Derek Alan Gascoigne

Seaside
Jan. 2, 1961 — June 1, 2022

Derek Gascoigne

Derek “Derk” Alan Gascoigne was born Jan. 2, 1961, in Corvallis to Jim and Peggy (Johnson) Gascoigne. Shortly after he was born, his family moved to Astoria, where his younger brothers, Ken and Paul, were born.

After spending his formative years in the Astoria School District, Derk graduated in June 1979 from Astoria High School.

After high school, Derk attended a meat cutter school in Cottage Grove, then was employed as a meat cutter for Gene’s Meat Market in Mehama.

Derk’s son, Alan, was born in October 1986. The birth of his son was one of the best days of Derk’s life.

Always looking for his next adventure, Derk was drawn to many careers throughout his life. He found his professional home and his work family as a tax preparer, bookkeeper and all-purpose accountant for William MacLean in Seaside.

At long last, Derk fell in love with his soulmate, Colleen Gould, as well as her two sons, Nick and Mitchell. In April 2007, along with Alan, they all became a family when Derk and Colleen married.

Derk treated all three of his sons as his own, and made lasting impressions on both them and their friends by offering his support, and his home, whenever it was needed.

As a child, his parents taught Derk a solid work ethic, which he demonstrated throughout his life. This ethic was also demonstrated in one of his favorite activities, swimming. He spent hours on Astoria’s swim team preparing for many competitions.

Derk had a passion for the extreme. He loved being a daredevil with his younger brothers. Sometimes he made it through these challenges unscathed, and even more rarely, he confessed to his parents his epic adventures.

Derk loved the outdoors, and spent as much time as he could camping and fishing. As a youngster, many family summer trips were made to the Willows, a favorite destination for both Derk and his father, Jim. When he met his wife, Colleen, he truly found his equal in his love of nature.

Derk’s other great love was his motorcycle. He continued to love it, even after a major accident as a young adult that left him in a partial body cast.

To those who loved him,

Derk can best be described as respectful and considerate, with a kind and gentle soul. Whenever he faced a challenge, his positive attitude and strong work ethic would always see him through.

Derk is survived by so many who cared about him, including his wife, Colleen; son, Alan; stepsons, Nick and Mitch Stephens; mother, Peggy (Gascoigne) Snyder; stepfather, John Snyder; brother, Ken Gascoigne, and his wife, Janique; brother, Paul Gascoigne, and his wife, Allison; brother and sister-in-law, John Gould and Beate Wilson; half-sister, Krista Toole, and her husband, Ken; half-brother, Jim Shepherd, and his wife, Andrea; and step-siblings, Reuben and Leah Snyder.

Derk also had aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews, cousins and friends who will miss him dearly. He was like a second father to many of his sons’ friends, who will continue to hold him in their hearts.

Derk passed suddenly, and unexpectedly, from a heart attack. He was preceded in death by his dad, Jim Gascoigne, and both sets of his grandparents.

In celebration of Derk’s life, an open house will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. on July 16 at the Warrenton Community Center, 170 S.W. Third St. in Warrenton. Please bring stories to share.

Arrangements have been made through Hughes-Ransom Mortuary.

Estie Frier-Brown

Vancouver, Washington
March 16, 1930 — May 12, 2022

Estie Frier-Brown and Bud Painter

Estie Frier-Brown was born in a farmhouse in Arkansas in 1930. Her two sisters were Ola (Connie) Heller, of Vancouver, Washington, and Alveriah Dreisus, of Ashland. Soon after, her baby brother, Olan Canamore, known as Ole, was born.

The three sisters were baptized in a small rice pond in a pasture outside of Brookland, Arkansas, in the 1930s. Her father, Olan Canamore, was born in Arkansas, and was in the U.S. Army, stationed at the Vancouver, Washington, barracks. Her mother, Beulah Davis, was born in Vancouver, the only girl of nine boys (the Davis clan).

Estie came out west to Vancouver in 1945, where she went to Shumway Junior High and Vancouver High School, Class of 1949, in Vancouver. She married Harry Frier, and they had two daughters, Denice and Bonnie Frier, who each had two children.

Estie worked at a beauty shop after school, and later attended beauty college in downtown Portland. In 1959, Estie helped open the Seaside Restaurant and Lounge in Seaside, at the Turnaround, now the Shilo Inns Seaside Oceanfront. She soon opened Estie’s Tap Room with Bud Painter down on Broadway in Seaside. Later, she opened the small Bon Dee Restaurant, formerly the White Spot, located on the opposite side of the Pig ‘N Pancake to Estie’s Tap Room.

Estie’s brother, Olan, was part owner of the Top-Of-Scott Steakhouse in southeast Portland. She bought out Olan’s partner to go in business with her brother. Later, Estie and Olan bought the Harmony Inn in Portland, and she renamed it Brother’s Club, and they had it for the next 13 years. Later they built a bar and restaurant at the Gresham Golf Course and called it The Bon Heur (which meant good hour). They also had the Estie’s Hide Away on Oregon Highway 212 in Clackamas. Her brother’s wife, Jackie, renamed it Ole’s Medium Rare.

In 1969, Estie gave her brother power of attorney of the businesses and flew to Taipei, Taiwan, and married Ed Right, a chemical engineer out of Seattle. She returned to Oregon for the birth of a grandson, and Right went missing out of Saigon.

In 1975, she married Norm Brown, now deceased, in Vancouver. She then managed the bar at the Vancouver Elks Lodge No. 823 for 20 years. She joined the women’s auxiliary of the Elks in 1989, the Emblem Club No. 473, which she continued until her passing.

Estie loved to golf, downhill ski, sew, knit, crochet and dance. She loved to play house, and she had an enormous amount of dishes! She would set up for any occasion you could imagine! She loved her home and working in her yard.

Once she retired from the Elks, she really missed seeing all her friends whom she loved, and they loved her. Estie treated people like she wanted to be treated; she truly loved people. She had a few sayings, “whip whip” and “if you have a problem, rise above it.” She had many good memories, right up until the end of her life.

She is survived by her daughter, Bonnie, and many grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She is preceded in death by her daughter, Denice.

A memorial service was held on Monday at 3 p.m. at Evergreen Memorial Gardens, 1101 N.E. 112th Ave. in Vancouver.
