

Local students remember flood, now helping others

The children of Washington and Lincoln Grade Schools in Vernonia remember what it was like to have their school flooded. And they remember how donations from so many people helped bring things back to normal.

Because they remember, they worked hard to raise money for a flooded school in Grand Forks, North Dakota. Their efforts resulted in a donation of $1,162.78 to Grand Forks.

Early this month, they received a letter from Sandy Glas, executive director of The Grand Forks Foundation for Education, Inc., thanking them for their "exceptionally generous" contribution, which was directed to the Lincoln Elementary Flood Relief fund.

"Your gift to flood recovery for our schools warms our hearts and strengthens our education community's resolve to make Grand Forks schools even better than before," Glas wrote.

"Thank you for your concern and your generous contribution", the letter concluded.

Watershed group meeting in B'feld

The Upper Nehalem Watershed Council will meet Thursday, July 24 at 7:00 p.m. in the Birkenfeld Restaurant, to update local residents on recent actions of the council and offer opportunities to participate in project development.

Included on the agenda are reports about culvert projects, temperature and spawning surveys, and the habitat restoration jobs program, "Hire The Fishers."

Anyone interested in having water quality or salmon restoration projects done on their lands is asked to attend. All public comment is encouraged.
