

New law starts regarding electrical work advertising

If you are planning to have some electrical work done in your home or business, look carefully at ads for that service. It is illegal for anyone who is not a state-licensed electrical contractor to advertise to perform electrical installations or repairs in Oregon.

It is also illegal for anyone to supervise or control the making of an electrical installation without a supervising electrician license; to work on an electrical installation as an apprentice without an electrical apprentice license, or to make any electrical installation without a supervising electrician or journeyman license.

Be wary of anyone offering electrical work who does not have a state license. To find out if someone you are considering is properly licensed, contact the Building Codes Division. Their web site is <www.oregonbcd.org>.
