dangle a synthetically flavored herring. Avoiding that and the gill nets, the acid and sludge illegally dumped by industries, the Indian set nets and dip-pers, finding fish ladders and fighting the wildly varying wa-ter flows which are dictated by power patterns — not fish pat-terns — he almost makes it, but someone has illegally dammed the creek to make a stock pond.
Muddled, suffocated, poi-soned, minced, munched, starved, netted, hooked, blocked. It's a wonder there are any fish left.

To the Editor:
Columbia County voters:
When we go to the polls on November 6th there are two names we should have on our list that we must vote for.
Joan Dukes, under very trying conditions, has proven to be very courageous, in the loss of her husband, caring for her children and manage-ment of her district with its dif-ferent ideas on the issues of exports and fishing, through it all she held her composure.

We have worked with Joan during legislation and know she gets the job done.
The other person is Bruce Hugo, without a doubt the most effective representative the First District has ever had.
Bruce is constantly working for us, he has the respect of all his colleagues and has the clout to get things done.

Endorses Maki

To the Editor:
We need a person of expe-rience, integrity, down to earth family values with a quick mind for problem solving. Someone who knows the area, is forthright and able to clearly define the issues and come up with creative answers to our problems.

Mike Maki is my choice for State Representative because I have seen him define, ver-balize and solve any number of thorny issues. I have found him to be dependable and positive and he runs a clean campaign based on the issues without resorting to mud slinging.

He and his wife, Helen, have cared for a number of young people in their home without receiving reimburse-ment for their expenses. This compassionate attitude will be translated into fair treatment for the people of Oregon when he serves as our State Representative.

I hope you will make Mike Maki your choice also.
