GULLS NAMED ALL-LEAGUE

Seaside Signal

Astoria senior Trey Hageman was named Player of the Year, and the Fishermen landed eight players total on the Cowapa All-League baseball team, as voted on by the league's coaches.

Joe Baumgartner of Banks and Astoria's Glen Fromwiller shared the Coach of the Year honors.

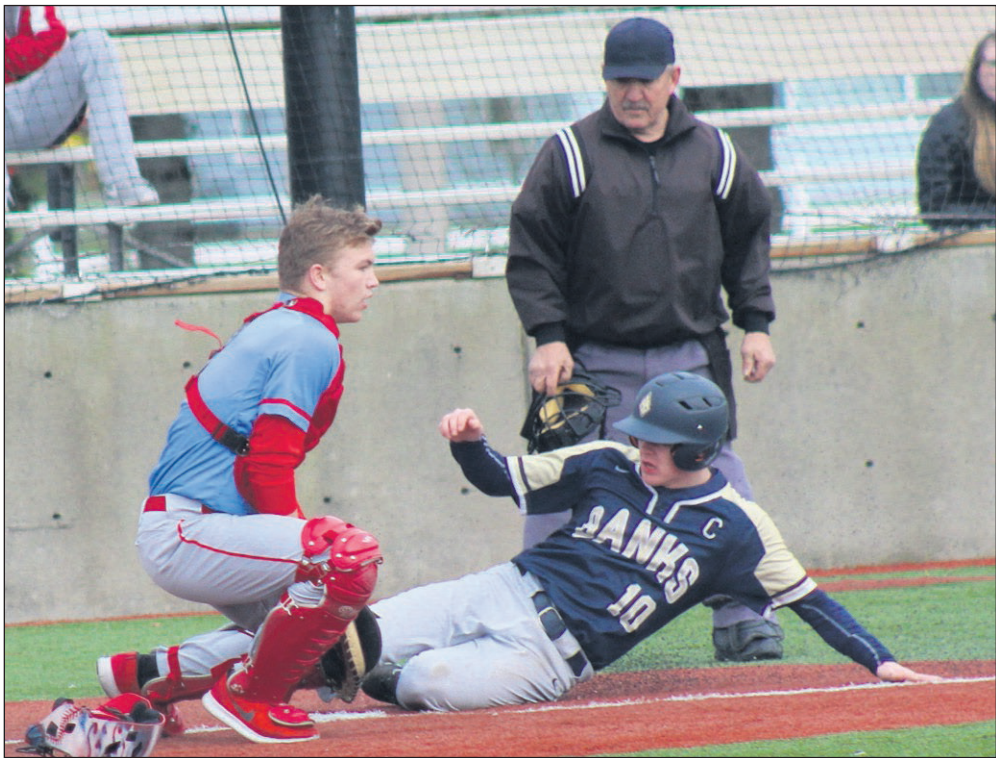

Five catchers in the six-team league were named all-league, and Seaside junior Alex Teubner was one of three catchers on the first team. He was joined by junior teammate Payton Westerholm, a first-team shortstop/pitcher.

Other Gulls earning all-league status were senior outfielder Astor Landwehr and sophomore pitcher Brayden Johnson, both selected honorable mention.

RIGHT Seaside's Astor Landwehr was one of two Gulls who received honorable mention recognition.

Five Warrenton players earn all-league honors

The Daily Astorian

Not surprisingly, the two dominant teams of Lewis & Clark League softball also dominated the league's all-league selections, as voted on by the league's coaches.

Rainier junior Taleah King was named Player of the Year, to go with nine of her teammates who joined King on the all-league team (six first-team, four second-team). Rainier's Jim Knox was selected as the Coach of the Year, as the Columbians came up short in the 3A state championship game to Dayton, which defeated Rainier 3-2 Saturday.

Clatskanie finished second behind Rainier in the league standings, and lost to Dayton in the state semifinals. The Tigers had seven players named all-league, including three freshmen on the first team.

Warrenton finished third in the league standings and had five players on the all-league team, including senior pitcher Niqui Blodgett and sophomore outfielder Kenz Ramsey on the first team.

Junior Claire Bussert was
