. C. Chitwood has a force of fifteen men on the spot with the fire practically under control.

The origin of the fire is not known, but it is thought to have started from the burning of slashings at the Algoma mill. A large force of men was also sent out by the mill people to fight the fire, as it is close to their timber and also might threaten the mill itself.

George Ashley, formerly an agent for a well known motorcycle company in this city, is now in the possession of a Harley-Davidson, of which he is justly proud.

EXPLAINS CAUSE OF DYING CATTLE

McCALL GIVES CIRCUMSTANCES OF POISONING

Owners Had Been Warned Away From Place, But Cattle Turned In Field Through Misunderstanding; Poison Had Been Spread In Vast Quantities to Check March of the Grasshoppers.

Following the poisoning and death of twelve head of cattle from eating paris green on the old Culbertson place in Wood River Valley, the poison placed there in an effort to check the grasshoppers in the fight now being made against them by County Agriculturist McCall, and the evident intent to place the blame on his shoulders, McCall issues a statement explaining the situation.

The hoppers have done much damage and ruined several crops in that section. County Agriculturist McCall was called to help check the onslaught.

Mr. McCall states that the cattle were evidently turned into the field on account of a misunderstanding or from lack of caution by the owner to regard the warnings issued to the farmers until after a rain had minimized the danger of poisoning.

According to McCall, the cattle belonged to K. Loosley and Jack Pelton instead of James Pelton, as reported. The signed statement and explanation follows:

"Because of the death of cattle belonging to Pelton and Loosley at Fort Klamath from poison placed for grasshoppers many might be afraid to use the remedy recommended for fear of similar losses. For this reason, and also to correct the reports current regarding the matter, an explanation is made.

"In this particular field on the Culbertson place was the worst of the grasshopper infestation and accordingly all of the preliminary work in checking them was done there. When all mechanical means of catching the grasshoppers failed, the poison was tried and in this field the poison was placed. All of the references on the poisoning hoppers recommend the placing of the poison mixture in drills or piles in front of the hopper advance and this was the first method tried. This did not prove effective and later the thin broadcasting method was tried. With this method there is no likelihood of stock, even if in the field, getting enough of the poison to hurt them, but even then the recommendation was to keep them out until after a heavy rain. In this field where the application was in bulk the poison was dangerous and under no consideration should cattle have been placed in such a field until after a very heavy rain.

"A statement has been made that I was forbidden to place poison in this field. I was told to go ahead and find the effective way to combat the grasshoppers. Any such prohibition did not reach me. I understood that everyone knew of the presence of the poison in the field, as I made a report to a general meeting held in Fort Klamath of the results of the trials and the success of the poison method, and it was general knowledge that this field was the only one where any work had been done. Warning was also given as to turning stock into fields or pastures before rains.

"The whole affair is the result of an unfortunate misunderstanding. If the printed directions are followed and the preparation scattered accordingly, it is very doubtful if any bad results would follow even with cattle in the same field, but to be on the safe side all stock should be removed until after a heavy soaking rain. This, of course, applies with double force where scattered in bulk.

"M. A. McCALL, County Agriculturist."

UNION SERVICES FOR OREGON DRY

DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS ARE ENDED

FRENCH FOREIGN OFFICE REFUSES THE EXPLANATION DEMANDED BY GERMANY

British Cabinet Perfects War Plans After Long Conference—Ambassador Herriek Asked to Act in Germany's Behalf in Paris—German Ambassador Leaves St. Petersburg.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—At noon today was issued an order for the general mobilization of the armies of France for Sunday.

FLASH—ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1.—The formal declaration of war from Germany will be conveyed to the foreign office tonight by the German Ambassador.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 1.—The report that the German Ambassador had left St. Petersburg was given out from the White House today.

American Ambassador Myron T. Herrick today cabled the plans made for the American ambassador to take charge of Germany's affairs in the French capital. These plans are now being considered. It was also stated in the cable that the "European reports were not favorable."

PARIS, Aug. 1.—It was semi-officially stated here this morning that the German ambassador at St. Petersburg had received his passports, and was en route to Berlin. The foreign office refused to make any comment on the report.

At noon a News dispatch from Berlin, via London, said that German relations with Russia had been severed. The czar was given until noon to answer Germany's ultimatum, but at that time no reply had been made. Both countries are making arrangements to have their affairs handled by a neutral power. It is expected that the United States will be asked to act for both countries.

It is understood that the French ambassadors have been informed by Russia that the terms of the treaty between the two countries makes it obligatory on the part of France to support Russia in case of war.

When the news of the orders for mobilization reached the public the crowds went wild. The foreign office was surrounded by a wildly cheering mob.

Undoubtedly the German ambassador will ask for his passport tonight. Ambassador Herriek has been asked to act in the behalf of Germany during hostilities.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The French embassy here today confirmed the report that yesterday the German ambassador demanded that the French foreign office explain the intentions of France. He stated that he would call at noon today for the reply.

It was stated this afternoon that the reply of the French foreign office was that "France must consult her own interests at this time." No further information was furnished by the German ambassador.

Telephone communications between France and England were suddenly cut off at 1:55 this afternoon. The cause is not explained, and it is causing much apprehension. The channel cables were at their busiest time, when they suddenly went dead at Lands End, as if the cables had been severed. It is possible that France has ordered the military operators to cut out the switchboard.

The British cabinet has perfected its war plans after a lengthy conference. It is admitted that the situation is extremely serious. The war fleet is being mobilized in the North Sea.

Under secretaries and attaches of the French, German and Russian embassies have left London, to join their regiments.

A member of the French embassy made the following statement to the United Press: "Everything depends on England. If England will inform Germany that her navy is prepared to strike, there will be no war. Otherwise, the situation is hopeless."

PARIS, Aug. 1.—The Germans have cut the wires on the frontier. French and Germans are awaiting the signal.

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—The government has ordered all German shipping to go to the nearest neutral port.

It is semi-officially stated that the emperor has interrogated the French foreign office as to its intentions in case of war between Russia and Germany, and it is also admitted that the tenor of France's reply was not favorable.

NISH, Aug. 1.—The war office admits that the Serbians are retreating along the southern bank of the River Drina, and that the Austrians are advancing. It is evidently Serbia's plan to draw the Austrians into their territory.

ROME, Aug. 1.—Germany is bringing pressure to bear on Italy to make a statement as to her attitude. It is generally understood that Italy will remain neutral, if possible.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—An unconfirmed report is afloat that the German ambassador, Vonshoen, has left Paris for Berlin.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—It is reported that Germany has declared war.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—The British ambassador called on Elysee and formally informed Viviani that England is prepared to stand by treaties and to co-operate with France in connection with present crises. During the cabinet conference, Viviani explained the situation. The British ambassador said that England endorses France's position and would support her.
