SHOULD WRITE A BOOK

IF JUDGE WORDEN must unburden his mind on the long suffering public of all his personal troubles, we believe it would be more appreciated by the people of Klamath county if he would write a book.

The public has no interest in what Mr. Long said; or what Mr. Lysle, or Mr. Day, or Mr. Worden may have said. The county court made a grave mistake when it permitted itself to enter into a secret agreement with the Weyerhaeuser company or any other corporation for the management of the county business.

We are of the opinion that Judge Worden would not be permitted to manage the business of the Klamath Development company, or any other concern, if he was continually running to the stockholders with his troubles and complaints about being double crossed by some other concern.

THE CITIZEN'S DUTY
THE ballot to be voted November 3rd contains over thirty initiative measures, which, if adopted by the people, will become state laws.

But what are these measures submitted to the voters of the state at large, and what is the effect each will have upon social or economic conditions in Oregon?

The people of Oregon took a progressive step in advance of the entire nation by adopting the initiative and referendum. By this, they took upon themselves the responsibility of making laws by ballot.

The outcome is being watched by the whole nation. Will the result of the November voting justify this great responsibility in the eyes of the nation, or will it brand the "Oregon system," as farcical?

Under the initiative and referendum, there is no line drawn as to who shall and who shall not draw up initiative measures. Necessarily many freak laws are drafted, and many others are submitted, which, apparently innocent, will, upon close study, be found to be in the interests of certain classes, and a real detriment to the state and its people.

There is only one way to make sure regarding these measures. That is by carefully studying the arguments in the pamphlets and the provisions of the measures. Then point out the benefits and the dangers in them to your friends. See that they are registered, and that they cast their votes in the way best to serve the interests of the state.

Those who will be chiefly benefited by any selfish bill will see to it that all of their supporters are registered. It is the duty of those opposed, therefore, to do their share toward getting out a sufficient vote to defeat the harmful measures, as well as to adopt the beneficial one.

Registration in Oregon is a duty. The studying of the numerous initiative measures is another. Still another is to see that your friends are registered, and that they vote after giving the initiative measures intelligent consideration.

Society Notes

The department of home economics of the Women's Library Club, which department is under the direction of Mrs. C. V. Fisher, held its first meeting in the basement of the Library Club building Friday, at which time plans for the work to be carried on were outlined. The fact that fifteen new members were received into the Library Club at this meeting attests the interest women are taking in the new lines of work taken up by the organization.

The Women's Library Club is in receipt of an application from the county library to place a case of books in the Women's library, as one of the deposit stations. This has been referred to the library board for consideration.

Cards, dancing, and an impromptu "birthday rush" were features of a highly enjoyable affair given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Evans in Hot Springs Addition Thursday night. After invitations had been issued, it was learned that the date was also the birthday anniversary of one of the guests, Miss Ruth Saucerman. At the party she was the surprised recipient of a shower of kitchen utensils—a shower so big that the elongated upper extremities of A. Oehler were taxed for carrying capacity on the homeward trip.

In addition to the regular members Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brockenbrough were guests of the Entre Nous Club, which met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Worden Tuesday night. At the conclusion of play a splendid supper was served by the hostess. Members of this organization are Dr. and Mrs. Maxwell M. Long, Mr. and Mrs. West, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Worden, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hogue, Mrs. Geo. R. Hurn, Miss Jennie Harris.

The Friday Pelican Club was entertained by Mrs. English Friday afternoon, and card honors were won by Mrs. Gus A. Krause. Refreshments were served by the hostess, and Mrs. Louis Gerber, Mrs. A. R. Campbell and Mrs. Mills were present. In addition to the club membership: Mrs. J. C. Brockenbrough, Mrs. Fred Schallack, Mrs. Thomas F. Hampton, Mrs. Earl Whitlock, Mrs. Albert B. Hall, Mrs. English, Mrs. Gus A. Krause, Mrs. Louis G. Van Bellen, Mrs. Mary A. Jackson.

Besides plying the industrious needle, the members of the Art Needle Work Club and guests assembled at the home of Mrs. George Chastain Wednesday afternoon, took up for discussion the question of re-opening the Southern Oregon Normal school at Ashland, and the other normal schools in the state which were closed a couple of years ago. A straw vote was taken on this, and it was found that the assemblage was unanimously in favor of voting for reopening all these institutions at the November polls.

During the afternoon dainty refreshments were served. Mrs. C. C. Chitwood, Mrs. W. C. Davenport, Mrs. John McCall, Mrs. J. B. Mason, Mrs. S. Edward Martin, Mrs. Albert M. Worden and Mrs. Harry Goeller were present at this session, in addition to the club members, who are Mrs. R. E. Wattenburg, Mrs. Carey M. Ramsby, Mrs. J. F. Goeller, Mrs. Karl G. Cummings, Mrs. Henry Newnam, Mrs. George Chastain, Mrs. Geo. A. Wirtz, Mrs. R. H. Dunbar, Mrs. C. C. Hogue, Mrs. George R. Hurn, Mrs. Sam T. Summers, Mrs. F. M. White, Mrs. G. W. The recent visit of Professor H. T. French, leader of farm extension work in the state, was the occasion of a reunion with some former pupils of the professor when he was on the faculty of the Oregon Agricultural College some years ago. Archie Worrell, who has been in the employ of the government at the office in Crater Lake National Park, returned on Saturday. Worrell states that besides the road crews, Ranger Momyer and one other man are all that remain. Ranger Momyer will stay in the park until the snow drives him out.

Engagements of minor importance are occurring in the region of the Woevre. Artillery conflicts progress along the entire front. The situation is not changed in the Vosges and Alsace. The allies are advancing, and there is fierce, continuous fighting at the southwest angle, where von Kluck

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

BY MARGARET MASON (Written for the United Press)

Though Susan and Sally Are not of the ballet, Their new skirts are all short but sweet; For since it's their passion To follow the Fashion, They've cut them about two small feet.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—I saw an exhibition of imported garments at a big department store this week that had run the gauntlet from Paris to Havre packed in huge osier baskets and lashed on the back of a touring car. They seemed not the least bit the worse for the wear of war.

The most striking feature of the whole collection was the fact that each and every skirt was cut off short to the tops of high shoes. Possibly their hurried journey, instead of making them arrive breathless with short "pants," had acted in a similar manner upon their skirts. Whatever the cause, however, the effect is an exposure of well turned ankles that seems barely skirting the conventions.

Next to the shortness of the skirts, the most startling note is the almost total lack of anything tangible in the bodices. Positively they consist of merely a wisp of tulle passing over each shoulder for a high girde to cling to desperately.

Naturally this is only true of the evening gowns. One of the prettiest of these is of pale pink velvet, with a high girde and a tunic that is long on one hip and short on the other. The underskirt is of white satin and between it and the pink velvet upper tunic an intermediary tunic of exquisite gold embroidered net.

The bodice of course consists merely of a slight drapery of the gold net and white tulle caught up on each shoulder with a small gold embroidered ornament. A charming model for a debutante is of palest pink taffeta with a skirt of four corded flounces flaring out quaintly like a veritable ermine. A full rose nestling in the high girde and billows of softest blush (I should think it would) pink tulle, reveals a snowy throat and perfect arms to the best advantage.

Another striking evening gown of black lace over white satin has a wide piece of the black chantly caught at each shoulder that falls behind straight to the floor like a train. Another novel use of black chantly on a black velvet gown precludes the wearer from any wild gesticulation. The lace is caught up on each side of the girde in front, passed over the shoulders like a cape the width of the lace being the whole length of the arms. It is sewed up into long tight sleeves, through which the arms are slipped, and then the lace keeps on its way around into the circular cape effect, and is caught in the middle of the girde behind. Hence the wearer looks as if she had sprouted a pair of Chantilly wings, which she undoubtedly finds very irksome when she feels her back hairs needs fixing.

Among the suits and afternoon frocks fur is all and everywhere. Fitch skunk and our old friend, the beaver, are the favorites. The newest collars shown on the coat suits are deep flat effects that reach from the shoulder to shoulder in the rear without intruding in the front a little bit. They are mostly of the fur, but a few are developed in heavy silk or velvet. Black velvet, by the way, and black satin form most of the afternoon gowns, while gabardines, velvets and broadcloths compose the smartest suits.

On the gowns and waistlines are perfectly long and either tight fitting, or showing the loose straight line. The separate waists and blouses to the coat suits all show the high waist line. In the whole collection there isn't a frock or a suit that doesn't have some glint of a gold ornament, a shimmer of sequins, a gleam of jet, or the shine of a button or bead.

Continuous fighting is apparently confined to the two extreme wings. The west line extends almost to the frontier of Holland.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 10.—President Wilson and Henry Watterston, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, have been exchanging letters, and it has been arranged that Watterston will call at the White House soon, and bury the hatchet. Recently Watterston wrote Wilson, regretting the president's indisposition, and saying his disability would be a national calamity. He sent another note of condolence over Mrs. Wilson's death.

Braves Win the Opening Game

By HAL SHERIDAN

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—George Stallings and his Boston Braves today demonstrated that they have still more surprise packages up their sleeves than their phenomenal rise in the National League, for they continued these surprise tactics into the world championship series by defeating Cornelius McGillicuddy's world beating Athletics in the opening game by a score of 7 to 1.

For the first time in his career Big Chief Bender was humiliated in a world series game. His control was bad, and he was forced to his limit, while the pitching of Rudolph opened the eyes of the Athletics.

There never was a more surprised bunch of fans than the 20,562 who paid in a total of $49,630 to see today's game. In fact, never in the history of Shibe Park has there been such a surprise slipped over the Philadelphia fans, who have been given good cause in the last decade to think that Connie Mack's aggregation is invincible.

For once, these Philadelphia fans admitted that Connie Mack's wonderful machine was classed. They were forced to admit that Collins, McInnis, Baker and Davis were outgussed and outbatted, for the Stallings invaders had it over them at every stage.

In the batting the National League champs also were way ahead of the Athletics, and they hit Chief Bender for eleven safe hits. The fielding of the Mackmen was perfect, but the assault directed against it by the Bostonians tore the great Philadelphia machine to pieces, and broke up all attempts to play inside baseball.

One of the surprises was the work of Pitcher Rudolph and Catcher Gowdy for the Stallings contingent. These are two men who were discarded by "Muggsy" McGraw of the Giants as useless, but who, in the Hub of the Universe, have developed into stars. Rudolph kept his head at all times, and allowed only five hits.

Chief Bender was on the firing line for the Athletics. Although he has participated in the penant races with the Athletics in 1905, 1910, 1911 and 1913, last year taking two decisive games, this is the first time that the Indian has lost a world's series game.

Following is the summary: Score by Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9—R. H. E. Boston . 0 2 0 0 1 3 0 1 0— 7 11 2 Hits . 0 2 0 0 2 3 1 3 0 Athletics 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1— 1 5 0 Hits . 1 1 0 1 0 0 0 1 1

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 9.—All Indiana, in accordance with a proclamation issued by Governor Ralston, is observing today as Fire Prevention Day. Different methods of observing one day are being followed throughout the state, but they all take up means of preventing fires.

In many of the schools of the city patriotic exercises were to be held. The fire chief and several prominent citizens were expected to address the children on precautions that should be taken against fires. The state fire marshal's office took a prominent part in arranging the exercises throughout the city and different towns in the state.

Two years ago, at the suggestion of the Indianapolis Trade Association, Indiana citizens first observed Fire Prevention Day. Many other states were quick to take up the plan.

Governor Ralston, in his proclamation, urged the citizens to inspect their furnaces and flues today. This, he said, would be the means of preventing many blazes.

One Big Buck. Harry Ackley, John Ackley, Dr. Cathey, Dr. Johnson, C. H. Underwood and E. B. Henry returned Wednesday night from a deer hunt at the North Fork of Rogue River. Dr. Cathey was the only successful hunter, and he bagged a four-point buck which weighed 180 pounds dressed.

KLAMATH TRIALS ON AT MEDFORD

Klamath Indians are much in evidence at Medford, as the cases which are usually taken up in Portland before the federal district court are being tried at Medford before Federal Judge Wolverton.

Besides the Link River Beall case, disposed of last night, a second Klamath reservation homicide is to be tried. This is the trial of Jim George, who is charged with the murder of Peter Brown, following a drinking bout at a dance at Plute camp.

Brown and George left together, and later Brown's body, with bullets in the back, was found. There have been about 100 Indians subpoenaed for these and other cases. As a result, the bootlegger has become active in Medford, and the Medford police Wednesday evening arrested a man who admitted the sale of intoxicants to the red men.

The heating contract for the new building at the University of Oregon was awarded to a Portland firm at a price $200 higher than a contractor from outside the state, in order to favor Oregon material and construction.
