

A Seaside firefighter responds after a Subaru crashed into McDonald's in Seaside.

Car crashes into Seaside McDonald's

Seaside Signal

A Subaru Outback crashed into the Seaside McDonald's on North Roosevelt Drive Monday morning.

Just before 10 a.m., Seaside Police and Seaside Fire and Rescue responded to a report of the accident at 225 South Roosevelt Drive.

The car had apparently jumped the curb and crashed into the front of the building at the entrance.

No one was hurt, according to Fire Chief Joey Daniels at the scene, including the driver of the Subaru and a passenger.

The investigation is continuing.

Seaside sues Shilo for back taxes, again

By R.J. MARX
Seaside Signal

The Shilo Inn in Seaside owes the city more than $45,000 in hotel room taxes.

Seaside wants to collect and has filed suit in Circuit Court. With penalties and interest, the total sought is more than $58,000.

According to the complaint, Shilo Inn "continues to withhold the payment of these taxes, notwithstanding numerous demands" by the city.

The city also seeks reasonable attorney's fees.

This isn't the first time Shilo Inn has fallen behind on taxes.

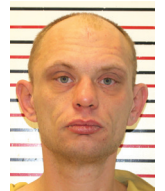

In 2016, Seaside sued the company for delinquent taxes of more than $112,500. Shilo Inn paid out almost $146,000 in back taxes and penalties.

Earlier this year, Warrenton sued Shilo Inn after more than $130,000 in lodging taxes, penalties and accrued interest went unpaid.

Representatives of Shilo Inn did not respond to requests for comment.
