AOL teacher grants

For the fifth year, Associated Oregon Loggers will present grants up to $1500, each, to educators for improvement of student/teacher education in Forest Resources.

The purpose of AOL's Educator of the Year program is to recognize educators who "provide instructional activities and programs that further a balanced education in forest resources. These programs emphasize the need for active management of forests."

Applications will be judged on techniques used to develop programs and improve student and educator understanding of forest resources.

Nominations and/or applications for Educator of the Year are available from AOL at 1-800-452-6023. Applications must be returned by April 1, 1997.

NWRESA meeting scheduled in Astoria
