chokers for Crown Zellerbach, then Van Fleet Logging, until he was hit by a haul-back block (about 300 pounds) and so many ribs were broken that he was laid up for 6 months. After a stint as a businessman, Joe went to work for Lyman Hawkens, delivering bulk oil and fuels for Standard Oil Company. He managed the Hawkens' operation for a number of years, continuing when the distributorship was purchased by Wilcox & Flegel in 1979, and worked until retiring in 1982.

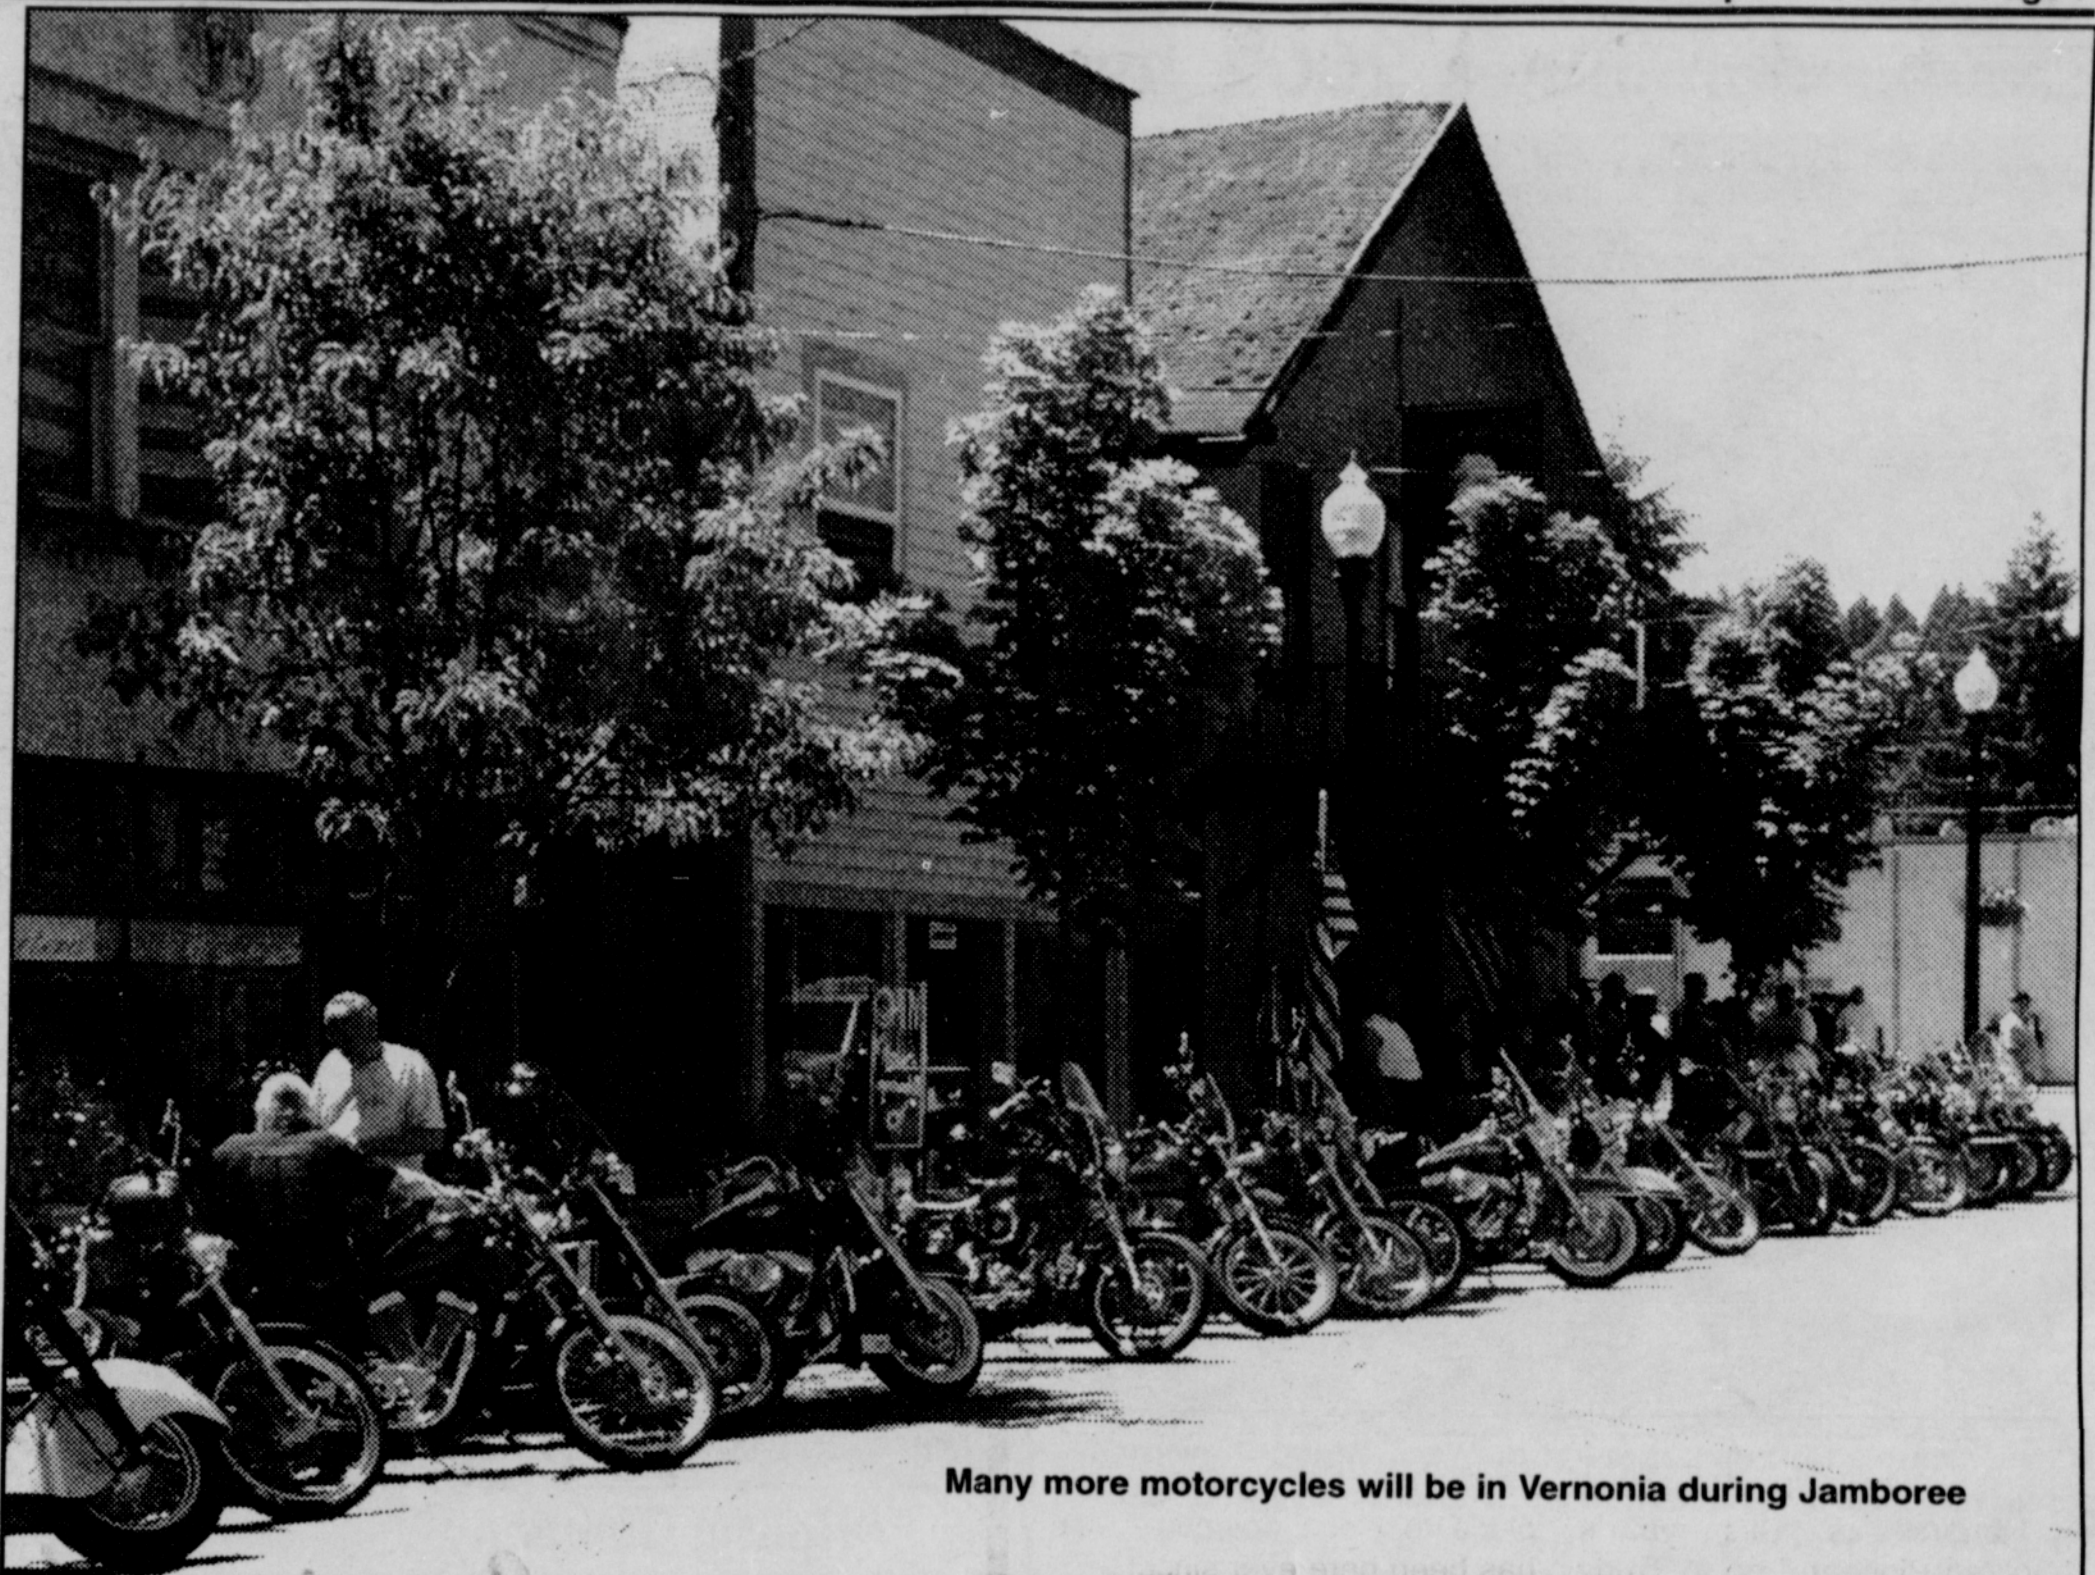

Joe and Trudy have two daughters and four grandchildren who they enjoy very much. Gardening, reading, the senior citizen center and the Grange now keep the Magoffs busy.

Joe and Trudy say they love this small and friendly town, and feel good having lived here for so many years!
