Race for the Cure entries wanted

In 1999, at least 200 Columbia County women participated in the Susan G. Komen "Race for the Cure." Anyone who knows of a team that is participating this year or who would like to join a team, is asked to call Doreen Hocraffer, of the Women's Health Awareness Committee, at Columbia County Public Health, 397-4651.

Among the teams who represented Columbia County at last year's Race for the Cure were Boise Cascade, Team 502 (St. Helens School District); Columbia City Elementary School; Key Title; Health Encouragement and Comfort; and False Labor.

Author will sign books in St. Helens appearance

St. Helens Book Shop will host a signing with northwest author Jane Kirkpatrick on Saturday, Aug. 5, at 1:00 p.m. Kirkpatrick will be discussing and signing her latest title, All Together in One Place, Book One in the Kinship and Courage series, published by WaterBrook

Press.

All Together in One Place is based on an actual 1852 Oregon Trail incident. It speaks to the strength in every woman and celebrates the promise of hope that unfailingly blooms amidst tragedy and challenge.

Kirkpatrick is the award-winning author of two nonfiction books and four novels, including A Sweetness to the Soul, and numerous articles and essays. A speaker and retreat leader, she also works as a mental health consultant on an Indian reservation. She and her husband reside in Oregon.
