Klaamth Farmers Will Be Greatly Passed, as Their Assessment in December Will Be 42 Cents an Acre, instead of $3 per Acre as Under the Present Reclamation Law

Back from Washington, where he was sent by the Klamath water users to work for the passage of the reclamation extension bill, comes Abel Ady, president of the local association. Since he has been in Washington, and largely through his efforts. the bill, which previously had passed the senate, is now through the house.

"The bill as passed by the house was amended to require payment of a 5 per cent instead of a 2 per cent installment by the entryman," said Ady. "This does not affect the Klamath project.

"An amendment added provided reclamation service goes before congress asking for appropriations like the rivers and harbors or similar improvement funds, but simply requires congress to approve of the estimates and apportionments, making alterations if deemed advisable. If this AROUND SALEM should be found to be hampering, a new congress could repeal this
