Groups team up for day of service

KATHERINE LACAZE/SEASIDE SIGNAL

Helping Hands Reentry Outreach Center's women's shelter in Seaside was buzzing as volunteers painted and landscaped during the Day of Service.

"We wanted to have activities that fit each age group and that would be comfortable, so everyone would have something they could contribute within their ability," organizer Shannon Symonds said.

The Day of Service is put on annually by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. The Rainier Stake — which includes wards from Seaside, Warrenton, Astoria, Rainier, St. Helens, Scappoose and the Long Beach Peninsula — selected Seaside as its focus area for the community service event. Symonds, who joined the Helping Hands board of directors a few weeks prior to the event, selected the Helping Hands cause with her husband Scott. She and Scott are co-chairs of the Day of Service this year.

Family and friends of church members always are encouraged to attend, but this year, the stake joined forces with Our Saviour's Lutheran Church and Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church for the Day of Service. About 150 people showed up to volunteer, Symonds said.

Astoria's Camilla Ward has participated in the event in the past. She said the joint effort this year was a nice touch.

"I think this year has been even cooler, because we've combined with other faiths," she said.

Lisa Herr, a Warrenton resident, said she appreciated the groups venturing outside their own organizations to serve the larger community.

The group worked throughout the morning, and then gathered for a potluck on the beach about 1 p.m.

During the potluck, Symonds said, one of the youth shared what the Day of Service means, emphasizing service to others as a way to serve God.

"We believe that everything we have is a gift from God and should be passed on through service and in any way we are able," Symonds said.

"We're here as God's people, because we are so blessed to be a blessing to others," Pastor Rob Sachs added. "It's in that spirit, I believe we come together."

The youth car wash raised about $170, which went to Helping Hands. Church members who couldn't attend still pitched in by putting together loads of sheets, towels, pillow cases, hygiene kits and other items for Helping Hands clients, Symonds said.

A number of local businesses and agencies helped facilitate the event by offering parking lot space or donating materials and equipment. Those donors included NAPA Sunset Auto Parts, Pacific Paint, All Rents, Sherwin Williams, Ace Hardware, Westwind Landscape Supply, Borland Coastal Electric, Quackenbush Builders, Coastal

Members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints' Rainier Stake held their annual Day of Service in Seaside on Sept. 19. They were joined by congregants from Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church and Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, along with family members and friends.

Roofing and Repair, the Seaside Safety, City of Seaside, Seaside Parks & Recreation, Sunset Empire Parks & Recreation, Dr. Roof and Adamson Bro's Mixed Martial Arts and Jiu Jitsu Academy.

"In a community, we should all work together," Symonds said. "I really love seeing the city get together to serve."

'Let's Go to the Hop' with Rotary of Seaside

The Rotary Club of Seaside and the Rotary Foundation present their annual dinner and auction Saturday, Oct. 10, at 5:30 p.m. at the Seaside Civic & Convention Center. The theme this year is "Let's Go to the Hop!"

This is the single largest fundraiser of the year for the Seaside Rotary Foundation and allows the foundation to assist in serving the needs of the local and international community. Programs include scholarships and international youth exchanges for high school students; upgrading the Broadway Park field lights for greater access to all age groups in the community, sponsorship of the all-night alcohol-free and safe Seaside High School grad night party, the Wishing Tree program providing holiday presents to hundreds of area children and families, supporting the needs of senior citizens, providing water and sanitation in remote villages in third world countries, and the eradication of polio worldwide.

Bid on auction packages such as an Irish adventure in an Irish cottage on 12 acres on the Kenmare Bay; a commercial crabbing trip for five on the Captain Raleigh; or an Appalachian Mountain Cabin retreat in North Carolina.

Tickets are $60 per person and $600 for a table of 10. Costumes are encouraged, but not mandatory. Win a prize for the best costume. For questions, contact auction chairwoman Sandy McDowall at buffysam63@gmail.com, call (503) 717-2266, or go to Facebook and key in "Seaside Rotary Auction 2015: Let's go to the Hop" on the search bar for event information and a registration link.

Providence Seaside names new chief operating officer

Janiece Zauner, M.S.N., R.N., was named chief operating officer and chief nursing officer for Providence Seaside Hospital. Zauner has been serving in this position on an interim basis since April 2. Zauner has held many roles since starting work with Providence in 1992. She has served as a nurse manager, business and project manager at Providence Portland Medical Center, and as regional director for clinical operations, before taking on her current role at Providence Seaside. She has a proven track record of driving excellence in patient care and relationships.

While at Providence Portland, Zauner played a crucial part in the implementation and roll-out of the Releasing Time to Care project, in collaboration with Care Oregon and several other local hospitals. This work was based on similar work in the British National Health System, making Providence Portland one of several best-practice facilities in the U.S. in improving patient care and clinical outcomes.

Zauner holds a master of science degree in nursing, is a member of Sigma Theta Tau, the national honor society for nursing and is board certified as a nurse executive.
