Good work earns recognition for Washington Grade School pupils

Washington Grade School graduates Kari Bowen and Bill Busch were recipients of the Paul Gordon Awards at commencement exercises this month.

Criteria for the awards, which go to one boy and one girl, are academic achievement, athletic participation, leadership and citizenship.

Amy Abbott and Mary Crawford shared the James T. Johns Award for the most improvement and growth from 7th to 8th grades.

Scholarship Awards for Outstanding Academic Achievement went to Bowen, and seventh graders Brian Jensen, Laura Schlenker and Cameron Svenson.

The Presidential Academic Fitness Award, which requires a minimum of B+ in all elementary grades, plus scoring in at least the 80th percentile for any Standard Achievement Test, was also awarded to Bowen.
