Be smart, don't rock the boat

Don't rock the boat when it comes to water safety -

Taking a few simple safety precautions around water may save you a trip to the emergency department this summer. Every year, emergency room physicians treat victims of boating or swimming-related accidents. Many of the avoidable water-related mishaps revolve around alcohol. Providence St. Vincent emergency room physicians have a few tips for summer water safety:

Avoid alcohol when swimming or boating

Always wear a life jacket when boating, even if you know how to swim

Never swim alone

Always supervise children who are in and around water

Avoid swimming in unmarked or unmonitored areas

Keep rescue equipment handy.
