City Hall gets a brand new look

Vernonia City Hall has a sparkling new interior, thanks to the work of dedicated city employees who volunteered their time and efforts.

The city purchased tile, carpeting and paint, but aside from the carpet and tile installation, all of the labor was provided by employees—in their "spare" time—which included nights and weekends.

The office functions of city government were moved into the library during the refurbishing, but City Hall was alive with activity as furniture was moved, walls and ceilings were scrubbed and painted, the heavy wood, brass and marble counter was re-positioned, light fixtures were scrubbed, and much more.

Though most of the work performed was far beyond the scope of the employees' official duties, volunteer help was provided by employees in every city department.
