Four SHS seniors earn Elks scholarships

Seaside High School seniors Calvin Pollard and Allison Kilday were each awarded $1,000 scholarships by the Seaside Elks Lodge. Will Kendall and Tennaya Carr will each receive scholarships of $500.

Exalted Ruler Jerry Lounsbury said that these "Most Valuable Student" scholarships are awarded for superior scholastic accomplishment, as well as outstanding qualifications of citizenship and leadership, using judging criteria from the Elks National Foundation.

The applications of these four award winners will be forwarded to Tillamook Elks Lodge to compete for further awards against other students in the Northwest District on Jan. 24.

Seaside Scholarships has one week to raise $5,000 to hit its goal

Only $5,000 from its $50,000 goal, Seaside Scholarships has extended its fundraising campaign to the end of January.

To donate or for up-to-date information, visit seasidescholarships.com or the group's Facebook page.

An anonymous local donor gave $50,000, raising awareness about the drive and challenging Seaside Scholarships to match. In less than two months of fundraising, Seaside Scholarships has raised $45,000 toward the match. Donations ranging from $5 to $20,000 have been received from 89 donors.

The goal of the non-profit organization is to make a variety of postsecondary options more affordable for Seaside High School students. Through scholarships, the group wants to invest in meritorious, needy, passionate and promising graduates.

PEO awards scholarships to three local women

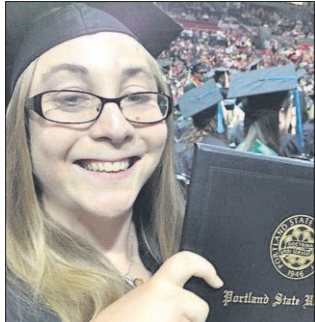

Three local women received awards from PEO, an international philanthropic educational organization.

Those receiving scholarships were:

- Evelyn Castro, from Seaside High School, plans to attend Clatsop Community College to pursue a career in nursing.

- Laura LaLond earned a PEO Oregon Scholarship toward a master's degree in health management and policy at Portland State University. Her specialty is in reproductive, prenatal and pediatric epidemiology.

- Lindsey Mizell received a PEO Oregon Scholarship to apply toward a master's degree in medical speech pathology at Portland State University. She plans to specialize in swallowing and cleft palate rehabilitation.

Seaside PEO Chapter CR was established in 1953. Since 1999, Chapter

CR has awarded 78 scholarships amounting to over $73,000. Scholarships and loans are awarded to women of all ages.

The primary fundraiser is an annual plant sale, with all profits going to the scholarship funds. Plant orders begin every January, with delivery the weekend before Mother's Day.

For information, contact Khris Frank at 503-810-5196 or kdfrank52@hotmail.com or visit the PEO website at peointernational.org

Students receive music scholarships

Three Seaside High School musicians have received music lesson scholarships from the Astoria Friday Musical Club.

Fiona Bonn, clarinetist, will study with John Hammond; Ryanne Sunnell, French horn, will study with Michael McClure; and Adam Morse, baritone, will study with Susan Buehler.

Others who were selected include:

- Andrew Conrad, cellist, Astoria High School, and Jaden Rainey, cellist, Astoria Middle School, will study with Judy Woodward.

- Charity Fleck, violinist, Ilwaco High School, will study with Angela Calvin-Pederson.

- Julie Foss, violinist, Astoria Middle School, will study with Angela Calvin-Pederson.

- Enoch Gray, baritone, Astoria High School, will study with Susan Buehler.

The Music Lesson Scholarship program provides music instruction to recipients who have submitted an application and who have been recommended by their high school music instructor or private instructor. Students are required to participate in a course of instruction beginning in January and ending in May with a student recital performance May 3.

Through their course of study, students are paired with instructors who have expertise and experience in music instruction and performance and who are recognized as leaders in music. The mission statement of the Friday Musical Club is "to further musical excellence" and the Music Lesson Scholarship program is dedicated to that statement.

Following their four-month instruction, which culminates in a public performance, students are encouraged to continue private instruction throughout their high school career, which may ultimately lead to scholarships at their college or university of choice.

Friday Musical Club is affiliated with Astoria High School Scholarships, Inc., and donations to the scholarship fund are eligible for a 501(c)(3) tax deduction. Additionally, the scholarship fund is supported by club membership dues, club and community members, Lund House concerts, and the Patricia Friedland Fund of the Oregon Community Foundation. For further information about the Friday Musical Club and/or the Scholarship Fund, contact Buehler, chairwoman of the Scholarship Committee 503-436-0378 or vsbuehler@gmail.com.

SHS students to perform Motown memories

A night of Motown is planned Jan. 23 at 7 p.m. in Seaside High School.

Members of the school's chamber choir and musical revue class will sing and dance its way through some of Motown's biggest hits, including "Stop in the Name of Love," "I Want You Back,"

"Just My Imagination" and more.

All proceeds will go toward sending the choir on their first tour in over 10 years.

Tickets for premium seats are available at the school office prior to the show for $8, or pay $5 at the door.

Camp Rilea's history focus of lecture

Local author Andrea Larson Perez will discuss her book, Camp Rilea, Thursday, Feb. 5, in the Seaside Public Library.

Sponsored by the Friends of the Seaside Library, the program will begin at 7 p.m. in the community room. Book sales and signings are planned afterwards.

Camp Rilea, originally named Camp Clatsop, was founded in 1927 and soon became the Oregon National Guard's preferred training site. Located in Warrenton, the camp covers 1,800 acres and includes three miles of beachfront.

Andrea Larson Perez will describe the role Camp Rilea has played over time. Since the early days, the training center has offered maneuver areas, facilities and ranges assisting military units, law enforcement agencies and public safety organizations. From the time of Brig. Gen. Thomas Rilea in 1931, to the present day, the camp has provided the armed forces training and support crucial for the country's security.

Perez, a native of St. Petersburg, Fla., moved to the lower Columbia region in 1994. She has a degree in public relations from California State University and is married to Col. Dean Perez, the post commander at Camp Rilea. This is her first book.

Photos by Maine, Wing to be displayed at library

Original nature photography by Neal Maine and his grandson, Michael Wing, will be displayed at the Seaside Public Library from Feb. 3 to March 3.

Titled "Images of the Oregon Coast," the exhibit will hang in the foyer and community room of the library, 1131 Broadway.

Maine and Wing established Pacific Light Images, a partnership that is dedicated to raising public awareness about the North Coast's natural resources through nature photography. Their work centers on coastal and Columbia River landscape, ecology and estuary habitat. Maine focuses his imagery on wildlife in the context of its habitat, while Wing's specialty is capturing action images that illustrates the dynamic nature of coastal wildlife.
