

Annual tree sale by Small Woodlands group

The Columbia County Small Woodlands Association will hold its fifth annual Tree Sale on Saturday, March 8, from 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Hi-School Pharmacy parking lot in St. Helens.

Seventeen different species will be available, including Improved Douglas Fir, Chinese Dogwood, Danish Noble, Coastal Redwood, Colorado Spruce, 'Flame' Maple, Giant Sequoia, Incense Cedar, Little-leaf Linden, Maidenhair tree, Noble Fir, Northern Red Oak, Norway Maple, Ponderosa Pine, Quaking Aspen, 'Red'

Maple and Western Red Cedar. The number of Douglas Fir available will be limited, due to a severe frost that affected seedlings at many nurseries throughout the state, so a three bag limit will be imposed. Others should be in adequate numbers, but buyers are advised to arrive early for the best selections.

Qualified foresters will be on hand to answer questions regarding selection, suitability, planting and care. Planting instructions will be provided, if requested. Most of the seedlings are bare root, although several are potted or plugs.

The Columbia County Small Woodlands Association consists of over 150 family forestland owners and adheres to the concept of sustainability and responsible stewardship of all forestland. A number of tours, speakers and other educational activities are sponsored by this nonprofit organization for members and for the public throughout the year.

For more information or membership applications, call President Rod Nastrom at 503-397-5997 or Paul Nys at 503-556-8800.
